Cafe Inspection Standards Here Reported Tough

By H. L. HOFFMASTER and J. L. SCHMIDT
Star Staff Writers

A Lincoln-based restaurant chain made national news last month by protesting a television series which humorously portrayed a somewhat lax restaurant operation.

The television show is "The Dumpings" and the Lincoln restaurant of similar name was recently ranked, along with 53 other Lincoln eateries, as having sanitation which barely complies with minimum standards.

The irony is neither as vicious, nor the situation unhealthy, as it may appear because Lincoln-Lancaster County restaurant cleanliness standards are tough.

Besides, for Dumping's, the low rating was a first... it usually ranks higher.

And one of the men who apply the standards, K. D. "Mike" Hammar, says he wouldn't hesitate to eat in those restaurants which rank at the bottom of the sanitation ratings. The ratings are issued every six months by the Lincoln-Lancaster County Health Department.

Hammar Heads Section

Hammar heads up the food sanitation section of the department, and he, along with three full-time sanitarians, monitor the cleanliness of about 400 Lincoln food operations.

Staffers pay surprise visits to the operations and measure each one against 118 standards. If a restaurant gathers 31-40 demerits, it is put in the "good-fair" range, the worst ranking it can receive.

Hammar's group uses a checklist which would test any person's kitchen... even grandma's.

For example, one downtown restaurant was given 31 demerits for: having cracked eggs, dirty racks in the refrigerator, not enough ice beneath the salad bar, wrong scoop in the flour bin (didn't have a handle to keep hands out of flour), not using tongs to handle food (like rolls), silverware was laid flat instead of vertical with food contact surface away from customer, a microwave oven with food particles on the door and a wall that needed repair behind the dishwashing machine.

Restaurant operators interviewed generally refused to be quoted, but none seemed to feel that the inspection was not a good thing or that the inspectors were unfair.

Inspection On 'Bad Day'

A tavern on O Street dropped from superior to good last year. The proprietor said she was checked on "a bad day," when the place was "busy as all get-out. What can you do, sure you're gonna have a mess." She is proud of her former superior rating, has it framed and displayed, and intends to get the rating back again.

Restaurant Ratings Listed On Page 5

Lincoln restaurants also face state sanitarians, headed by Herb Wenant, chief of the Bureau of Dairies, Foods and Drugs.

Wenant says one out of every 10 household kitchens could not pass the sanitation inspection his staffers give public restaurants.

City-county sanitarians and state agents use exactly the same criteria, but do not coordinate their activities so restaurants are checked in an unpatterned, surprise way as many as six times a year.

Last year Wenant's division filed "sanitary orders" against eight Lincoln restaurants. A sanitary order forces a dining place to clean up immediately or face closure.

The eight restaurants which faced such action in 1975 were: Scott's Pancake House, 401 S. 13th; Dew Drop Inn, 4815 Cornhusker; Villager Motel, 5300 O St.; Ming Palace, 1309 N St.; Cork 'n Cleaver, 301 N. Cotner; House of the Dragon, 6811 O St.; Sheraton Inn, 12th and Bond; Congress Inn, 2001 West O St.

Conditions at the Ming Palace required a six-page, single-spaced, typewritten report; and the Villager had two sanitary orders filed against it.

Four Closed Temporarily

Four places closed last year, temporarily, in order to meet sanitation standards. Those were: Conroy's Bakery Shoppe, 4725 Prescott; South Street Dairy, 3835 South St.; Automatic Merchandising, 520 Garfield; and the Nebraska Pizza Hut, 2435 S. 48th.

Wenant says all the managers complied with orders and met standards. Automatic Merchandising has since closed.

Despite occasional problems, Lincoln's restaurants rank high when viewed from the national scale.

In a nine-city tour last year, federal inspectors found roaches in food, mouse droppings on shelves, rat infestations, decomposed meat in refrigerators, insecticides stored with food, and filthy refrigerators. The government report concluded that 90% of the restaurants in nine cities were "unsanitary."

The General Accounting Office (GAO), plus the Food and Drug Administration (FDA), which gave such a sickening picture of restaurants in Atlanta, Boston, Dallas, Detroit, Minneapolis, New York City, San Francisco, Norfolk, Va., and Tucson, Ariz., have now said — in a conclusion released this month — "you're doing fine, Nebraska!"

In speaking of other areas, the GAO report criticized restaurant inspection as being "minimal" and "ineffective."

Nebraska System Good

Hammar and Wenant would dispute any such conclusion if applied to Nebraska or Lincoln, and they are backed by the GAO. The government, after checking 100 restaurants in 66 Nebraska cities, says the Cornhusker state's restaurants are generally sanitary and the inspection system is good.

Nebraska is the only state in the central region which has gotten the federal stamp of approval regarding restaurants and inspection systems.

Also, as Hammar says, "we're not encountering any food-borne illness epidemics," nor have there been any verified, individual cases of such illness traceable to a restaurant during the five years he has headed the city-county sanitation office.

In fact, 29.5% of Lincoln's food and drink establishments are superior, according to city-county sanitarians. "Superior-good" ranking is held by 27.2% of Lincoln's eateries and 34.2% are "good." At the bottom, with "good-fair" ratings, are 13.6% of the establishments.

NU Faculty Outside-Income Reports Rare

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Only one University of Nebraska faculty member has filed a statement of outside income as required by a state law passed in 1974 to shed some light on faculty members' true income.

The lone filing for 1975 is not unusual, even though the law directs the state treasurer to withhold paychecks until such reports are filed.

An examination of last year's reports shows only four faculty members reported outside income from professional and consulting activities exceeding $10,000.

As yet, no University of Nebraska Medical Center faculty members, who it is believed account for a sizeable chunk of professional fees earned, have filed such reports.

The law states that the reports on professional fee income exceeding $10,000 shall be filed by Jan. 10 of each year with the state director of administrative services who is supposed to submit the information to the Legislature's Appropriations Committee.

Asked about the paucity of reports, Administrative Services Director Stan Matzke said, "In a sense, it's an honor system. I have no way of determining whether there are other professors making $10,000 or more outside their income from the state."

"I would, however, point out that the penalty is fairly clear."

The lone faculty member who filed a report for 1975 is Don J. Nelson with the University of Nebraska-Lincoln's department of electrical engineering. Nelson reported $17,216 in consulting fees for 1975, including expenses for subcontractors.

Those who reported their consulting income last year are: Frank Forbes of UNO, $15,000 in legal fees, Warren Nielsen, assistant professor at UNL, $21,000, John Brasch, associate professor of business at UNL, in excess of $10,000, and James Thomas, assistant professor at UNO, $12,144.

Matzke said last year he brought the law to the attention of the university administration.

As for the next step, Matzke said, "I will be writing a report to Sens. Richard Marvel and Orval Keyes (the sponsor of the law) and ask them for their suggestions. I will also alert the university to the situation."

"There may be violations but at this time I can't pinpoint any."

If violations exist, the University Medical Center faculty is the most likely candidate. Medical Center faculty members are allowed private practice through the hospital and are not limited in their income from such patients.

An audit of the Medical Center's professional fees office which collects the physicians' private fees shows it operates on a $506,000 annual budget, including $267,000 in salaries for office staff.

Questioned about the extent of Med Center doctors' outside income, Jon Oberg, a member of the governor's budget staff, said, "A reasonable person would conclude that some are making more than $10,000 in addition to their salaries."

His information also indicated Nebraska is the only Big 8 school which does not limit professional fees.

At other Big 8 schools, professional fees average 15.7% of medical schools' budget, at the University of Nebraska Medical Center, 8.1% of the budget comes from professional fees.

"If there is any revenue potential that's untapped, it's the Med Center," Oberg said.

Aramco Takeover Likely

Yamani, Oilmen Huddle In Florida

PANAMA CITY, Fla. (AP) — Saudi Arabian Oil Minister Ahmed Yamani has joined U.S. oil company executives in this resort town for negotiations expected to result in the takeover of Aramco, the giant Arabian American Oil Co., by Saudi Arabia.

The U.S. State Department confirmed that Sheikh Yamani was here for an Aramco meeting Saturday night after two days of speculation about the arrivals of American oil executives under unusually tight security at a local airport.

The 100% acquisition of the largest international oil production company from the previous four American owners — Exxon, Mobil, Standard Oil of California and Texaco — would climax a process begun in 1973 when the Saudis bought 25% of the firm.

It would also symbolize an historic shift in dominant power from the private, Western-owned oil giants to the Third World oil producers.

Yamani says the takeover date will be retroactive to Jan. 1, 1976, and Aramco Board chairman Frank Junger agreed in a recent interview that this was the date tentatively set.

For Aramco itself the changeover is expected to have little immediate impact on either its makeup or its day-to-day operations.

"The character of the company will remain roughly the same," predicted Junger, 46, a career employee from North Dakota who worked his way up from mechanical engineer. "The Saudis are looking for Aramco to remain as it is... it is a success story in itself."

Aramco produces approximately 8.5 million barrels a day, only slightly less than the production of the world's top two producing countries, the Soviet Union and the United States.

Yamani arrived at nearby Tyn-dall Air Force Base on Saturday night after two dozen U.S. oil company officials flew in by private jet to Bay County Airport, which was ringed with private security guards. A pilot of one of the executive jets said he knew three oil companies represented were Mobil, Exxon and Texaco.

The oil companies remained silent about the meeting, with a spokesman for Standard Oil of California in San Francisco saying, "We're not going to say anything. There are four in the group and I don't think any one is going to talk."

After much speculation as to what the weekend meeting was all about, State Department press officer John J. Feeney issued a statement at midnight Saturday. "Some days ago Aramco informed the Department of State that Minister Yamani was coming to the United States and Aramco asked the department to help provide security protection for him."

"Security was arranged on a routine basis between Aramco, the department's Near East Bureau and its security office."

He also noted Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger "was not informed and had no knowledge of this request." Kissinger had told reporters in Atlanta he knew nothing of an oil meeting and had even called Panama City, Panama, trying to find out.

The actual meeting was believed to be at the Bay Point Yacht and Country Club, where plainclothes guards from the Wackenhut Co. were in evidence and helicopters repeatedly landed and took off.

The tight security and vagueness about the site of the talks presumably stemmed from concern about a terrorist attack like the one last December during a meeting of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries in Vienna. Scores of persons were taken hostage, including Yamani, and three persons were killed.

Aramco controls the largest known oil reserves, about 176 billion barrels. Saudi Arabia has the capacity to produce nearly 12 million barrels a day and could quickly become the world's biggest producer.

In fact, Aramco continues to find oil faster than it pumps it from the ground.

Saudi Arabia's suspected reserves are a staggering 300 billion barrels.

Marcos 'Gambling' With Sugar

BAOLOC, The Philippines (AP) — School gymnasiums, swimming pools and churches in this "sugar bowl" of the Philippines have been turned into emergency sugar storehouses in what trade sources say is a gamble by the Marcos regime to force up the sagging world price.

The stockpile of raw sugar has reached record size and some is rotting, the sources said, while the government is trying to sell off as much as possible in quiet deals designed to prevent a further price drop.

President Ferdinand E. Marcos' government took over sugar exports, the Philippines' largest dollar earner, in a 1974 martial law decree, and since then has conducted the trade in secret.

Officials say present stocks are committed but refuse to release trade figures or to be quoted on the situation.

Industry sources said the Philippines' troubles started in 1975, when, with the raw sugar price about 36 cents a pound, the government withheld sugar from the market in hope the price would return toward the 67-cent high of late 1974. Prices continued to fall, however, and the Philippines returned to the market at 16 cents. It is now about 15 cents, the lowest in two years.

Roberto S. Benedicto, Philippine ambassador to Japan and regarded as second in power only to Marcos on sugar policy, has warned producers here "against unduly giving out information about the local sugar situation to foreign agents."

At stake is an export crop that was worth a record $737.7 million in 1974, the best sugar year in history. With prices falling, it was worth $580 million in 1975. All Philippine exports totaled $2.4 billion in 1974 and about $2.8 billion last year.

Trade sources estimated that as of last week, a record 1.2 million tons — more than half of the total crop — was piled up unsold or unshipped, most of it in this central Philippines region which produces about 60 per cent of the islands' cane sugar.

The total crop estimate is about 2.6 million tons, about the same as the two previous crops.

Douglas Demo Head Criticized

Omaha (UPI) — Two labor officials charged Sunday that Douglas County Democratic Chairman Marge Higgins was attempting to "close" the delegate selecting process for the upcoming county convention.

Terry Moore, Omaha Central Labor union president, and Victor Meyers, state COPE (Committee on Political Education) director, attended a 2nd Congressional District caucus during a State Democratic Central Committee meeting.

Ohmstedt Eyes Race... Story Page 14

Meyers questioned who made the decision not to call a Douglas County Democratic Central Committee meeting when the delegate selection formula was devised.

"This thing happens," Meyers said, "and nobody knows how it happens."

Meyers and Moore were told Higgins was ill at the time and pulled the county executive committee by telephone.

Under the current formula, each precinct gets two delegates for every 100 Democratic votes and one delegate for every 50 votes after that. Under the old formula, each precinct received two delegates for the first 25 votes and one for every 50 votes thereafter.

"She (Higgins) wants to close the convention up," Moore told UPI following the caucus meeting. "This is what the Republicans try to do. The Democratic Party has always kept its doors open."

Moore said the current formula, which the law provides cannot be changed once submitted, would result in a decrease of "liberal" delegates and "strict control over the conservatives."

Higgins of Omaha wasn't present during the meeting since she is not a central committee member. She told UPI by telephone later that it appeared Moore and Meyers "are upset because they won't be able to pack the convention as they have in the past."

Higgins acknowledged she underwent extensive medical treatment in January and her doctor told her not to do anything for 30 days. She said she went to a family cabin upon her doctor's orders to convalesce.

On the day before the mid-February delegate formula deadline, Higgins said she received a telephone call at the cabin from Douglas County Election Commissioner Mike Boyle.

"I didn't know what the hell to do," Higgins said. "I couldn't get a central committee meeting together in that short time."

Higgins said she was able to reach three of her five-member executive committee who agreed on the formula. "I think there will be some 900 to 1,000 people eligible for our county convention this June," Higgins said, "compared with the 500 to 600 people that attended our last convention."

Higgins said many precincts were "begging" for delegate candidates and last year 15% of those eligible as delegates "didn't show up" at the county convention.

"I think we should worry more about those precincts where there aren't any delegates," she said, "than about numbers."

The issue briefly reached the state floor of the state central committee, which took no action on it.

State Democratic Party Chairman Dick White of Lincoln said the matter was "unfortunate."

White said Douglas County would end up with more delegates than average, even though the number might not be as large as it has been in the past.

Cafe Inspection Standards Here Reported Tough

By H. L. HOFFMASTER and J. L. SCHMIDT

A Lincoln-based restaurant chain made national news last month by protesting a television series which humorously portrayed a somewhat lax restaurant operation.

The television show is "The Dumplings" and the Lincoln restaurant of similar name was recently ranked, along with 53 other Lincoln eateries, as having sanitation which barely complies with minimum standards.

The irony is neither as vicious, nor the situation unhealthy, as it may appear because Lincoln-Lancaster County restaurant cleanliness standards are tough.

Besides, for Dumpling's, the low rating was a first . . . it usually ranks higher.

And one of the men who apply the standards, K. D. "Mike" Hammar, says he wouldn't hesitate to eat in those restaurants which rank at the bottom of the sanitation ratings. The ratings are issued every six months by the Lincoln-Lancaster County Health Department.

Hammar Heads Section

Hammar heads up the food sanitation section of the department; and he, along with three full-time sanitarians, monitor the cleanliness of about 400 Lincoln food operations.

Staffers pay surprise visits to the operations and measure each one against 118 standards. If a restaurant gathers 31-40 demerits, it is put in the "good-fair" range, the worst ranking it can receive.

Hammar's group uses a checklist which would test any person's kitchen . . . even grandma's.

For example, one downtown restaurant was given 31 demerits for: having cracked eggs, dirty racks in the refrigerator, not enough ice beneath the salad bar, wrong scoop in the flour bin (didn't have a handle to keep hands out of flour), not using tongs to handle food (like rolls), silverware was laid flat instead of vertical with food contact surface away from customer, a microwave oven with food particles on the door and a wall that needed repair behind the dishwashing machine.

Restaurant operators interviewed generally refused to be quoted, but none seemed to feel that the inspection was not a good thing or that the inspectors were unfair.

Inspection On 'Bad Day'

A tavern on O Street dropped from superior to good last year. The proprietor said she was checked on "a bad day," when the place was "busy as all get-out. What can you do, sure you're gonna have a mess." She is proud of her former superior rating, has it framed and displayed, and intends to get the rating back again.

Lincoln restaurants also face state sanitarians, headed by Herb Wenant, chief of the Bureau of Dairies, Foods and Drugs.

Wenant says one out of every 10 household kitchens could not pass the sanitation inspection his staffers give public restaurants.

City-county sanitarians and state agents use exactly the same criteria, but do not coordinate their activities so restaurants are checked in an unpatterned, surprise way as many as six times a year.

Last year Wenant's division filed "sanitary orders" against eight Lincoln restaurants. A sanitary order forces a dining place to clean up immediately or face closure.

The eight restaurants which faced such action in 1975 were: Scott's Pancake House, 401 S. 13th; Dew Drop Inn, 4815 Cornhusker; Villager Motel, 5300 O St.; Ming Palace, 1309 N St.; Cork 'n Cleaver, 301 N. Cotner; House of the Dragon, 6811 O St.; Sheraton Inn, 12th and Bond; Congress Inn, 2001 West O St.

Conditions at the Ming Palace required a six-page, single-spaced, typewritten report; and the Villager had two sanitary orders filed against it.

Four Closed Temporarily

Four places closed last year, temporarily, in order to meet sanitation standards. Those were: Conroy's Bakery Shoppe, 4725 Prescott; South Street Dairy, 3835 South St.; Automatic Merchandising, 520 Garfield; and the Nebraska Pizza Hut, 2435 S. 48th.

Wenant says all the managers complied with orders and met standards. Automatic Merchandising has since closed.

Despite occasional problems, Lincoln's restaurants rank high when viewed from the national scale. In a nine-city tour last year, federal inspectors found roaches in food, mouse droppings on shelves, rat infestations, decomposed meat in refrigerators, insecticides stored with food, and filthy refrigerators. The government report concluded that 90% of the restaurants in nine cities were "unsanitary."

The General Accounting Office (GAO), plus the Food and Drug Administration (FDA), which gave such a sickening picture of restaurants in Atlanta, Boston, Dallas, Detroit, Minneapolis, New York City, San Francisco, Norfolk, Va., and Tucson, Ariz., have now said — in a conclusion released this month — "you're doin' fine, Nebraska!"

In speaking of other areas, the GAO report criticized restaurant inspection as being "minimal" and "ineffective."

Nebraska System Good

Hammar and Wenant would dispute any such conclusion if applied to Nebraska or Lincoln, and they are backed by the GAO. The government, after checking 100 restaurants in 65 Nebraska cities, says the Cornhusker state's restaurants are generally sanitary and the inspection system is good.

Nebraska is the only state in the central region which has gotten the federal stamp of approval regarding restaurants and inspection systems.

Also, as Hammar says, "we're not encountering any food-borne illness epidemics," nor have there been any verified, individual cases of such illness traceable to a restaurant during the five years he has headed the city-county sanitation office.

In fact, 29.5% of Lincoln's food and drink establishments are superior, according to city-county sanitarians. "Superior-good" ranking is held by 27.2% of Lincoln's eateries and 24.2% are "good." At the bottom, with "good-fair" ratings, are 13.6% of the establishments.

The total crop estimate is about 2.6 million tons, about the same as the two previous crops.

Douglas Demo Head Criticized

Omaha (UPI) — Two labor officials charged Sunday that Douglas County Democratic Chairman Marge Higgins was attempting to "close" the delegate selecting process for the upcoming county convention.

Terry Moore, Omaha Central Labor union president, and Victor Meyers, state COPE (Committee on Political Education) director, attended a 2nd Congressional District caucus during a State Democratic Central Committee meeting.

Ohmstede Eyes Race . . . Story Page 14

Meyers questioned who made the decision not to call a Douglas County Democratic Central Committee meeting when the delegate selection formula was devised.

"This thing happens," Meyers said, "and nobody knows how it happens."

Meyers and Moore were told Higgins was ill at the time and poiled the county executive committee by telephone.

Under the current formula, each precinct gets two delegates for every 100 Democratic votes and one delegate for every 50 votes after that. Under the old formula, each precinct received two delegates for the first 25 votes and one for every 50 votes thereafter.

"She (Higgins) wants to close the convention up," Moore told UPI following the caucus meeting. "This is what the Republicans try to do. The Democratic Party has always kept its doors open."

Moore said the current formula, which the law provides cannot be changed once submitted, would result in a decrease of "liberal" delegates and "strict control over the conservatives."

Higgins of Omaha wasn't present during the meeting since she is not a central committee member. She told UPI by telephone later that it appeared Moore and Meyers "are upset because they won't be able to pack the convention as they have in the past."

Higgins acknowledged she underwent extensive medical treatment in January and her doctor told her not to do anything for 30 days. She said she went to a family cabin upon her doctor's orders to convalesce.

On the day before the mid-February delegate formula deadline, Higgins said she received a telephone call at the cabin from Douglas County Election Commissioner Mike Boyle.

"I didn't know what the hell to do," Higgins said. "I couldn't get a central committee meeting together in that short time."

Higgins said she was able to reach three of her five-member executive committee who agreed on the formula.

"I think there will be some 900 to 1,000 people eligible for our county convention this June," Higgins said, "compared with the 500 to 600 people that attended our last convention."

Higgins said many precincts were "begging" for delegate candidates and last year 15% of those eligible as delegates "didn't show up" at the county convention.

"I think we should worry more about those precincts where there aren't any delegates," she said, "than about numbers."

The issue briefly reached the state floor of the state central committee, which took no action on it.

State Democratic Party Chairman Dick White of Lincoln said the matter was "unfortunate."

White said Douglas County would end up with more delegates than average, even though the number might not be as large as it has been in the past.

House Dean Wright Patman Dies; Top Banking Industry Critic

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wright Patman, the dean of the House of Representatives and its leading critic of the banking industry, died early Sunday. He was 82 years old.

He had been admitted to Bethesda Naval Medical Center on Feb. 26 for treatment of pneumonia, earlier diagnosed as influenza.

Patman, a Democrat, was serving in his 48th year in the House. He announced Jan. 14 that he would step down after his current term expires next January.

President Ford expressed "deep regret and sadness upon learning of the death of his friend of many years standing."

Patman's "decades of outstanding service to the House of Representatives and to our nation has served as an inspiration to all who knew and worked with him. His dedication to principle and his tireless efforts on behalf of all our citizens will long be remembered," Ford said.

"No member who has served in the House during this century will make a more enduring impact on the House of Representatives and the nation than Wright Patman," said House Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okl.

"He is probably unmatched in his devotion to the problems of human beings. Wright Patman was a hard fighter who, through a life dedicated to public service, gave his best efforts to save his day and generation," Albert added.

In Austin, Tex., Gov. Dolph Briscoe said, "Wright Patman was a fierce advocate of the people... He fought the special interests, denounced bigotry in any form and became the respected spokesman of workers and farmers throughout the nation."

"The last of the old-time populists, a great public servant and a good and beloved man, his passing leaves a void that will never be filled," Briscoe said.

Briscoe's press secretary said the governor and Texas Secretary of State Mark White would probably meet Monday to discuss the date of a special election to fill Patman's congressional seat.

Patman served as chairman of the House Banking Committee, his pulpit for myriad attacks on the PATMAN... used giant pair of dice to make point in House speech.

Federal Reserve System and its tight money policies, from 1963 until January, 1975, when the influx of young, first-term members of Congress forced him out.

His early economic lessons, from which he developed his populist philosophy, were learned during his days growing up in East Texas cotton-farming country, the son of a tenant farmer forced to pay as high as 50 per cent interest on crop loans.

John William Wright Patman was born Aug. 6, 1893, in a log cabin in Patman's Switch. He rode six mules to school each day on a Texas mule.

He raised cotton to work his way through college and got a law degree at Cumberland University. Cotton farming has been overtaken by cattle and timber in the district, and the settlement of Patman's Switch has disappeared. Texarkana, the biggest city in the district, became Patman's hometown.

Elected to the House in 1928, Patman set his sights on the Banking Committee. More times than anyone knows, during his years in Congress, Patman sounded off in his deceptively soft voice against monopoly and mergers, especially of banks.

Back in the first district of Texas in the 1920s and 1930s, the banks were used, not to borrow money to buy securities or boats, but for the vital crop loans every year.

Patman thought banks should be individual and tied closely to the communities in which they operated.

"Bankers are the only people who can manufacture money without going to the penitentiary," he once said. "They are supposed to use this money to take care of the credit needs of their communities — make loans to businessmen, farmers, individuals on fair terms — not invest it in tax-free municipal bonds."

He thought interest should be low and that high interest rates fed, rather than fought, inflation.

In 1932, as a second-term congressman, he offered an impeachment resolution against Treasury Secretary Andrew Mellon. During subsequent committee hearings, President Herbert Hoover switched Mellon to an ambassadorship.

"A pardon midway during a trial," Patman called that action.

During the Depression years, Patman triumphed with enactment of the Robinson-Patman Act. It was called everything from the "Anti-Chain Store Act" to the "Golden Rule of American Business," and banned buyers and sellers from granting or getting discriminatory prices.

But his early successes also won him the description as a "funny-money" man, stemming perhaps largely from the proposals he made to give direct, cash bonus payoffs to World War I veterans during the Depression.

Other victories included most of the legislation developing credit unions, most of the bills that passed through the House Small Business Committee, which he chaired; a bill to expedite housing for World War II veterans and most of the housing legislation of the 1960s, and recent congressional economic initiatives.

When Patman, despite his unorthodox ways, moved into the Banking Committee chairmanship, he was 69 years old. He started a stream of investigations and hearings that continued through his stewardship.

He frequently visited his office on Sundays, scribbling notes and proposals on scrap paper and envelopes, leaving them for his staff to work on the following Monday. After leaving the chairmanship, he said he often continued to arrive at his office well before 8 a.m.

As committee chairman, he fought an endless battle with the chairmen of the Federal Reserve Board, particularly the current chairman, Arthur Burns, and one of his predecessors, William McChesney Martin Jr. He fought for tighter administration control and congressional scrutiny.

The fight brought him, in recent years, the admiration of a diverse group of followers, including college students making up the New Left, and consumer groups.

During one of his many tilts with the nation's bankers, a running feud that fed the populist image that did not displease him, he faced a line of 24 bank officials testifying on the need for a $250 million loan guarantee for Lockheed Aircraft Corp. in 1971.

As Patman went down the line of bankers seated side-by-side in front of his committee, he required each to raise his hand, identify himself, and state whether he was authorized to speak for his bank.

If one of the bankers, most of them board chairmen or presidents, dared to lower his hand before the chairman finished, he was ordered to put it back up.

Before he was elected to the House, Patman served two terms in the Texas House of Representatives and five years as a district attorney. Faced with stiff challenges from time to time, he was never defeated or forced into a run-off in 28 consecutive elections.

He was married in 1919 to Merle Connor, who died in 1967, and in 1968 he married Mrs. Pauline Tucker, who survives. He and his first wife had three sons. The sons are William, Ganado, Tex., a state senator; Harold, a geologist in Austin, Tex., and Connor, an attorney in Texarkana.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday morning at the First Baptist Church in Texarkana, followed by burial in Hillcrest Cemetery in Texarkana.

Rhodesian Settler Won't Be Pushed

UMTALI, Rhodesia (AP) — Gray-haired Jim Valentine stared moodily from his Rhodesian hilltop homestead at the distant mountains of Mozambique. "I will never be pushed out of here," he said. "We'll eat fadza (the local African cornmeal staple) if we have to."

Then, as radio broadcasts from Salisbury, the capital, spoke of 5,000 Soviet-armed black nationalist guerrillas along the 800-mile frontier, he turned to other things.

He said he has been asked by a drug company in Salisbury, about 120 miles northwest of here, to look for a plant that might prove to be a substitute for cotton.

Directs Civil Defense
In between combing the rain forests for the elusive plant, Valentine sits at a desk in a converted store directing civil defense plans for his area — 35 farms and forestry plantations 25 miles north of Umtali, which is a few miles from Mozambique.

The border was officially closed last week by Mozambique's Marxist president, Samora Machel, in retaliation for a Rhodesian raid on a southwestern Mozambique village considered to be a base for black Rhodesian guerrillas.

Fights, Mines Kill 14 Along Closed Border

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Fourteen black civilians and guerrillas have been killed in fights and land-mine explosions along the closed border between Rhodesia and Mozambique, authorities announced Sunday.

They said six guerrillas and eight civilians were slain in clashes during the past five days that included a raid on a white-owned farm in the Chipinga area, with one attacker killed there.

The deaths raised the toll to 82 black rebels killed since Prime Minister Ian Smith's white minority government warned a month ago that there would be increased "terrorist" incursions. Three Rhodesian soldiers have been reported killed since then.

Security headquarters announced the latest casualties five days after Mozambique's Marxist President Samora Machel closed the border with Rhodesia and declared his country was on a war footing.

According to the security

wives across to settle in Rhodesia permanently.

"The crops over the way have failed," said Chris Valentine, Jim's son, who runs the Golden Valley store near the frontier.

"I'm selling three times as much maize (corn) to the Mozambicans who have been coming across this week than ever before. Hungry people don't worry about border closures."

Selling More Maize
Lady "Jackie" Wilson drove in a Japanese pickup truck from Valentine's store to her farm a few miles further into the mountains.

Her homestead lies on the ill-defined border where Machel's troops patrol in full view of her livingroom window. Because the dirt road has been made impassable by rains she has to drive along a track only yards from the border. On this trip she had four white policemen as escorts.

"Some of the Frelimo types came onto my property the other day with their guns," the elderly widow of the late speaker of Rhodesia's parliament said. "I told them to push off and they left without a word."

Frelimo is a Portuguese acronym for Mozambique Liberation Front, which fought Portugal's colonial rule before independence last year. It is now the name of Mozambique's army.

Lady Wilson, who was wearing a camouflaged combat hat and a knee-length printed cotton dress, has become something of a Florence Nightingale to the Mozambicans.

She has tended their sick and has taken some to Rhodesian hospitals for treatment; she has provided them with water from her wells.

Not far from where police maintain a 24-hour guard on Lady Wilson's homestead, Frelimo troops last week fired volleys of shots from their side of the border at passing Rhodesian cars. No one was hurt, but people like Lady Wilson who live on the frontier take no chances.

Farmhouses dotted among the mountains overlooking Mozambique are ringed with security wire, police guards are posted on the land, arc lamps light up the surrounding bush and alarm systems link up with nearby army camps to summon troops in helicopters.

The British-born owner of a string of orchards and a cannery 100 yards from the border pointed to his wire fence and arc lights on his remote homestead 50 miles south of here.

The fence cost the equivalent of more than $2,000, the lights $1,000, he said.

"We've had to dip into the money we were saving for our old age to do this," he added.

Encircled By Fencing

Jim Valentine's house is seven miles from Mozambique but he too has encircled it with security fencing and plans to electrify it.

Valentine's job as civil defense head is to keep communications open to the farms in his sector.

"We maintain contact to inform and advise — and to dispel rumors," he said. "Some rumors have given people a bit of a scare and we try to stop this."

Rumors have already had an impact. Few tourists from Salisbury or South Africa are coming here now.

The Leopard's Rock Hotel with its golf course and swimming pool 50 miles from here is empty and the Cecil Hotel in Umtali has been turned over to a company of Rhodesian soldiers.

Postal Revamp Called For

Washington — The postal system must be reshaped to conform to the new "economic reality" or it will be destroyed, Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bailar said in a speech prepared for delivery Monday at the Economic Club of Detroit. The chief problem is that business is drying up while operating expenses are increasing, he said. The postal system handled 90 billion pieces of mail in 1974, a record volume, Bailar said.

Real Estate Brokers Sued

New York Cuts Suggested

New York — The Citizens Budget Commission proposed cutting $400 million in New York City spending transit subsidies, the City University and municipal hospitals rather than making across-the-board cuts that might affect police and fire protection, sanitation, health and schools. The proposed cutback in the budget starting July 1 would be about half the present city tax support for the three functions, now estimated by the civic group as $800 million a year. But unless the $300 million in transit subsidies for such purposes as transit policemen and reduced fares for the elderly and schoolchildren are replaced by other sources, it would mean a higher fare.

URW Talks To Open Amid Strike Threats

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Big Four of the U.S. tiremaking industry and the United Rubber Workers open contract negotiations Monday with a threat of multinational boycotts and strikes in the background.

The 70,000-member union has adopted contract goals including "catch-up" wage increases to achieve parity with the United Auto Workers, an additional "meaningful wage increase," an unlimited cost-of-living adjustment provision, and improved pension and insurance benefits.

To bring the URW average wage of about $5.50 an hour to the auto workers' level would require increases averaging $1.45 for most workers and $2 for the skilled tradesmen, a URW spokesman said. To that would be added the unspecified "meaningful increase."

The union's present contract with the Big Four — Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., B.F. Goodrich Co. and Uniroyal, Inc. — expires April 20.

All of the Big Four tiremakers operate plants overseas. URW President Peter Bommarito said agreements for sympathy walkouts have been reached with URW union affiliates in France, Italy and elsewhere in the event of a strike in this country.

Charles Levenson, head of the International Federation of Chemical and General Workers' Unions, which includes the URW and its foreign affiliates, said it appears a "long and costly strike" will come.

URW bargaining teams will meet beginning Monday with their Goodyear counterparts in Cincinnati. Talks with Firestone will be held in Cleveland, those with B.F. Goodrich in Columbus, Ohio, and the Uniroyal sessions in New York City.

The closure followed reports that 1,000 Mozambique-based guerrillas crossed into Rhodesia to launch fresh offensives against the forces of Prime Minister Ian Smith's minority white government.

But even now Mozambican peasants and soldiers of Machel's 10,000-member army are crossing in groups to farms and villages here in the eastern Rhodesian highlands to buy food.

They could be seen last Friday walking back single file from border stores carrying bags of fadza, sugar, and tea on their heads.

There's No Food

"There's no food where we come from," explained Antonio Charowa, a middle-aged Mozambican wearing a khaki combat jacket. He spoke through an interpreter as he set off for home from a Rhodesian farmer's store in the Yumba Mountains about 33 miles south of here.

All along the frontier near this town of 50,000 blacks and 10,000 whites, farm and forest workers were crossing the border last week on bush trails to come to their jobs and returning home at sundown.

Some of the migrant workers, however, were bringing their

Fights, Mines Kill 14 Along Closed Border

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Fourteen black civilians and guerrillas have been killed in fights and land-mine explosions along the closed border between Rhodesia and Mozambique, authorities announced Sunday.

They said six guerrillas and eight civilians were slain in clashes during the past five days that included a raid on a white-owned farm in the Chipinga area, with one attacker killed there.

The deaths raised the toll to 82 black rebels killed since Prime Minister Ian Smith's white minority government warned a month ago that there would be increased "terrorist" incursions. Three Rhodesian soldiers have been reported killed since then.

Security headquarters announced the latest casualties five days after Mozambique's Marxist President Samora Machel closed the border with Rhodesia and declared his country was on a war footing.

According to the security

headquarters statement, which gave few details, three black civilians were shot and killed and two others were beaten to death by guerrillas operating from bases in Mozambique.

It said one land mine killed a black bus driver and injured 12 of his passengers while another mine wounded an undisclosed number of security force personnel.

The communique also reported a series of store robberies along the border, with one shop burned to the ground. It accused Mozambique troops of firing across the border at a fencing party and of shooting at a Rhodesian police post and an airplane in Rhodesian air space.

The upsurge in violence came as leaders of Joshua Nkomo's black African National Council declared there had been a "breakthrough" in talks with Smith's regime on a new constitution.

They met with Nkomom who advised them of progress in the talks that have been going for two months in an effort to reach an agreement between Rhodesia's 5.7 million blacks and 274,000 whites.

No details of the talks have been revealed by either side, but Smith has made it clear in public statements that his white government has no plans to surrender power to the blacks in the near future.

Smith and Nkomo are to meet again Monday and the ANC officers announced they had urged Nkomo to pursue the negotiations "to their logical conclusions" as quickly as possible.

Impatience with the prolonged talks have led some blacks to turn away from the "domestic" wing of the ANC led by Nkomo, according to press reports.

N.Y. Times Summary

Postal Revamp Called For

Washington — The postal system must be reshaped to conform to the new "economic reality" or it will be destroyed, Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bailar said in a speech prepared for delivery Monday at the Economic Club of Detroit. The chief problem is that business is drying up while operating expenses are increasing, he said. The postal system handled 90 billion pieces of mail in 1974, a record volume, Bailar said.

Real Estate Brokers Sued

New York Cuts Suggested

New York — The Citizens Budget Commission proposed cutting $400 million in New York City spending transit subsidies, the City University and municipal hospitals rather than making across-the-board cuts that might affect police and fire protection, sanitation, health and schools. The proposed cutback in the budget starting July 1 would be about half the present city tax support for the three functions, now estimated by the civic group as $800 million a year. But unless the $300 million in transit subsidies for such purposes as transit policemen and reduced fares for the elderly and schoolchildren are replaced by other sources, it would mean a higher fare.

URW Talks To Open Amid Strike Threats

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Big Four of the U.S. tiremaking industry and the United Rubber Workers open contract negotiations Monday with a threat of multinational boycotts and strikes in the background.

The 70,000-member union has adopted contract goals including "catch-up" wage increases to achieve parity with the United Auto Workers, an additional "meaningful wage increase," an unlimited cost-of-living adjustment provision, and improved pension and insurance benefits.

To bring the URW average wage of about $5.50 an hour to the auto workers' level would require increases averaging $1.45 for most workers and $2 for the skilled tradesmen, a URW spokesman said. To that would be added the unspecified "meaningful increase."

The union's present contract with the Big Four — Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., B.F. Goodrich Co. and Uniroyal, Inc. — expires April 20.

All of the Big Four tiremakers operate plants overseas. URW President Peter Bommarito said agreements for sympathy walkouts have been reached with URW union affiliates in France, Italy and elsewhere in the event of a strike in this country.

Charles Lewinsohn, head of the International Federation of Chemical and General Workers' Unions, which includes the URW and its foreign affiliates, said it appears a "long and costly strike" will come.

URW bargaining teams will meet beginning Monday with their Goodyear counterparts in Cincinnati. Talks with Firestone will be held in Cleveland, those with B.F. Goodrich in Columbus, Ohio, and the Uniroyal sessions in New York City.

Nemaha Basin Cleanup Needed

By The Associated Press

A state study report says communities in Nebraska's Nemaha River Basin need at least $9.7 million in sewage treatment plant construction and other improvements to clean up their water.

The study showed contamination in the basin in the southeastern corner of the state comes from a variety of sources.

Gayle H. Lewis, planning chief for the Nebraska Natural Resources Commission, said a plan suggesting improvements will be outlined Thursday night at a meeting in Tecumseh.

The plan outlines priorities for communities to receive treatment plant construction money and makes recommendations for otherwise upgrading the water.

The basin stretches roughly from Plattsmouth west to Eagle, then south to the Kansas border. It lost 19,000 residents between 1940 and 1970, but projections are for a 46% increase in city residents by the year 2020 while rural population continues to decline.

Of the basin's 44 larger communities, those listed with top treatment plant needs are, in order: Nebraska City, Plattsmouth, Elmwood, Falls City, Burr, Firth, Pawnee City, Stella, Uehling and Weeping Water. Highest small community priorities are Rulo, Dunbar, Otter and Salem.

The study said tests show pollution levels exceeding state standards since 1970 at points along the Missouri River, Big and Little Nemaha Rivers, Hooper Creek and Weeping Water Creek.

Of the basin's 26 solid waste disposal sites, the study said, 19 have surface water drainage problems and three have leaching problems.

It added there are 43 municipal wastewater treatment plants, 21 industries and 53 feedlots which may affect water quality.

Des Plaines River Overflows

City workers in Gurnee, Ill., were trying Sunday to pump water from a shopping center. The area, scene of frantic sand-bagging operations Saturday, was flooded by waters of the swollen Des Plaines River. Overflow was attributed to recent heavy rain. The extent of the damage was unknown.

Reagan Attacks Ford Economics

MIAMI (AP) — With what may be the crucial vote in Ronald Reagan's campaign for the presidency two days away, the former California governor switched his attack on Sunday from the Ford administration's foreign policy to the economic front.

President Ford, who made two recent weekend forays into Florida, decided not to return before the Tuesday voting. He remained in Washington after a two-day trip to Illinois, which holds a March 16 primary, and gave an interview to 28 Florida broadcasters.

With the President having won the first three Republican primaries in New Hampshire, Vermont and Massachusetts, Tuesday's voting in what is considered a conservative state has become crucial in Reagan's challenge to Ford. Most observers believe a loss could put the Reagan campaign in serious trouble.

Reagan built an impressive early lead in Florida and his state campaign manager, L.E. "Tommy" Thomas predicted on Jan. 24 that he would win by a 2-1 margin. Two weeks ago, Thomas downgraded that figure to 55 per cent — a figure Reagan himself said was too optimistic — and last week said it was conceivable Ford would win.

On the Democratic side, former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter and Alabama Gov. George Wallace are considered the front-runners in Florida. But Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington, winner last week in Massachusetts, says the results there have made Florida a three-man race.

In Iowa, delegates were chosen Saturday for Iowa's district and state conventions and Carter won three times as many as any other contender.

With results tabulated from 98 of the 99 county conventions on Saturday, 41.4 per cent of the delegates chosen were uncommitted, 34.1 per cent backed Carter, 13 per cent supported Rep. Morris Udall of Arizona, and 9.2 per cent favored former Oklahoma Sen. Fred Harris. Indiana Sen. Birch Bayh, who has suspended his presidential campaign after poor showings in early primaries, got 1.7 per cent.

Reagan, interviewed Sunday on NBC's "Meet the Press," switched his focus to the domestic scene after having — in the words of campaign aides who had been urging him to do so — taken off the gloves last week with a sharp attack on Ford's policy of detente with the Soviet Union.

He noted the administration of former President Richard M. Nixon imposed emergency measures in 1972 that insured an improving economy and Nixon's re-election. But shortly after the election, he said, "The roof fell in."

"Now, I fear very much that we may be in exactly the same position. We have been resorting to emergency recession measures," he said, citing no specifics. "Nothing has been done yet to fight the real cause of this, which is inflation."

"Now when the roof falls in again after the 1976 election as a result of this, is it going to double again? Is this time, inflation

You May Need To Know Words For Tornadoes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With the tornado season approaching, the American Red Cross suggests people familiarize themselves with tornado warning terminology.

Tornado watch means tornadoes may be expected to develop.

Tornado warning means a twister has actually been sighted, says Bryce J. Torrence, national director in the Red Cross disaster services.

Torrence said persons near the danger area should seek cover immediately when a tornado warning occurs, preferably in a storm cellar, an underground excavation or a steel-framed or reinforced concrete building.

Twisters are most common in the Midwest, the South and the Southwest.

Curtis Seeks Convention Spot As Ford Supporter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., will file Monday as a candidate for delegate to the Republican National Convention pledged to President Ford, a Curtis aide said Sunday.

It was a hard decision for the senator to make because he has great respect for Ford's challenger, former California Gov. Ronald Reagan, the aide said. Reagan campaigned for Curtis in his last senate race.

But the Curtis spokesman said going to be 25 per cent? Is unemployment going to be double the 10 per cent we had last time?"

Also campaigning in Florida Sunday were four Democratic hopefuls: Wallace, Carter, Jackson and Pennsylvania Gov. Milton Shapp.

Wallace, interviewed on CBS' "Face the Nation," was asked the extent of a federal jobs slash he would request from Congress if elected President.

"At least 10 per cent," he replied. "In my judgement, that would be a great step in the direction of getting the bureaucracy cut down to size."

"HEW (the Department of Health, Education and Welfare), for instance, has 400,000 people working for it," Wallace said. "I dare say that's 200,000 more people than they need."

But government spokesmen said the agency has only 135,000 employees.

He also said he would ask for most employee cutbacks to come from the upper echelons, not the rank-and-file. "I would like to cut the budget down so those $35,000 and $50,000-a-year people would get in the private sector," he said.

Wallace won the 1972 Florida race with more than 40 per cent of the vote. This year, he faces strong challenges by Carter and Jackson.

Carter, meanwhile, told 3,000 people at a free fish fry in Tampa, "I think everybody who even supports Gov. Wallace knows that he's not going to be on the ticket. He can't be elected president."

He also lashed out at Jackson, saying, "He's been in Congress 35 years. A lot of things wrong with our country are because we've had too many insiders in Washington who don't care about people, who just care about getting elected over and over and over again for 35 long years."

Carter earlier in the campaign said he wouldn't indulge in personal attacks on his Democratic opponents.

Jackson, accompanied by former UN Ambassador Daniel Patrick Moynihan, addressed several thousand persons Sunday at a Jewish temple in Miami Beach.

"I'm against supplying weapons to Egypt," said Jackson, who hopes to win votes in the urban, heavily Jewish areas of south Florida. "The Kissinger policy of launching a military relationship with Egypt, in my view, is cynical and indeed dangerous."

Last week, Kissinger told a Congressional committee that the administration wanted to sell Egypt six military transport planes. Other officials said other military supplies might later be sold to the Egyptians.

Shapp, on a walking tour of south Florida condominiums, said he sent a telegram to President Ford asking why the United States apparently supplied security guards and other aid for a Panama City, Fla., meeting of U.S. oil-company executives and a representative of Saudi Arabia.

In Washington, Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., another of the Democratic contenders, said Sunday that his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination will be in trouble unless he wins the Wisconsin primary on April 6.

Udall, appearing on ABC's "Issues and Answers," said there are indications he may pick up the backing of many supporters of Indiana Sen. Birch Bayh in New York, now out of the race, but added that he does not think anyone can beat Jackson in the New York primary, also April 6.

Earlier in his final trip to Florida, Reagan broke his self-imposed "11th Commandment" not to criticize fellow Republicans, saying the Soviet Union is taking advantage of the Ford administration's policy of detente.

State campaign workers, concerned that a loss in Florida would be devastating to his hopes of winning the nomination from the incumbent, openly urged Reagan to come out swinging. Ford already has won primaries in New Hampshire, Massachusetts and Vermont.

Torrence said persons near the danger area should seek cover immediately when a tornado warning occurs, preferably in a storm cellar, an underground excavation or a steel-framed or reinforced concrete building.

Curtis Seeks Convention Spot As Ford Supporter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., will file Monday as a candidate for delegate to the Republican National Convention pledged to President Ford, a Curtis aide said Sunday.

It was a hard decision for the senator to make because he has great respect for Ford's challenger, former California Gov. Ronald Reagan, the aide said. Reagan campaigned for Curtis in his last senate race. But the Curtis spokesman said the senator decided to back Ford because of the President's courageous vetoes of appropriations that would have raised the budget deficit and other strong stands.

The spokesman said Curtis felt it would be a shame for the party not to nominate an incumbent president who has been taking a strong stand on the issues.

However, the spokesman added, Curtis had high praise for Reagan and said he would favor a Ford-Reagan ticket.

The Jeep Controversy

The great Omaha jeep controversy must say something about somebody, but we're not really certain about who or what.

One thing it does point out is that the federal government should be more precise in the manner in which it advertises its surplus property for sale. According to reports of the controversy, the catalogue from which Omaha placed its order pictured a jeep and described it as "radio sets."

Another thing that can be said is that there is the suggestion in this affair that Omaha officials should have figured something was amiss. They must have known that even the federal government would not intentionally confuse radio sets and jeeps, nor could the government be expected by reasonable people to deliver jeeps when radio sets were ordered.

The perversity of bureaucracy is illustrated in the fact that Omaha wanted jeeps, ordered radio sets, and received jeeps — fifteen of them.

Primary blame for this mess cannot be assigned.

The agency disposing of the surplus property in this instance — oddly enough, the Old West Regional Commission — wants the jeeps back, claiming to be misled by Omaha. Omaha as of last report wanted to keep the jeeps but grudgingly offered to return them only if the feds asked for them by calling them radio sets.

Gov. Exon, who had offered to mediate the dispute, pulled out last week (who can blame him?) after declaring that Omaha officials were turning the controversy into a side show — a charge which Mayor Ed Zorinsky denies. "I have never sought publicity on this," Senate candidate Zorinsky said last week. He claims to have fought return of the jeeps only because he thought he and the city were right.

One more thought lingers . . . the boys in Omaha City Hall might be ripe for the likes of Yellow Kid Weil, the recently deceased con man who preyed on people who couldn't pass up an opportunity which they thought would return them a lot for a little.

Anybody wanna buy a bridge?

Victims Lose Again

In the face of overwhelming evidence of what deadly results the use of handguns yield, against the advice of law enforcement and contrary to public opinion, the Congress has again shelved meaningful handgun control legislation.

A bill which would have banned the manufacture or sale of about 70% of the concealable handguns produced in this country had passed the House Judiciary Committee two weeks ago. But last week, after several days of heavy pro-gun lobbying, the committee voted to recommit the bill to a subcommittee for revision.

Committee Chairman Peter Rodino, who supports the handgun ban, says he believes there is no chance the bill can be revised and approved so late in an election year.

Said Rep. John Conyers, a prime sponsor of the bill: "The simple fact of the matter is that a number of congressmen, regardless of public opinion, are opposed to effective firearms legislation."

Some time down the road Congress will see what most rational people already understand — that the proliferation of cheap handguns is one of the main causes of violent crime and violent injury and death in our violent society.

But they haven't seen the light yet. At the end of the latest chapter, score it One more for the gun lobby, Zero for the victims of violence.

The Story Of Two Ns

The Nebraska Educational Television Network (NETV) ought to be ashamed of itself.

Last week the massive, nine-station Cornhusker network bullied poor little National Broadcasting Co. (NBC) of New York into an out-of-court settlement valued at more than $555,000 in the matter of the disputed "N" logo.

NETV designed its twin-trapezoid N for less than $100 and put it on the air first. NBC, replacing its peacock, was second with its version of the "N" — which cost three-quarters of a million dollars to develop.

By virtue of last week's settlement, NETV can no longer use the "N" symbol. But it cost struggling NBC — which is now No. 3 among the commercial networks — only Sanford and Son has kept the NBC afloat in the ratings war — a prime piece of rolling stock and associated broadcasting equipment valued at $500,000, and a cash settlement of $55,000 for NETV legal fees and to design a new logo, to have exclusive rights to the "N".

The mighty continue to prosper! NETV enhances its remote broadcasting capability with the addition of the color mobile unit from NBC. That handsome unit complements NETV's enviable home studio facilities, which in many respects are superior to those of ABC, CBS and, of course, poor old NBC.

Pick on somebody your own size, NETV.

View Easing On Early Abortions

WASHINGTON — If the abortion issue has its own presidential candidate, Ellen McCormack, can the pollsters be far behind?

Of course not. Louis Harris will soon have new polls on the abortion question, and Gallup organization interviewers are already in the field asking voters whether they would favor a constitutional amendment (as proposed by Ellen McCormack, George Wallace and Ronald Reagan) that would prohibit abortion in most cases and overturn the January, 1973, Supreme Court decision legalizing abortion during the first three months of pregnancy.

Until those results are in, we must make do with 1975 data. Gallup and Harris published their most recent surveys on abortion in Spring, 1975, as did such other pollsters as Walter DeVries and Mervin Field.

The combined message of their findings is as follows: Since the Supreme Court decision, Americans have clearly become more favorable to the idea of abortion, especially during the first three months (trimester) of pregnancy. But a definite majority of citizens remain opposed to abortion in the second three months of pregnancy except for reasons of malformation or threats to the mother's health.

Some warnings are in order: Because the question is so complex — reaction to abortion changes with months and medical circumstances — it is easy for both sides in the controversy to frame questions or hold out results that support their case. Consequently, carefully examine the phraseology of all questions and be wary of any survey purporting to show lopsided public opinion.

It does appear clear, though, that since the 1973 Supreme Court ruling, public opinion has become more liberal on abortion. In 1972, Louis Harris found 46% of Americans opposed to legalizing abortion in the first three months, while 42% were in favor. After the Supreme Court ruling, that ratio shifted to 52% favorable, 42% opposed. And by May, 1975, 54% supported the Supreme Court decision, 38% were against it, and 8% had no opinion.

California's Field poll found a similar opinion shift: Between 1969 and 1975, the percentage of Californians favoring legal abortion rose from 15% to 38% in hypothetical circumstances where the mother simply didn't want the baby; from 31% to 51% where the mother was unmarried; from 30% to 49% where the family couldn't afford another baby and so forth.

But if the Supreme Court decision has legitimized the idea of terminating pregnancy during the first three months, a large majority of Americans remain negative towards abortion in later months (except where medical circumstances warrant it). All major national surveys underscore this distinction.

In results published in April, 1975, the Gallup organization found as follows: 24% of Americans favor legalizing abortion under any circumstances during the first three months of pregnancy. 46% think it should be legalized only under certain circumstances, and 25% believe it should be prohibited entirely. But reluctance mushrooms during the next three months of pregnancy: Only 19% believe abortion should be legal then under any circumstances, 36% say it should be allowed under certain circumstances and a near-majority of 47% favors a strict prohibition. And for the third trimester, this division of opinion emerges: Legal under all circumstances — a mere 7%; legal under some circumstances — 30%; illegal — a whopping 56%!

Also polling in April, 1975, Louis Harris focused his questions on the first two trimesters. For the initial three months of pregnancy, 54% of those surveyed

ELLEN MCCORMACK
... campaigning on the

avored legal abortions, 38% were opposed and 8% were not sure. But when people were asked if they favored or opposed legalizing abortion during the second three months, just 20% were in favor, 68% were opposed and 10% were not sure.

Walter DeVries, whose autumn, 1974, survey financed by the National Conference of Catholic Bishops was released in March 1975, came up with kindred results. Attitudes toward abortion during the first three months varied with circumstances (jeopardy to a mother's life, malformation, convenience, etc.), but 67% opposed legalizing abortion in the second three months, while only 20% supported the idea.

California's Field, polling his state in late February and early March, 1975, found these results by trimester: First three months — 51% approved of a right to abortion, 41% disapproved; Second three months — 14% approved, 80% disapproved; Third three months — 7% approved, an incredible 92% disapproved. Even in liberal California, according to Field, "support for the mother's right to abortion extends only into the first three months of pregnancy. There is widespread public disapproval of abortions that occur after the first three months."

Because of this chronological and circumstantial fragmentation of public opinion, surveys show mixed attitudes towards reversal of the Supreme Court decision. Even the DeVries poll, financed by U.S. Catholic Bishops on behalf of the National Committee for a Human Life Amendment, Inc., found only 33% of those questioned in favor of overruling the Supreme Court to make abortions either a) totally illegal or b) illegal except to save the mother's life. However, another 17% supported overruling the Court by allowing abortion only because of specific, listed circumstances. And still another 23% supported the concept of overturning the Supreme Court decision in order to let the individual states permit or prohibit abortion.

To sum up, survey data suggests that Americans support substantial legalized abortion during the first three months of pregnancy and that a rigid constitutional amendment to overturn the Supreme Court decision would be supported by only 25 to 40% of the population. More flexible measures — including an amendment returning control of abortion to the states — might have a better chance.

Opposed To Zone Change

Lincoln, Neb.

I am opposed to the change of Zone 1458 which requests a change in zoning at 27th and Old Cheney Road from A-1 single family residential to G-1 commercial. This would permit commercial development in a lovely residential area. The developer testified that he wanted to build a neighborhood shopping center at the site. We all know the problems of a shopping center, whether it be neighborhood, community or regional:

1. Despite all the talk at the City Council hearing last Monday, shopping centers are energy-consumers — not savers. They draw traffic from other areas if they have anything worth shopping for — if they don't, nobody wants to go to them. Neighborhood shopping centers increase the number of trips by car to pick up one or two items. If you have to go farther to shop, you plan better and shop less often. In addition, large floodlights and lighting systems burning night and day are not energy savers for anyone.
2. They cause litter with blowing paper and debris carried throughout the area. Ask a neighbor from any of the shopping centers about the litter problem.
3. They cause noise and air pollution.
4. They cause additional drainage problems with Beals Slough which I am told already overflows. With the additional concrete for faster drainage, the situation would be intensified.

At Monday's Council meeting, not one question was asked as to what type of shopping center was planned — whether it would even have a grocery store or any desirable shopping facilities. I presume the reason no question was asked was because as a practical matter it wouldn't make any difference what the developer told the Council about his plans. Once the zoning is changed, he may build in that zoning area exactly what commercial uses he pleases if it falls within that zoning classification. That can include a number of other commercial uses as well. That doesn't give us much protection.

The contention that the city needs a neighborhood shopping center every mile is erroneous and misguided because it does not recognize the way people really live.

1. You drive because normally you have too many groceries to carry.
2. You shop on your way to or from doing something else, i.e. work or other activities.
3. You shop where you like to shop and where you get the best values — not the closest place, and that may change from week to week. Retailers know this and that is why they advertise.

We are adequately served now, even without the neighborhood shopping center recently approved by Council at 40th and Old Cheney Road for this same developer. If the developer is truly concerned about residents of our area, then let him do the best job he can in developing a truly fine neighborhood shopping center at the 40th and Old Cheney Road site rather than divide his resources and effort in building two shopping centers at two locations. The Treasure City Shopping Center has had smaller shops empty for some time and finally secured a pinball arcade and karate school as tenants. Adjacent to Indian Village, the Coast to Coast Store just closed. If an established shopping center with more area from which to draw has difficulty securing tenants, what type of tenants can we expect to be placed in a new shopping area?

I submit these questions to the Council for its consideration before its vote next Monday. Any resident desiring to express his views should do so before that time.

Cough Remedy And Easter

Bennet, Neb.

As a busy home-maker now in the process of taking care of a family with flu-like symptoms, I have two thoughts I'd like to share in this miscellaneous letters.

Item (1) One boy coughed continually for a day and a night. We used home-made remedies, store-bought items and prescriptions. We were wearing out listening to him, frustrated in not knowing what to try next. Early one morning, lying awake trying to figure out what to do, the idea came — try a warm cloth on the area affected, with a hot-water bottle on top of the cloth. It worked. His cough left.

I developed a cough, so I tried this method for me. It worked. I just wanted to pass it along if I will relieve another home-maker. One should still see the family doctor and stay under his care, but this method is worth a try.

Item (2) Easter commercialism! How quickly Christmas came and went. We should remember that Easter is also a Christian celebration. We are celebrating and worshipping in churches in memory of what Christ did for us. He allowed Himself to suffer and He gave up His life so we might have our sins forgiven and have eternal life.

Easter is a happy, joyous time of the year. Let's celebrate it in a holy way. Let's avoid the egg hunts and the buying of new clothes and toys that the Easter bunny entices. These are pagan traditions. The egg and bunny symbolize fertility. Let's not use Easter to celebrate this kind of materialism.

A Symphony Of Shovels

Hastings, Neb.

Morning dawned with a gray dullness shrouding the neighborhood. Snow had been falling throughout the night. With the dawn came the chore of clearing the sidewalks and paths of their snowy covering. So, with overshoe-clad feet, gloved hands and a comfortably clothed body, out we went to meet the morning.

The view brought a lift to the spirit as we looked upon snow-capped buildings. The not-too-cold morning air was crisp but invigorating. Continuing snowflakes settled upon us as with broom and shovel the level covering upon the walks was removed and secure footing established on the solid surface of the cement. All too soon breath was short as we realized how unaccustomed we were to such extra exertion. We straightened our backs and leaned upon our shovel to look and listen as we regained our breath.

Down the street a piece we saw our neighbor. He too, was out to meet his responsibility. For, we remembered that the principal reason for clearing the walk in front of our house was that children on their way to school and other passers-by might have an easier way to walk to school or work. It was then that we realized again how much we help others when we do our own tasks and labor for our own convenience.

Again, we attacked our task. More snow was shoveled aside and a more solid and secure pathway was uncovered. Then, another pause to breathe deeply and let the increased heart-beat slow to normal. This time we looked a little farther and listened to the more distant sounds. It was the sight and sound of new activity in the business section of town. Merchants and professional men were opening store, shop and office. They too, had to clear a path to their doors. They too, had to open the way for the passer-by. Streets had to show a neat appearance to the prospective customer, the delivery-man as he parked his truck at the curb to replenish the merchant's supplies, or the chance visitor who might drive through the street.

The first man with his shovel who started the task saw a big job ahead. But, as one by one, his fellow townsmen and neighbors-in-business joined forces, the "Symphony of Shovels" became music to his ears. He soon realized that unitedly the task would soon be accomplished. So, he sent a cheery "Good Morning" or a friendly "Hi!" as neighbors shoveled to meet one another. And soon the whole town presented that "lived-in-look." And the "Symphony of Shovels" presented a parable of life from which many lessons for living could be learned. And thus, the snow-covered world became a concert stage for this symphony.

Two Conclusions

Milford, Neb.

After observing news reports on several sensational criminal trials, I've drawn two conclusions:

- (1) Psychiatrists base their opinions of a defendant's mental condition on who is paying the consultant's fee more than anything else.
- (2) Criminal defense lawyers are not going to be truly content until no one can be found guilty of any crime under any circumstances.

To Each His Own

Lincoln, Neb.

Not so inscrutable is the Chinese handling of American archcriminal Richard M. Nixon. Having traditionally viewed America as an outlaw, bandit nation, the Chinese perhaps detected a glimmer of American honesty in sending a diplomat to China to represent America.

What is it to the Chinese if the American people consent to being represented in the world arena by a U.S. government-certified gangster? To each his own poison.

Happy Birthday To Mrs. Jones

Eureka, Nev.

As curator of the local historical society, I received an interesting letter recently. It concerns a resident of Lincoln who may well be the oldest living person born in Eureka, Nevada. She has her 96th birthday on March 15, 1976.

We residents of Eureka, Nevada, would like to wish a happy birthday to Mrs. Ralph Wilson Jones, nee Nellie Nevada McFall. May she have many happy returns!

Imagine the changes she has seen in her lifetime! From Buffalo Bill Cody to moon landings. Cholera and consumption to heart transplants. Airplanes and antibiotics.

Ninety-five years is certainly worthy of some notice.

ON TARGET

By DON WALTON

More and more, it appears that Nebraska's Democratic presidential primary election in May will be a battle of the survivors. Poor souls.

Exhausted, plagued by money problems (with big and expensive California looming in June), their campaign organizations teeming with rivalry and intrigue, they will limp into our state two months from now.

Who will be left?

A bunch of primaries lie between tomorrow's donkeybrook in Florida and Nebraska's May 11 showdown. There will be some casualties along the way.

But it would appear that today's Big Four will still be around for the Nebraska test. Henry Jackson, George Wallace, Jimmy Carter and Mo Udall.

In addition, Frank Church plans to make his initial primary bid in Nebraska. And Robert Byrd may yet make an effort here.

If Fred Harris is still on the campaign trail in May, he can mount an effective organization here.

So one way or another, Nebraskans appear assured of a grand show.

The best guess is that all of the candidates would come here to campaign, except perhaps Wallace.

Pick the winner? No way. Much will depend on what happens in other states along the route to Nebraska. Someone may ride in here ahead of the pack, with the gathering momentum which attracts the large bloc of undecided voters. Someone may run out of money and fold his tent.

Some may be humiliated at the polls long before Nebraska. So who knows?

One guess. As of today, either Jackson, Carter, Udall or Church could win it. So could Wallace, of course, if the vote is evenly divided.

The winner here is usually the guy who works the hardest in the state. He must have a good organization, and then he has to come in personally and campaign.

Although Nebraska Democrats are not predominantly liberal, they have chosen liberals in recent presidential primary tests.

McGovern in 1972; Bob Kennedy in 1968; John Kennedy in 1960. Those three came here, organized, campaigned hard and won.

On the Republican slate, we may know soon whether we will have a contest in Nebraska in May.

If Ronald Reagan doesn't win Florida tomorrow, there may be no GOP clash here in two months.

But if Reagan is still in the battle in May, it ought to be a good race with President Ford in a conservative Midwestern state.

Two months is a long period of time in such a volatile presidential election year. The picture may be upside-down by the time we view it here in May.

Finishing up:
—Am I to guess that those who decry detente prefer confrontation?

—While Hess Dyas has begun his campaign walk for the U.S. Senate, Ed Zorinsky appears intent on riding to Washington in a jeep.

—In case you hadn't noticed (I hadn't), the Supreme Court refused to hear arguments to overturn the controversial ordinances in Petaluma (Calif.) which restrict the construction of new housing to 500 units a year. Thus, at least for now, urban growth can be limited by ordinance.

—Attention, would-be politicians: The State of Nebraska will take a free poll of your name recognition and voter appeal characteristics in your congressional district if you file as a national political convention delegate candidate by Friday.

—Sometime, but not now, we all ought to sit down and figure out why Pat Moynihan became such a folk hero with his show at the United Nations. Could he have been appealing to some if not most of our worst instincts?

—Okay, here it is, in answer to a floor of requests, namely one. Bill, as of tomorrow, there are only 200 days left before the Huskers take on the Christians in their first home appearance of 1976, shooting (we hope) for their third straight victory.

I am opposed to the change of Zone 1458 which requests a change in zoning at 27th and Old Cheney Road from A-1 single family residential to G-1 commercial. This would permit commercial development in a lovely residential area. The developer testified that he wanted to build a neighborhood shopping center at the site. We all know the problems of a shopping center, whether it be neighborhood, community or regional:

1. Despite all the talk at the City Council hearing last Monday, shopping centers are energy-consumers — not savers. They draw traffic from other areas if they have anything worth shopping for — if they don't, nobody wants to go to them. Neighborhood shopping centers increase the number of trips by car to pick up one or two items. If you have to go farther to shop, you plan better and shop less often. In addition, large floodlights and lighting systems burning night and day are not energy savers for anyone.

2. They cause litter with blowing paper and debris carried throughout the area. Ask a neighbor from any of the shopping centers about the litter problem.

3. They cause noise and air pollution.

4. They cause additional drainage problems with Beals Slough which I am told already overflows. With the additional concrete for faster drainage, the situation would be intensified.

At Monday's Council meeting, not one question was asked as to what type of shopping center was planned — whether it would even have a grocery store or any desirable shopping facilities. I presume the reason no question was asked was because as a practical matter it wouldn't make any difference what the developer told the Council about his plans. Once the zoning is changed, he may build in that zoning area exactly what commercial uses he pleases if it falls within that zoning classification. That can include a number of other commercial uses as well. That doesn't give us much protection.

The contention that the city needs a neighborhood shopping center every mile is erroneous and misguided because it does not recognize the way people really live.

1. You drive because normally you have too many groceries to carry.

2. You shop on your way to or from doing something else, i.e. work or other activities.

3. You shop where you like to shop and where you get the best values — not the closest place, and that may change from week to week. Retailers know this and that is why they advertise.

We are adequately served now, even without the neighborhood shopping center recently approved by Council at 40th and Old Cheney Road for this same developer. If the developer is truly concerned about residents of our area, then let him do the best job he can in developing a truly fine neighborhood shopping center at the 40th and Old Cheney Road site rather than divide his resources and effort in building two shopping centers at two locations. The Treasure City Shopping Center has had smaller shops empty for some time and finally secured a pinball arcade and karate school as tenants. Adjacent to Indian Village, the Coast to Coast Store just closed. If an established shopping center with more area from which to draw has difficulty securing tenants, what type of tenants can we expect to be placed in a new shopping area?

I submit these questions to the Council for its consideration before its vote next Monday. Any resident desiring to express his views should do so before that time.

Cough Remedy And Easter

Bennet, Neb.

As a busy home-maker now in the process of taking care of a family with flu-like symptoms, I have two thoughts I'd like to share in this miscellaneous letters.

Item (1): One boy coughed continually for a day and a night. We used home-made remedies, store-bought items and prescriptions. We were wearing out listening to him, frustrated in not knowing what to try next. Early one morning, lying awake trying to figure out what to do, the idea came — try a warm cloth on the area affected, with a hot-water bottle on top of the cloth. It worked. His cough left.

I developed a cough, so I tried this method for me. It worked. I just wanted to pass it along if it will relieve another home-maker. One should still see the family doctor and stay under his care, but this method is worth a try.

Item (2): Easter commercialism! How quickly Christmas came and went. We should remember that Easter is also a Christian celebration. We are celebrating and worshipping in churches in memory of what Christ did for us. He allowed Himself to suffer and He gave up His life so we might have our sins forgiven and have eternal life.

Easter is a happy, joyous time of the year. Let's celebrate it in a holy way. Let's avoid the egg hunts and the buying of new clothes and toys that the Easter bunny entices. These are pagan traditions. The egg and bunny symbolize fertility. Let's not use Easter to celebrate this kind of materialism.

A Symphony Of Shovels

Hastings, Neb.

Morning dawned with a gray dullness shrouding the neighborhood. Snow had been falling throughout the night. With the dawn came the chore of clearing the sidewalks and paths of their showy covering. So, with overshoe-clad feet, gloved hands and a comfortably clothed body, out we went to meet the morning.

The view brought a lift to the spirit as we looked upon snow-capped buildings. The not-too-cold morning air was crisp but invigorating. Continuing snowflakes settled upon us as with broom and shovel the level covering upon the walks was removed and secure footing established on the solid surface of the cement. All too soon breath was short as we realized how unaccustomed we were to such extra exertion. We straightened our backs and leaned upon our shovel to look and listen as we regained our breath.

Down the street a piece we saw our neighbor. He too, was out to meet his responsibility. For, we remembered that the principal reason for clearing the walk in front of our house was that children on their way to school and other passers-by might have an easier way to walk to school or work. It was then that we realized again how much we help others when we do our own tasks and labor for our own convenience.

Again, we attacked our task. More snow was shoveled aside and a more solid and secure pathway was uncovered. Then, another pause to breathe deeply and let the increased heart-beat slow to normal. This time we looked a little farther and listened to the more distant sounds. It was the sight and sound of new activity in the business section of town. Merchants and professional men were opening store, shop and office. They too, had to clear a path to their doors. They too, had to open the way for the passer-by. Streets had to show a neat appearance to the prospective customer, the delivery-man as he parked his truck at the curb to replenish the merchant's supplies, or the chance visitor who might drive through the street.

The first man with his shovel who started the task saw a big job ahead. But, as one by one, his fellow townsmen and neighbors-in-business joined forces, the "Symphony of Shovels" became music to his ears. He soon realized that unitedly the task would soon be accomplished. So, he sent a cheery "Good Morning" or a friendly "Hi!" as neighbors shoveled to meet one another. And soon the whole town presented that "lived-in-look." And the "Symphony of Shovels" presented a parable of life from which many lessons for living could be learned. And thus, the snow-covered world became a concert stage for this symphony.

Two Conclusions

Milford, Neb.

After observing news reports on several sensational criminal trials, I've drawn two conclusions:

(1) Psychiatrists base their opinions of a defendant's mental condition on who is paying the consultant's fee more than anything else.

(2) Criminal defense lawyers are not going to be truly content until no one can be found guilty of any crime under any circumstances.

To Each His Own

Lincoln, Neb.

Not so inscrutable is the Chinese handling of American archcriminal Richard M. Nixon. Having traditionally viewed America as an outlaw, bandit nation, the Chinese perhaps detected a glimmer of American honesty in sending a bandit to China to represent America.

What is it to the Chinese if the American people consent to being represented in the world arena by a U.S. government-certified gangster? To each his own poison.

Happy Birthday To Mrs. Jones

Eureka, Nev.

As curator of the local historical society, I received an interesting letter recently. It concerns a resident of Lincoln who may well be the oldest living person born in Eureka, Nevada. She has her 95th birthday on March 15, 1976.

We residents of Eureka, Nevada, would like to wish a happy birthday to Mrs. Ralph Wilson Jones, nee Nelle Nevada McFall. May she have many happy returns!

Imagine the changes she has seen in her lifetime! From Buffalo Bill Cody to moon landings. Cholera and consumption to heart transplants. Airplanes and antibiotics.

Ninety-five years is certainly worthy of some notice.

Lincoln Restaurants Listed By Health Department Inspection Ratings

The Lincoln-Lancaster County Health Department publishes the sanitation ratings of Lincoln's eating and drinking establishments every six months.

The rating of each place is based on a merit system, determined via unannounced inspections by health department sanitarians.

If an establishment has ten or fewer demerits, it is listed as "superior." Eleven to 20 demerits ranks an establishment as "superior-good." A score of 21-30 demerits is worth a "good" rating. Thirty-one to 40 demerits puts a restaurant at the bottom with a "good-fair" rating.

Scores above 40 demerits during a surprise inspection result in immediate action by health authorities, ranging from disposal of tainted food to closing of the restaurant.

"Superior" indicates that the health department has judged that a high level of sanitation is routinely practiced and maintained. "Superior-Good" means that a high level of sanitation is generally practiced and that deficiencies are corrected promptly. "Good" means sanitation is above minimum standards and deficiencies are corrected in time allowed. "Good-fair" means sanitation barely complies with minimum standards.

Following is the sanitation rating of Lincoln's eating and drinking establishments for the period ending December 31, 1975, the most recent listing available (Restaurants which opened during the six-month period ending December 31 are not listed):

Study: Finances Limit Building, Repair Of Homes

Increasing construction costs, high interest rates and the lack of loan money are reducing the number of new homes built, as well as limiting repair and modernization of existing homes, especially in small towns and rural areas in Nebraska.

That is a basic conclusion reached in a STAR (Strength Through Agricultural Resources) Report on Nebraska's Human Resources, one of a series of 12 such reports being released by the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources (IANR).

The report examines six aspects of Nebraska's human resources: housing, health, education, families and family life, aged persons and local government. The STAR human resources staff committee, composed of IANR and College of Home Economics staff and selected laypersons, considered these six aspects as being of statewide importance in the overall well-being of Nebraska's residents.

Reviewing trends in housing, the report listed an increase of 21.9% in housing units in urban areas and a 7.6% decline in rural housing units in the decade ending in 1970. Urban population now accounts for 63% of the state's total and rural 37%.

Noting that the ability to secure adequate housing is closely related to the level of family income, the authors of the report said Nebraskans' total personal income has shown a gradual increase since 1960. They pointed out, however, that farm income has been highly variable year to year.

The report continued: "Unless new techniques and materials are developed or family incomes increase measurably, there is no way that a moderate or middle income family can afford to build a new home. This combination of high interest rates and high construction costs have priced new homes beyond the reach of the average home buyer, including farm families as well as non-farm families."

Adoption Slow
The report said "new housing

construction techniques are adopted at a rather slow rate," with several factors bearing on the rate of adoption: "builders or contractors are now aware of or are reluctant to try new ideas, new materials may not be locally available, outdated building codes impede progress, and home owners are hesitant to try new materials or techniques."

The analysis called for "a more comprehensive study to identify ways of reducing construction costs through the use of new construction methods and techniques, improved design, and greater use of local building materials to stimulate the use of local labor and to reduce energy needs by helping eliminate long transportation hauls for wood and metal building materials."

It cited several new ideas "that have been used to a very limited extent," noting in particular single-layer floor construction, concrete slab floors on grade, all wood foundations, plastic pipe for plumbing, more insulation and steeper roofs.

The report called for a program providing small builders, contractors, and home owners with an effective and continuous flow of information on research developments and materials for home construction. Seen as cooperating groups would be the University of Nebraska, the State Department of Economic Development and private entities such as the Nebraska Home Builders Association.

Potential Return High
Because of the high percentage of family income spent for family housing, there should be a high potential for return on money spent for an effective educational program on housing, the report maintained.

Addressing the long-run situation, the report said "two rather drastic changes in attitude may be necessary to attain the national goal of a decent home for every American."

The first is seen as an altering

of collective perception that the acquisition of housing is solely the obligation of the individual. Rather, housing must become a matter for community concern. Manifestations of this are the Department of Housing and Urban Development requirement of a "housing element" to be a part of federally funded comprehensive plans, and establishment by communities of local development corporations to provide seed money for housing rehabilitation and/or new construction.

The second "and perhaps more traumatic" change in attitude is a change in perception about what a "home" is, the report stated. The possibility of a single family dwelling becoming unattainable in the future "need not be viewed as a disaster," it continued.

The Home's Task
A home must provide shelter and create an environment which enhances satisfying human relationships. This does not necessarily mean that every home must have a basement, a family room, an electric device for opening garage doors, or a garbage compactor, the report observed.

"What we must do, then, is to develop a philosophy about housing — an attitude that we are capable of deciding our own needs for shelter and an environment that provides for satisfying human relationships. The result might be that for many of us our aspirations might become more modest and attainable. We might also find ourselves willing to consider a greater variety of housing options."

Recommendations made were to:

— Urge the federal government to reinstitute both rental and ownership programs to assist low-income families.

— Establish a program which would provide state money or low-interest loans to community development groups for housing rehabilitation.

— Develop a statewide building code for manufactured (mobile, modular) housing.

— Provide technical assistance to community development groups to help them meet housing needs.

— Develop housing education programs for community groups, home owners, builders, landlords and tenants.

KEN WITT—PRESIDENT'S CHOICE

For providing superior insurance service to his clients in 1975, Ken Witt has been chosen by Prudential's president for special recognition. Ken has been awarded the company's President's Citation for the thirteenth time.

Thanks to his skill and dedication, individuals, families and businesses in this area have increased financial security. They're protecting their families and their future with Prudential insurance. Ken is one reason more people come back to Prudential for another piece of the Rock than ever get started with most other life insurance companies.

Ken's office — Ken Witt, Inc. — is at 222 Sharp Building in Lincoln.

Doctors Prove You Can Help Shrink Swelling Of Hemorrhoidal Tissues Due To Inflammation. Relieve Pain And Itch Too. Gives prompt temporary relief from hemorrhoidal pain and itch in many cases.

When inflammation, infection and swelling exist in hemorrhoidal tissues—it can be very painful for the sufferer. But there's an exclusive formulation which in many cases gives hours of relief from the burning itch and pain in hemorrhoidal tissues. It also helps shrink the swelling of such tissues. Sufferers are delighted at the way it acts so gently and is so soothing to sensitive tissues.

Tests by doctors on hundreds of patients reported similar successful results in many cases. And it was all done without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or stinging, smarting astringents of any kind.

You can obtain this same medication used in these tests at any drug counter. Its name is Preparation H. Preparation H also lubricates to protect the inflamed, irritated surface area to help make bowel movements more comfortable. Be sure and try Preparation H. In ointment or suppository form.

When furnace filters become clogged with dust and dirt particles, they can't do their job properly, and your furnace or air conditioner has to work overtime to do its job.

That costs energy and money. Your filter should be changed or cleaned every 30 days. Spring housecleaning will soon be under way and dust will find its way into your filters. Remember...changing that dirty filter is just as important as any other housecleaning chore. If you have an outside air-cooled air conditioner, you should check those filters, too.

Lincoln Restaurants Listed By Health Department Inspection Ratings

The Lincoln-Lancaster County Health Department publishes the sanitation ratings of Lincoln's eating and drinking establishments every six months.

The rating of each place is based on a demerit system, determined via unannounced inspections by health department sanitarians.

If an establishment has ten or fewer demerits, it is listed as "superior." Eleven to 20 demerits ranks an establishment as "superior-good." A score of 21-30 demerits is worth a "good" rating. Thirty-one to 40 demerits puts a restaurant at the bottom with a "good-fair" rating.

Scores above 40 demerits during a surprise inspection result in immediate action by health authorities, ranging from disposal of tainted food to closing of the restaurant.

"Superior" indicates that the health department has judged that a high level of sanitation is routinely practiced and maintained. "Superior-Good" means that a high level of sanitation is generally practiced and that deficiencies are corrected promptly. "Good" means sanitation is above minimum standards and deficiencies are corrected in time allowed. "Good-fair" means sanitation barely complies with minimum standards.

Following is the sanitation rating of Lincoln's eating and drinking establishments for the period ending December 31, 1975, (the most recent listing available (Restaurants which opened during the six-month period ending December 31 are not listed):

Study: Finances Limit Building, Repair Of Homes

Increasing construction costs, high interest rates and the lack of loan money are reducing the number of new homes built, as well as limiting repair and modernization of existing homes, especially in small towns and rural areas in Nebraska.

That is a basic conclusion reached in a STAR (Strength Through Agricultural Resources) Report on Nebraska's Human Resources, one of a series of 12 such reports being released by the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources (IANR).

The report examines six aspects of Nebraska's human resources: housing, health, education, families and family life, aged persons and local government. The STAR human resources staff committee, composed of IANR and College of Home Economics staff and selected laypersons, considered these six aspects as being of statewide importance in the overall well-being of Nebraska's residents.

Reviewing trends in housing, the report listed an increase of 21.9% in housing units in urban areas and a 7.6% decline in rural housing units in the decade ending in 1970. Urban population now accounts for 63% of the state's total and rural 37%.

Noting that the ability to secure adequate housing is closely related to the level of family income, the authors of the report said Nebraskans' total personal income has shown a gradual increase since 1960. They pointed out, however, that farm income has been highly variable year to year.

The report continued: "Unless new techniques and materials are developed or family incomes increase measurably, there is no way that a moderate or middle income family can afford to build a new home. This combination of high interest rates and high construction costs have priced new homes beyond the reach of the average home buyer, including farm families as well as non-farm families."

Adoption Slow

The report said "new housing

construction techniques are adopted at a rather slow rate," with several factors bearing on the rate of adoption: "builders or contractors are now aware of or are reluctant to try new ideas, new materials may not be locally available, outdated building codes impede progress, and home owners are hesitant to try new materials or techniques."

The analysis called for "a more comprehensive study to identify ways of reducing construction costs through the use of new construction methods and techniques, improved design, and greater use of local building materials to stimulate the use of local labor and to reduce energy needs by helping eliminate long transportation hauls for wood and metal building materials."

It cited several new ideas "that have been used to a very limited extent," noting in particular single-layer floor construction, concrete slab floors on grade, all wood foundations, plastic pipe for plumbing, more insulation and steeper roofs.

The report called for a program providing small builders, contractors, and home owners with an effective and continuous flow of information on research developments and materials for home construction. Seen as cooperating groups would be the University of Nebraska, the State Department of Economic Development and private entities such as the Nebraska Home Builders Association.

Potential Return High

Because of the high percentage of family income spent for family housing, there should be a high potential for return on money spent for an effective educational program on housing, the report maintained.

Addressing the long-run situation, the report said "two rather drastic changes in attitude may be necessary to attain the national goal of a decent home for every American."

The first is seen as an altering

of collective perception that the acquisition of housing is solely the obligation of the individual. Rather, housing must become a matter for community concern. Manifestations of this are the Department of Housing and Urban Development requirement of a "housing element" to be a part of federally funded comprehensive plans, and establishment by communities of local development corporations to provide seed money for housing rehabilitation and/or new construction.

The second "and perhaps more traumatic" change in attitude is a change in perception about what a "home" is, the report stated. The possibility of a single family dwelling becoming unattainable in the future "need not be viewed as a disaster," it continued.

The Home's Task

A home must provide shelter and create an environment which enhances satisfying human relationships. This does not necessarily mean that every home must have a basement, a family room, an electric device for opening garage doors, or a garbage compactor, the report observed.

"What we must do, then, is to develop a philosophy about housing — an attitude that we are capable of deciding our own needs for shelter and an environment that provides for satisfying human relationships. The result might be that for many of us our aspirations might become more modest and attainable. We might also find ourselves willing to consider a greater variety of housing options."

Recommendations made were to:

— Urge the federal government to reinstitute both rental and ownership programs to assist low-income families.

— Establish a program which would provide state money or low-interest loans to community development groups for housing rehabilitation.

— Develop a statewide building code for manufactured (mobile, modular) housing.

— Provide technical assistance to community development groups to help them meet housing needs.

— Develop housing education programs for community groups, home owners, builders, landlords and tenants.

When furnace filters become clogged with dust and dirt particles, they can't do their job properly, and your furnace or air conditioner has to work overtime to do its job.

That costs energy and money. Your filter should be changed or cleaned every 30 days. Spring housecleaning will soon be under way and dust will find its way into your filters. Remember...changing that dirty filter is just as important as any other housecleaning chore. If you have an outside air-cooled air conditioner, you should check those filters, too.

When Hanging Art, You Should Like It

By CYNTHIA JOHNSON
Star Staff Writer

Facing a blank wall with hammer, nails and pictures in hand is, for some of us, like confronting one of Life's Great Mysteries.

We know that artwork can be hung effectively. We've seen it in the other peoples' homes, in art galleries, in home decorating magazines.

But how is it done? According to Jackie Lipsky, owner of The Home Gallery, when hanging art, "The rule is: If you like it, it goes."

Basically, "What you have to do is to hang the art, look at it and sit with it." And if it isn't satisfactory, redo it, said Mrs. Lipsky.

Most Hesitate

Most people have fairly good aesthetic sense when it comes to hanging art, she continued. But they hesitate to do it because they are "so uncertain of their own taste. They're just afraid of it."

"Ultimately, you have to live with it," so you should do what appeals to you, she said.

"That is not to say that there are not good and bad ways of doing things. There are little rules" which, if followed, may help to make a grouping — or a piece of art hung separately — more effective.

For example, she noted that, generally, a very small picture shouldn't be hung on a large wall because it will be out of proportion. However, such an approach may be effective "if it (the art) is very low, off in a corner" or hung in conjunction with a light fixture.

Odd Numbers Better

"I try to avoid being symmetrical" when arranging pictures, Mrs. Lipsky said, adding that, when it comes to quantity, "even numbers do not usually work."

"An odd number is always more aesthetic" in groupings of artwork, agreed Nancy Smith, Lincoln interior designer.

And she added that people should experiment with hanging things off center — over a mantle, a sofa, a table, etc.

A rather unusual way of hanging a group of pictures — seen frequently in Europe — is to hang them in a horizontal line with either the top or bottom edges of the frames at an identical height, Mrs. Smith suggested. This forces you to look at the art and not the grouping, she explained.

When doing an arrangement of pictures, "for interest, you want to use small, medium and large" items, Mrs. Lipsky said. And she cautioned against hanging pictures too close together (she suggested allowing two or more inches between the frames).

Too High A Mistake

Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Lipsky agreed that one of the most common mistakes made in hanging art is placing it too high on the wall.

Generally, art should be hung at the eye level of whoever lives in the house, Mrs. Smith said.

However, for variation, you might try hanging a picture at "sitting eye" level, Mrs. Lipsky said.

"Don't be afraid of coming down on your couch, on your mantle" with art, she continued.

Can Hang Anywhere

And don't hesitate to hang a picture in an "odd" place. "You can hang a picture anywhere," Mrs. Lipsky said.

If you are buying art to be used as decoration, and you have a particular spot in mind for it, buy a piece that will blend into the decor and color of your room, Mrs. Lipsky said.

However, if you are collecting art for its own sake, there is nothing wrong with mixing colors and styles of furniture and pictures.

Frame styles can also be combined effectively said Mrs.

Lipsky, who added "I will mix anything and everything."

'Most Have Too Few'

"Most people have too few pieces of art" in their homes, Mrs. Smith said. And she added that "art" need not be confined to pictures.

She suggested hanging artifacts — baskets, pieces of wood, quilts — or large pieces of designer fabrics which can be suspended from wooden rods or placed on a stretcher with a staple gun.

When deciding how to hang a grouping of art, it is sometimes helpful to lay the pieces out on the floor to get an idea of how they will look; or to do a diagram on paper, Mrs. Lipsky said.

Or you can just start hanging, Mrs. Smith suggested, putting the largest picture up first and then working around it.

Artworks Give A Room Character

By GRACIA McANDREW
Star Staff Writer

A room is just a room, until you make it your own.

And making a room, your home or apartment a place to enjoy includes decorating with furniture and color schemes of your choice.

But you can't stop there, because a house is not complete without the finishing touches that art — paintings, prints, sculpture — can provide.

Even if your budget will not allow for expensive art objects, a home can be tastefully decorated with quality, original pieces which are moderately priced.

Buy What You Like

The first rule of thumb when purchasing art, according to local gallery representatives, is "There are really no guidelines when buying art. People should just buy what they like."

"Of course, gallery people are always willing to suggest items or point out the quality of various pieces," said Carol White of Haymarket Gallery, "but we all change as we grow, especially in our appreciation of art."

Still, if your taste in art changes, "You can always enjoy items you purchased earlier on a level of nostalgia," she explained.

Although reproductions of masterpieces from good graphic societies can be used by people who like them, "the best thing to do is to look for prints," said Jackie Lipsky, owner of The Home Gallery.

"I'm talking about original prints," such as lithographs, etchings, intaglio, serigraphs, she said, "which are cheaper than paintings or watercolors."

'Originals Better'

"People should try to get originals rather than reproductions," agreed Page Spence, manager of the Sheldon Gallery Art Shop. "If you can get an original you like this would be a better purchase in the long run."

According to Mrs. Lipsky, area residents are fortunate because local artists and art students at local colleges and universities provide a variety of artistic styles and media at reasonable prices.

Those wanting to purchase art should "avoid tourist places when they go out of town," she added. Persons operating these tourist attractions "come to places like Lincoln and buy us out and sell these works for three times their original price."

"People should steer toward student work here. You can buy original prints — good ones — from students for as little as $10, although on an average they cost from $20 to $25."

Photos An Alternate

Other alternatives to purchasing expensive oils or watercolors include photographs, and macrame or woven wall hangings.

In addition, people can trim their initial investments by "using do-it-yourself metal frames," Mrs. Lipsky said. "People can save a fortune in framing, about $8 or $10 depending on where they buy them."

"Also, instead of buying wood frames, people should buy wood moldings from lumber companies, stain them and make their own," she suggested. "There also are books on making backing for pictures, as well as those on learning to mat pictures."

"Actually, people should avoid buying framed pictures, because when framed, the price is more than double."

Ceramics Less Expensive

In the area of sculpture, the three agreed, pottery or ceramics provide a less expensive alternative.

"Generally speaking, ceramics are the things that start at the lowest price in the Sheldon Art Shop," Mrs. Spence said. Noting that the ceramics price range is from $4 to $30, she said, "These are all originals by people in Lincoln, Omaha and Kansas City."

To determine what types of art they prefer, people should "go to exhibits so they can have some contact with artists and learn to appreciate the works of those they like," Mrs. White said.

"People should also visit the studios of students and artists," Mrs. Lipsky said. "Many artists will sell some of their older works for a lot less because they are overstocked."

'Don't Fear Questions'

"Also, you should never be afraid of asking artists about buying a picture without a frame or if they will lower the price, especially if you are buying more than one piece."

The three also suggested that persons ask galleries about their rental and/or their installment policies.

"You should not purchase art without trying it," cautioned Mrs. White. "Almost any artist will allow a painting to go out for a couple of days" so that people can see if they like them in a particular room.

In addition, many galleries have rental-purchase plans, she said, explaining, if a person rents a picture and decides to buy it, the money paid in rent will be applied toward the purchase price.

"Use of the rental-purchase plan is one way to buy art without pain," she concluded.

Public Hearing

Northeast Wastewater Treatment Plant
March 11, 1976, 7:30 P.M.

Sewage treatment is a problem most people seldom consider. But Lincoln is outgrowing its existing treatment facilities. That's why City engineers and planners are developing a proposal to build a new sewage treatment plant in Northeast Lincoln.

The proposed wastewater treatment plant would be built on City land near the present lagoons at 70th Street and Salt Creek. This proposal will be discussed at a public hearing on Thursday, March 11, 1976 at 7:30 p.m., in the Council Chambers, County-City Building. At this hearing, citizens will be encouraged to ask questions as well as comment on the proposed plans.

Detailed plans and maps can be inspected prior to the hearing at the office of the Acting Director of Public Utilities, County-City Building, Room 318-B, Lincoln, Nebraska.

Remember, Lincoln's tomorrow is being planned today. And, your opinions are important.

Public Hearing

Northeast Wastewater Treatment Plant
March 11, 1976, 7:30 P.M.

Sewage treatment is a problem most people seldom consider. But Lincoln is outgrowing its existing treatment facilities. That's why City engineers and planners are developing a proposal to build a new sewage treatment plant in Northeast Lincoln.

The proposed wastewater treatment plant would be built on City land near the present lagoons at 70th Street and Salt Creek. This proposal will be discussed at a public hearing on Thursday, March 11, 1976 at 7:30 p.m., in the Council Chambers, County-City Building. At this hearing, citizens will be encouraged to ask questions as well as comment on the proposed plans.

Detailed plans and maps can be inspected prior to the hearing at the office of the Acting Director of Public Utilities, County-City Building, Room 318-B, Lincoln, Nebraska.

Remember, Lincoln's tomorrow is being planned today. And, your opinions are important.

Don't Sign A Delivery Slip If Chemical Wasn't Ordered

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

Don't sign that chemical delivery order unless you're sure the product was actually ordered by you or another member of the family or business.

The signature could cost you a considerable amount of money for a product which was not ordered or actually refused.

The Consumer Protection Division of the office of Nebraska Attorney General Paul Douglas reports that there are some unscrupulous chemical firms working in Nebraska and in other states who are using unfair and deceptive acts to sell their products.

One complaint filed with that office alleges that a New York based-firm calls prospective customers and begins the conversation by thanking the individual for his order.

"What order?"

"You can hang up thinking that you have settled the matter only to find the chemical on your loading dock a week later," according to this complainant, who noted that these operators are "very clever."

The complainant said the salesman found out the name of the production manager of the corporation and phoned him and followed the same routine of thanking him for the order. This person knew nothing about the product, the firm or the order.

But, according to the complaint, the salesman apparently wanted only a phone conversation with someone on the corporation payroll so that he could claim that he had ordered the product over the phone.

According to Nebraska farm groups, similar tactics are being used in selling chemicals to farmers. Even if the farmer refuses to buy the chemical over the telephone, it may show up on the doorstep anyway.

And the unsuspecting farm wife or other family member may sign the delivery order not realizing that they may end up paying for chemicals which were never ordered.

One county agent warned farmers that "you will be told the chemical will cover 40,000 square feet for $20. That is 3,560 feet smaller than an acre."

He also contends the product being sold in his county is expensive and low in chemical content, requiring heavy applications for adequate control.

Similar operations are being investigated in other states. According to a report from Idaho, representatives of firms in the business of weed and brush control claim their chemical sprays have characteristics far superior to other chemical sprays of like composition.

The companies also use sales practices which are misleading, false and deceptive. For example, they mislead customers through telephone solicitation with respect to the quality of the product; charge unconscionable prices for the product in that the sales price of the chemical spray is approximately 16 times the base cost of production, and represent that various persons purchased the product when in fact they did not.

The Nebraska Consumer Protection Division is a part of the office of the attorney general of Nebraska. Persons wishing to contact the division can do so through the attorney general's office at the State Capitol.

Survey: Polls Gaining Acceptance

By LOUIS HARRIS

The Harris Survey has just concluded "a poll on polls," and the results indicate an increasing acceptance of the national polls by the American people.

Since 1974, the number of people who follow both the Gallup and Harris surveys has grown appreciably, and the number of Americans who view polls as an infringement of their right to privacy has declined from 24 to 19%.

A significant 40-21% plurality also gives a positive rating to the Gallup and Harris surveys for their accuracy in reflecting what the public is really thinking about different issues. Support for the polls runs strongest among the college educated, professional and executive types, white collar people, and middle of the road and liberal voters.

The polls, of course, have their critics, as the nationwide Harris Survey of 1,532 adults in late January found. Many of them have intensely negative views about public opinion surveys. Among the 21% who give the Gallup and Harris polls a negative rating on "reflecting public opinion as it really is," these are the major criticisms offered:

— "The number of people polled is too small." It is difficult for some to believe that a sample of 1,500 or 1,600 adults is an accurate reflection of an adult population of 145 million Americans. In fact, by the methods used to sample public opinion, if either national poll interviewing, it will usually poll an accurate representation of the population in miniature. Smaller polls and telephone polls often do not have very representative samples.

"The questions in polls are loaded." The way questions are put is a most sensitive and important area of polling. The best polls will not rely on a single question or even a few questions to obtain a true reading of public opinion. Experience has shown the people do not express their opinions in a neat package with a ribbon tied around it, but rather talk around their issues and preferences.

— "People don't always tell the truth." The claim here is that people interviewed will tell an interviewer what they think the polling organization wants to hear instead of what they themselves really think. There is considerable doubt that this is the case.

In 1968, George Wallace claimed he had a vote which the polls could never measure. The final Harris Survey predicted a 13% vote for Wallace and he obtained 13.5%.

In 1972, backers of George McGovern claimed there was a backlash vote on Vietnam that could not be measured and would show up on election day. It was never there and McGovern lost by a landslide.

— "People can change their minds." While attitudes about some issues and candidates show considerable volatility, the basic set of public opinion has been remarkably consistent in the Harris Survey over the past 7 years. Modern election polling, moreover, assumes that change is always possible in any potential contest, and the national polls repeatedly survey voter attitudes and preferences right up to election day to test for any last minute shifts.

For all of this positive news about the way the public feels about polls, one must be cautious. For all their precision and well-tried techniques, polls are manmade instruments, designed to measure human responses. They have been wrong in the past, and will be in the future.

Test Helps Pinpoint A Problem Drinker

DEAR ABBY: You recently printed a letter from a woman whose husband drinks enough beer to become very drunk, but who insists that as long as he drinks "only" beer, he's not an alcoholic. This is a common misconception.

I thought your readers would be interested in knowing that a "shot" of whiskey (one and a half ounces), a glass of table wine (five ounces) and a pint of beer (16 ounces) all have an equivalent amount (three-fourths of an ounce) of ethyl alcohol. The alcoholic becomes addicted to the ethyl alcohol, no matter which beverage he consumes.

Alcoholism is one of the major health problems in this country. However, it is a treatable illness that can be controlled if identified and treated.

The following quiz is distributed by the National Institute of Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism:

DO YOU HAVE A DRINKING PROBLEM?

1. Do you ever drink "doubles"?

2. Do you drink more now than you used to?

3. Do you sometimes gulp drinks instead of sipping them?

4. Do you think you need a drink to help you to relax? (Or to give you a lift?)

5. Do you drink when you are alone?

6. Do you sometimes forget what happened while you were drinking?

7. Do you keep a bottle hidden somewhere — at home or at work — for quick pick-me-ups?

8. Do you ever have a drink or two before going where you know drinks will be served?

10. Do you drink in the morning to relieve a hangover?

If you have four or more "yes" answers, you have a serious drinking problem.

For information and help, check your Yellow Pages under Alcoholism for the number of councils on alcoholism, the A.A., Al-Anon, and specialized treatment facilities.

HELPFUL IN HOUSTON

DEAR HELPFUL: Thanks. Your quiz is indeed helpful to those who are fond of saying, "I can take it or leave it alone," but who usually take it.

Atlanta, Ga. — Here's a warm (78 degrees) day in Atlanta. Home town of Coca Cola. Of Ty Cobb, "the Georgia Peach." Of Hank Aaron and Bobby Jones. Maynard Jackson is the first black Mayor in the Deep South.

Atlanta has changed some since General W. T. Sherman marched off to the sea, leaving only 29 houses standing around Peachtree Street.

We flew in to see the opening of the Peachtree Center Plaza. "Tallest building in the South. Tallest hotel in the world!" (Which was the tallest hotel? The Ukraine in Moscow. There's deep gloom in the Kremlin tonight, tovarishch.)

"This is the home of the Coca Cola hear," said the guide — we took a sightseeing bus tour.

The houses are ante bellum — white columns and a broad front porch. Shaded driveway. Lawns as smooth as a golf green.

"And this home," said the guide, "is the Rollins' home. He's the big bug exterminating company. Know what we call this home?" he asked looking back at us. "We call it 'The House the Termites Built.'"

To fill these 5,000 plus rooms, Atlanta is building the biggest convention center in the world.

At a cocktail party, a state senator said: "About 20 years ago, people would have said you were crazy. But there's lots of money in Atlanta. Lots of it. Just look at those millionaires' homes."

"Did you see the Rollins' mansion?" he said. "You know what we call it?" "What do you call it, Senator?" I said. "We call it, 'The House the Termites Built.'"

Those are the jokes, folks, from Atlanta.

Belladonna followed low from dummy on the spade lead, East winning the trick with the king and returning a spade to the queen. There didn't seem to be much to the rest of the play, but when Belladonna led the king and another diamond to the ace it turned out that the diamonds were divided 5-1.

Undaunted, Belladonna cashed the Q-J of diamonds and ace of spades, producing this position:

Hypnosis

What's it all about?

Question: How can hypnosis help a person "lose weight?"

Of course, the approach of the individual hypnotist may vary from office to office. Nonetheless we have learned several things about losing weight which are common across the board.

There is no miracle short-cut. We are able to take off weight only by the process of "eating less."

Moreover, for the person who has a great deal of weight to lose, it means a long time of eating less. Usually, hypnosis is tailored to make that task easier. In other words, it isn't that the hypnosis "made" you lose weight; it made it easier to eat less.

In my own practice, I like to give the suggestions to the overweight person which will help accomplish the following things:

1. To suggest that they will become a three meal a day eater. That they will eat meals, and a little less at their meals.

2. That they will not experience a desire to eat in between meals.

James D. McMillan

Usually, I have found that it is the in-between meals that clobber the overweight person.

3. I suggest that they will be "happier" eating less. That the less they eat, the happier they will feel and that they enjoy eating less.

Therefore, the hope is that they will begin to eat less, but not feel so punished by the process of dieting.

Survey: Polls Gaining Acceptance

By LOUIS HARRIS

The Harris Survey has just concluded "a poll on polls," and the results indicate an increasing acceptance of the national polls by the American people.

Since 1974, the number of people who follow both the Gallup and Harris surveys has grown appreciably, and the number of Americans who view polls as an infringement of their right to privacy has declined from 24 to 19%.

A significant 49-21% plurality also gives a positive rating to the Gallup and Harris surveys for their accuracy in reflecting what the public is really thinking about different issues. Support for the polls runs strongest among the college educated, professional and executive types, white collar people, and middle of the road and liberal voters.

The polls, of course, have their critics, as the nationwide Harris Survey of 1,532 adults in late January found. Many of them have intensely negative views about public opinion surveys. Among the 21% who give the Gallup and Harris polls a negative rating on "reflecting public opinion as it really is," these are the major criticism offered:

"The number of people polled is too small." It is difficult for some to believe that a sample of 1,500 or 1,600 adults is an accurate reflection of an adult population of 145 million Americans. In fact, by the methods used to sample public opinion, if either national poll

Louis Harris
Readership Increasing

sampled 15,000 or 150,000 or 1-500,000 adults each time out, the results should not vary by more than 3 or 4 percentage points.

However, criticism of the size of certain polls is at least partially justified. For example, a poll of 400 or 500 Republicans or Democrats is too narrowly based to be reliable or credible.

"The results are inaccurate." This charge implies that the polls are so far off in predicting elections that they should be disregarded. However, over the past three presidential elections, the final Gallup and Harris polls have been accurate within their stated margins of error.

In a number of primaries and state and local elections, however, polls have had a mixed record, with telephone polls easily the least reliable. In-home, in-person, in-depth polling is far and away the most accurate kind of polling. It is also the most expensive, which may account for the fact that so many organizations, in and out of the media, choose less reliable techniques.

"They do not poll the proper people." If a poll is conducted among 1,500 or 1,600 people and uses personal, at-home interviewing, it will usually poll an accurate representation of the population in miniature. Smaller polls and telephone polls often do not have very representative samples.

"The questions in polls are loaded." The way questions are put is a most sensitive and important area of polling. The best polls will not rely on a single question or even a few questions to obtain a true reading of public opinion. Experience has shown the people do not express their opinions in a neat package with a ribbon tied around it, but rather talk around their issues and preferences.

"People don't always tell the truth." The claim here is that people interviewed will tell an interviewer what they think the polling organization wants to hear instead of what they themselves really think. There is considerable doubt that this is the case.

In 1968, George Wallace claimed he had a vote which the polls could never measure. The final Harris Survey predicted a 13% vote for Wallace and he obtained 13.5%. In 1972, backers of George McGovern claimed there was a backlash vote on Vietnam that could not be measured and would show up on election day. It was never there and McGovern lost by a landslide.

"People can change their minds." While attitudes about some issues and candidates show considerable volatility, the basic set of public opinion has been remarkably consistent in the Harris Survey over the past 7 years. Modern election polling, moreover, assumes that change is always possible in any potential contest, and the national polls repeatedly survey voter attitudes and preferences right up to election day to test for any last minute shifts.

For all of this positive news about the way the public feels about polls, one must be cautious. For all their precision and well-tried techniques, polls are manmade instruments, designed to measure human responses. They have been wrong in the past, and will be in the future.

Opening lead - six of spades.
Strange things sometimes happen in world championships. For example, take this deal from the 1972 World Bridge Olympiad where the Italian stars, Avarelli and Belladonna, got to six notrump against France.

Belladonna followed low from dummy on the spade lead, East winning the trick with the king and returning a spade to the queen. There didn't seem to be much to the rest of the play, but when Belladonna led the king and another diamond to the ace it turned out that the diamonds were divided 5-1.

Undaunted, Belladonna cashed the Q-J of diamonds and ace of spades, producing this position:

He next cashed the A-K-Q of hearts, discarding a club and a diamond, and then played the A-9 of clubs. When East followed with the ten, Belladonna had to decide whether to finesse the jack or play the king. As usual, Belladonna guessed correctly. He went up with the king, caught the queen, and made the slam.

Unfortunately, Belladonna's fine guess proved to be absolutely wasted! It turned out that the hand had been brought to his table in error; it had incorrectly come from the women's championship that was being conducted simultaneously nearby. So Belladonna's score did not count — but he would have been exceptionally well rewarded had he been playing in the women's championship!

Hypnosis

What's it all about?

Question: How can hypnosis help a person "lose weight"?

Of course, the approach of the individual hypnotist may vary from office to office. Nonetheless we have learned several things about losing weight which are common across the board. There is no miracle short-cut. We are able to take off weight, only by the process of "eating less". Moreover, for the person who has a great deal of weight to lose, it means a long time of eating less. Usually, hypnosis is tailored to make that task easier. In other words, it isn't that the hypnosis "made" you lose weight, it made it easier to eat less. In my own practice, I like to give the suggestions to the overweight person which will help accomplish the following things:

- To suggest that they will become a three-meal a day eater. That they will eat meals ... and a little less at their meals.
- That they will not experience a desire to eat in between meals.

James D. McMillen

Usually, I have found that it is the in-between meals that clobber the overweight person.

3. I suggest that they will be "happier" eating less. That the less they eat, the happier they will feel—and that they enjoy eating less.

Therefore, the hope is that they will begin to eat less, but not feel so punished by the process of dieting.

Feeding Barn Borrows Ideas

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

Dr. Conrad Gilbertson, an agricultural engineer with the U.S. Department of Agriculture's research service, has designed a new building for feeding cattle that is 30% cheaper than conventional designs.

The building is nearing completion at the University of Nebraska Field Laboratory near Mead.

Gilbertson is best known to farmers for his research in manure handling and design of pollution control efforts for feedlots.

The new building is a beef confinement barn that has borrowed a gutter cleaner concept used by dairy farmers and a piped-water-in-the-floor concept used by some farmers in hog houses. But it has some new wrinkles dreamed up by Gilbertson.

Future Experiments

"What we have in mind eventually is to use this facility to work with experiments in feeding manure, experiments in manure handling, in warming the floor and in cooling the floor to see if it affects the animals any," he said.

One idea is drying manure by draining off liquids at two sites and storing it in a kind of pit silo.

"We know the liquids in a manure pit lose much of the nitrogen fertilizer value. We think we can have a much better fertilizer that is a lot easier to move to the field for starters," he said.

If draining the liquid off doesn't work, Gilbertson intends to try chopping up corn stalks and dumping them into the building in the form of bedding.

The floor is sloped toward the gutter, which will be automatically cleaned by a chain with arms that will carry the manure to a concrete pit outside the building. The pit can be used for storage of manure or a manure feed mixture for later feeding and can be emptied by a tractor-mounted manure loader.

Hopefully, the cattle will manage to move the manure into the gutter along with whatever bedding, straw, chopped corn stalks and other things Gilbertson tries to use to dry up the manure.

One such system, without the refinements Gilbertson has added, has been built on the Lowell Weisenkamp farm near Hooper.

Solar Heat Collector

"He has had trouble with freezing but I have that whipped. Eventually I hope to rig up a solar heat collector to warm the water in winter without using any energy except what comes from the sun," Gilbertson said. Gilbertson's dream includes:

- Finding a practical way to feed manure to livestock.

- Finding out if warming the floor in winter will make removing manure easier or is beneficial in improving the rate of gain of cattle.

- Learning if cooling the floor on extremely hot days in summer will be beneficial to cattle on feed.

- Finding a way to reduce the cost of moving manure to the field by reducing the amount of liquid in it.

- Finding a way to get more of the fertilizer value of manure to the field without losing it.

- Using solar heat to warm and cool his building.

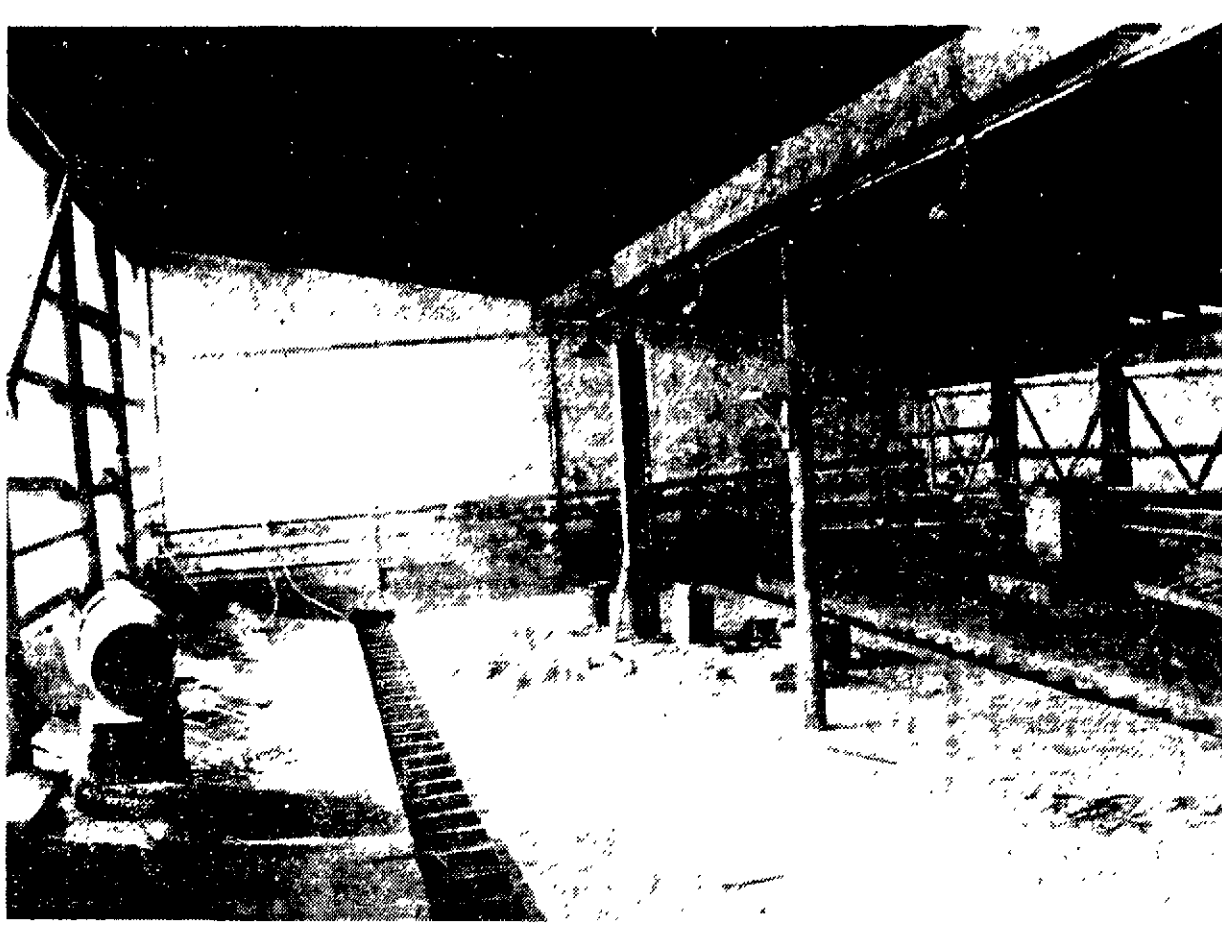

In the end, the ultimate goal is to reduce the cost of producing beef and reduce the need to buy fertilizer on farms.

"We might even be able to compost manure in it. A building like this has all sorts of research possibilities because it is so flexible with what we can do with it," he points out.

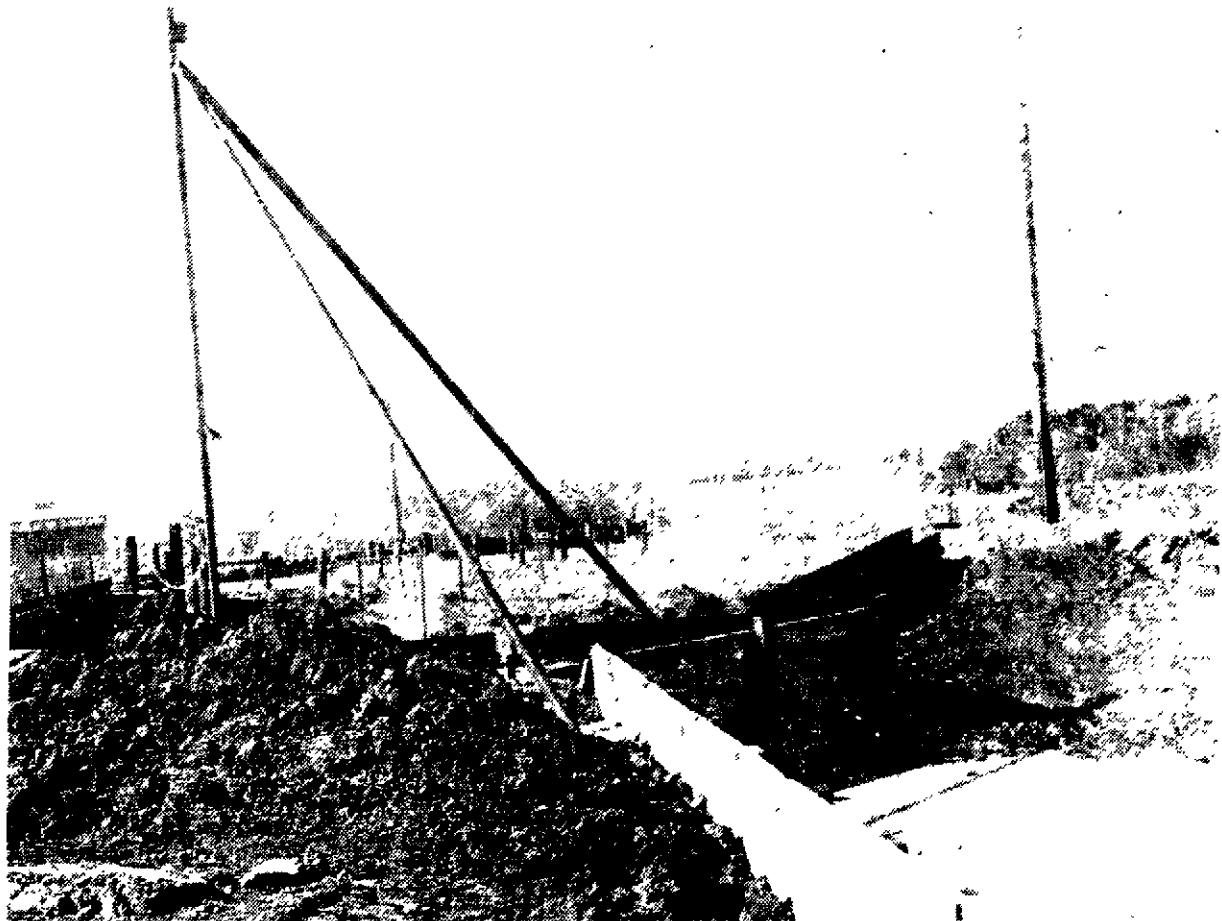

The final beneficiary of the research will be the consumer who will be getting food at a lower cost or at least at a slower rising cost.

Piles Of Work Facing Senators

By CHARLES E. WIESER
United Press International
Members of the Legislature undoubtedly shudder when they look ahead to the pile of work awaiting them with the March 31 adjournment rapidly approaching.

Still to be dealt with in addition to the budget are malpractice insurance, aid to education, capital punishment repeal, revision of the criminal code, prison construction, increasing the gas tax, political campaign reform and hundreds of other proposals.

Sen. Loran Schmit of Bellwood has been ready for several days to argue the merits of LB703, his proposal to confront the malpractice insurance crisis. Debate on the measure should come this week.

The bill would establish a review board to study malpractice complaints before a suit is filed. It would also have a $500,000 limit on general damages, sometimes referred to as pain and suffering damages.

LB390 For Impact

Heading the list of bills to be debated for the first time Monday is Sen. John Murphy's LB390. It's a carryover from last year but Murphy said he wants it discussed to "make people aware of the fiscal impact" if Nebraska had a compulsory state comprehensive state health care plan.

If the state had its own programs, set up under federal guidelines, "I want the people to be aware of the extremely high costs before they get overly enthused about such legislation," Murphy said.

Second on the list for first round debate Monday is LB819, which Big Springs Sen. Jack Mills has made his priority measure.

Period Would Lengthen
It would stretch from 7 to 10 weeks the penalty period before a person who quit his job voluntarily, was fired or refused to take "suitable work" became eligible for unemployment compensation. The period now is two to seven weeks.

LB819 would also empower the state labor commissioner, in some cases, to prolong beyond 10 weeks the period of ineligibility for the unemployment benefits.

Another feature would force companies with a "negative balance" in their unemployment compensation fund to kick in 3.7%, instead of 2.7%, of their annual payroll.

Aid Up For Debate

Third on the list of bills awaiting initial debate Monday is Ralston Sen. Gerald Koch's LB631, which would increase state aid to schools by $15 million annually until the level reaches 40% of the schools' operational costs.

But Koch said he will sponsor an amendment to tack $2.5 million more onto the aid with the extra amount earmarked for the Omaha School District, which will have to provide buses to carry out provisions of a federal court school integration order.

He said he didn't know if the amendment will be successful but indicated he thought it had at least a good chance.

Malpractice Issue Confronts Unicam

By EDWARD W. HOWARD
Associated Press Writer

State Sen. Loran Schmit acknowledges that the provisions of a medical malpractice bill he is sponsoring confront the Legislature with a difficult basic question.

"That question is, are we going to jeopardize the rights of all Nebraskans to have medical care, or are we going to limit the rights of some Nebraskans to sue for malpractice, and to limit what amounts can be recovered in such suits."

Schmit is the sponsor of LB703, a bill favored by the Nebraska Medical Association. The bill underwent extensive amendment in the Public Health and Welfare Committee, and Schmit will ask the Unicameral to reject some of those proposed changes.

Recovery Limited

Among the sections which Schmit wants to maintain, and which critics are concerned about, is one that would limit a patient's right to recover for pain and suffering to a sum related only to "provable economic loss."

Omaha Sen. John Cavanaugh, a committee member, has argued that such provisions could make it all but impossible for housewives, children and the retired to recover for pain and suffering, since they are not wage earners. Cavanaugh would have the provable economic loss factor removed from the section on pain and suffering, but Schmit wants it returned.

Schmit contends that people in the groups Cavanaugh mentioned could prove some economic loss, through additional help they might need around the house because of an injury, or through other circumstances.

Rates May Drop

"My experience indicates that when you have limited coverage in some form of insurance, your rates are going to be lower than when you have unlimited coverage," Schmit said. "This bill provides for limited coverage."

Schmit noted that an insurance company spokesman testified that there could be no guarantee that LB703 would keep malpractice rates from going up, or even keep insurance available.

"That is because no one can provide records on what the experience has been in Nebraska for malpractice losses. My bill would require the keeping of such records and so, in the future, you would have a handle on just that type of thing."

Common Law Rights

Trial attorneys have argued the bill interferes with common law by restricting a patient's right to sue. Schmit maintains that common law rights are protected by a section of the bill that would let any Nebraskan exempt himself from the act by choice.

"If you don't want to fall under this law, if it becomes law, you don't have to," Schmit said. "You can be protected under common law, the same system we are under today, by simply filing a form with the insurance director."

"Schmit isn't saying that Schmit has all the answers," the Bellwood lawmaker said. "This bill represents what I think is an effort in the right direction. I may be wrong."

"But something has to be done and this bill is a first step in the right direction, I believe."

Leftists Call Strike

Spotlight on Agriculture

You can expect to hear more shouting from farmers who grow soybeans and companies which process soybeans about palm oil imports that are undercutting soybean prices.

African and Pacific island farmers are planting more palm trees each year, producing the oil at a rapidly increasing rate in a drive to gather foreign exchange for their nations.

The funds for development have often come from U.S. tax dollars, some of which were paid by the very farmers and investors who make a substantial portion of their living from soybeans.

Palm oil is a highly saturated fat, a fact which many consumers either don't know or ignore in their efforts to reduce their food bill a bit.

The very same soybean growers who for years have been demanding free trade are suddenly demanding a tariff, a trade barrier of most any kind you can think of to end the flood of palm oil.

Mother Nature seems to be trying to tell the Ford administration it made a mistake canceling funds for soil and water conservation this year.

Dry weather from California to Iowa is causing dust to blow. Excess cropping, lack of ground cover and a drive to produce more food with less caution for the soil are at the root of the problem.

There are too many farmers from the new generation who don't remember the Dirty '30s and too many absentee landowners who are out to make a buck, rather than investing in the future by preserving their land.

It is going to take some federal money to get the job back on an even keel.

Unfortunately, too many Americans have decided the answer to their problems is a lack of federal money. We are going to have to face the fact that there is no really free lunch.

There isn't any magic federal money tree. It is our tax money. Maybe there isn't a better way to spend it, but it might be better to let us keep it in the first place.

☆☆☆

All Americans are losers in the grain scandal. This is one part of the whole mess that hasn't been well explained.

American farmers go to great lengths to produce top quality grain and soybeans. Grain traders have been blending corn into soybeans after farmers spent many a hot summer day pulling corn out of fields to it prevent being there

All this results in lower values for U.S. grain. The grain traders collect their margin of profit per bushel. The lower price is passed right back to the farmer who grew the crop.

He has fewer dollars to buy things, our nation's balance of trade is less favorable than it might be and our dollar is worth less.

Every U.S. citizen gets hurt when our national reputation as a quality grain market is damaged.

☆☆☆

Farmers are finding themselves increasingly the victims of grain thieves, machinery thieves, car thieves and chemical thieves.

It is a real good idea to make a list of engine numbers, model numbers and other identifying data for all your equipment.

It is a good idea to put your Social Security number on your valuable household items — television, freezer, stereo and things like that.

Your Social Security number is yours and yours alone. You might want to give one of the kids a felt-tipped pen to mark every last box of chemicals with the same set of numbers as you unoad it from your pick-up.

Go around and count your stuff once in a while so it isn't six months before you miss it.

The Agricultural Hall of Fame and National Center at Bonner Spring, Kan., is one of the world's best kept secrets.

Located just 17 miles west of Kansas City, the farm center had only 50,000 visitors in its 11th year. The Football Hall of Fame had 235,000 visitors in the last year.

The organization running the place has a fund drive under way along with some efforts at more publicity.

The afternoon session the first day will feature a panel discussion on milk quality, talks on how to properly install a milking machine, keeping records on manufacturing grade milk and antibiotic treatment of dairy animals.

The Thursday morning session will open with a panel discussion by University of Nebraska dairy researchers on "What's New in Dairy Science." Panel moderator will be Phil Cole, NU Extension dairyman.

Dealers in farm supplies say farmers are not ordering their seed and chemicals early this year. That suggests they are going to have to sell some grain before planting season in order to pay seed and chemical bills.

The normal January dumping of grain didn't happen in January or February, but it almost has to come in the next 40 days. Farmers just don't have the cash to pay the cost of putting in spring crops.

Dairymen Plan Meet At Utica

Utica — The Nebraska State Dairymen's Association will hold its annual business meeting Friday at the Flying "V" Ballroom at Utica, according to Phil Cole, University of Nebraska Extension dairyman.

The program will feature two nationally known authorities on dairy physiology and dairy genetics — Dr. Ed Call, of Kansas State University, and Dr. Clint Meadows, of Michigan State University.

The farmers can get some cash by going to the federal government's loan program. Local lenders haven't seen a spring rush request for money yet, indicating farmers are trying to shorten the loan period and reduce interest.

Wheat sales in February indicated that some farmers were starting to move the bread grain into the market, but corn and milo are still held tight by farmers.

One major hope to avoid a period of price depression is that Russia would come back into the market — now that its grain buyers have their new budget funded by the Supreme Soviet.

Continued drought will be a price strengthening factor while general rains and a few stories telling how the drought is broken could cause a price drop.

In trying to outguess the market you have to know in advance which combination of factors will occur. Rain, grain dumping and no Russian buy will be very depressing. If it stays dry, Russia makes a major buy and farmers manage to hang onto the crop things will go up sharply.

Exports Ahead Of 1975

Shipments of grain and soybeans from U.S. ports continue to run well above last year. Data reported by the U.S. Department of Agriculture are based on the shipping season for the particular crop.

The season begins Sept. 1 for soybeans, Oct. 1 for corn and grain sorghum and July 1 for other grains.

Dealers in farm supplies say farmers are not ordering their seed and chemicals early this year. That suggests they are going to have to sell some grain before planting season in order to pay seed and chemical bills.

The normal January dumping of grain didn't happen in January or February, but it almost has to come in the next 40 days. Farmers just don't have the cash to pay the cost of putting in spring crops.

Wheat sales in February indicated that some farmers were starting to move the bread grain into the market, but corn and milo are still held tight by farmers.

One major hope to avoid a period of price depression is that Russia would come back into the market — now that its grain buyers have their new budget funded by the Supreme Soviet.

Continued drought will be a price strengthening factor while general rains and a few stories telling how the drought is broken could cause a price drop.

In trying to outguess the market you have to know in advance which combination of factors will occur. Rain, grain dumping and no Russian buy will be very depressing. If it stays dry, Russia makes a major buy and farmers manage to hang onto the crop things will go up sharply.

Exports Ahead Of 1975

Shipments of grain and soybeans from U.S. ports continue to run well above last year. Data reported by the U.S. Department of Agriculture are based on the shipping season for the particular crop.

The season begins Sept. 1 for soybeans, Oct. 1 for corn and grain sorghum and July 1 for other grains.

Piles Of Work Facing Senators

By CHARLES E. WIESER
United Press International

Members of the Legislature undoubtedly shudder when they look ahead to the pile of work awaiting them with the March 31 adjournment rapidly approaching.

Still to be dealt with in addition to the budget are malpractice insurance, aid to education, capital punishment repeal, revision of the criminal code, prison construction, increasing the gas tax, political campaign reform and hundreds of other proposals.

Sen. Loran Schmit of Bellwood has been ready for several days to argue the merits of LB703, his proposal to confront the malpractice insurance crisis. Debate on the measure should come this week.

The bill would establish a review board to study malpractice complaints before a suit is filed. It would also have a $500,000 limit on general damages, sometimes referred to as pain and suffering damages.

LB590 For Impact

Heading the list of bills to be debated for the first time Monday is Sen. John Murphy's LB590. It's a carryover from last year but Murphy said he wants it discussed to "make people aware of the fiscal impact" if Nebraska had a compulsory state comprehensive state health care plan.

If the state had its own programs, set up under federal guidelines, "I want the people to be aware of the extremely high costs before they get overly enthused about such legislation," Murphy said.

Second on the list for first round debate Monday is LB819, which Big Springs Sen. Jack Mills has made his priority measure.

Period Would Lengthen

It would stretch from 7 to 10 weeks the penalty period before a person who quit his job voluntarily, was fired or refused to take "suitable work" became eligible for unemployment compensation. The period now is two to seven weeks.

LB819 would also empower the state labor commissioner, in some cases, to prolong beyond 10 weeks the period of ineligibility for the unemployment benefits.

Another feature would force companies with a "negative balance" in their unemployment compensation fund to kick in 3.7%, instead of 2.7%, of their annual payroll.

Aid Up For Debate

Third on the list of bills awaiting initial debate Monday is Ralston Sen. Gerald Koch's LB831, which would increase state aid to schools by $15 million annually until the level reaches 40% of the schools' operational costs.

But Koch said he will sponsor an amendment to tack $2.5 million more onto the aid with the extra amount earmarked for the Omaha School District, which will have to provide buses to carry out provisions of a federal court school integration order.

He said he didn't know if the amendment will be successful but indicated he thought it had at least a good chance.

Malpractice Issue Confronts Unicam

By EDWARD W. HOWARD
Associated Press Writer

State Sen. Loran Schmit acknowledges that the provisions of a medical malpractice bill he is sponsoring confront the Legislature with a difficult basic question.

"That question is, are we going to jeopardize the rights of all Nebraskans to have medical care, or are we going to limit the rights of some Nebraskans to sue for malpractice, and to limit what amounts can be recovered in such suits."

Schmit is the sponsor of LB703, a bill favored by the Nebraska Medical Association. The bill underwent extensive amendment in the Public Health and Welfare Committee, and Schmit will ask the Unicameral to reject some of those proposed changes.

Recovery Limited

Among the sections which Schmit wants to maintain, and which critics are concerned about, is one that would limit a patient's right to recover for pain and suffering to a sum related only to "provable economic loss."

Omaha Sen. John Cavanaugh, a committee member, has argued that such provisions could make it all but impossible for housewives, children and the retired to recover for pain and suffering, since they are not wage earners. Cavanaugh would have the provable economic loss factor removed from the section on pain and suffering, but Schmit wants it returned.

Schmit contends that people in the groups Cavanaugh mentioned could prove some economic loss, through additional help they might need around the house because of an injury, or through other circumstances.

Rates May Drop

"My experience indicates that when you have limited coverage in some form of insurance, your rates are going to be lower than when you have unlimited coverage," Schmit said. "This bill provides for limited coverage."

Schmit noted that an insurance company spokesman testified that there could be no guarantee that LB703 would keep malpractice rates from going up, or even keep insurance available.

"That is because no one can provide records on what the experience has been in Nebraska for malpractice losses. My bill would require the keeping of such records and so, in the future, you would have a handle on just that type of thing."

Common Law Rights

Trial attorneys have argued the bill interferes with common law by restricting a patient's right to sue. Schmit maintains that common law rights are protected by a section of the bill that would let any Nebraskan exempt himself from the act by choice.

"If you don't want to fall under this law, if it becomes law, you don't have to," Schmit said. "You can be protected under common law, the same system we are under today, by simply filing a form with the insurance director."

"Schmit isn't saying that Schmit has all the answers," the Bellwood lawmaker said. "This bill represents what I think is an effort in the right direction. I may be wrong."

"But something has to be done and this bill is a first step in the right direction, I believe."

Leftists Call Strike

Madrid, Spain (UPI) — Left-wing underground groups called a general strike in the restive Basque region to protest the "assassination of workers" during the bloodiest street rioting of the post-Franco era.

Space Beam System For Public Television Nears Phase Two

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

The proposed satellite interconnection system for public television might enter phase two in April, a decision point regarding the $38.40 million estimated costs for the project that would use space beams in 1980.

The first-phase investigation work should be complete in a month, said Boyd Rooney, Nebraska Educational Television Network assistant general manager for operations.

The NETV Commission in April will be asked to approve a Corporation for Public Broadcasting request to proceed with phase two engineering work throughout the U.S.

Rooney told commissioners that phase three, the signing of construction contracts, could begin as early as this fall and run through spring 1978. The system should be operational 21 months later.

Lincoln is pegged to get receiving and transmitting equipment. Decisions on regional terminals will be made within a year, said Commission Chairman Philip Heckman of Crete.

NETV Network General Manager Jack McBride said a $32 million insurance company loan is being sought to build ground installations for the system, including about $27 million for receivers. The long-term equity would be shared 85% by the federal government, and 15% by licensees such as NETV at $25,000 each, he said.

NETV would then own its license and could rent space on Westar, a Western Union-owned satellite already in orbit which would offer transponder channels. They initially would transmit three programs simultaneously for NETV to broadcast or record for later use. An additional channel would be available the second year.

The three key parts of the satellite interconnection system are the satellite, transmit ground and receive-only ground terminals. A Westar seven-year lease is proposed, with renewal options, as are provisions for microwave and cable facilities.

The system requires a long-term federal funding bill and appropriations, plus commitments by CPB and the Public Broadcasting Service. The main transmit ground terminal would be in the Washington, D.C., area.

Receiver terminals would be near public TV studios, connected by cable, or use line of sight microwave towers 15 to 35 miles apart.

Benefits expected include long-term cost effectiveness, rapid and simplified growth, station autonomy, programming flexibility and improved technical quality and reliability.

For example, the approximate annual cost increase for each new station using the satellite is $22,000, compared to $55,000 for present terrestrial operations. Inflation impact could be cut from 40% to 15%.

The growth potential would allow satellites to reach stations now beyond practical microwave limits. The satellite power would be equal nationwide. Terminals and channels could be added easily.

Programming flexibility includes instructional TV and regional coverage, special minority and target audiences, station services and congressional coverage, among others.

Possible barriers to operation include rejection or delay by the Federal Communications Commission, congressional disapproval, insufficient money or lender refusals and cost changes.

Cost $38 Million

Initial system capital costs are estimated at $38,400,000, of which $2.9 million is marked for administration and management. Annual costs would be $9,223,000, including almost $5.3 million debt service.

By 1988, recurring costs are estimated to increase to $12.78 million as more stations are added. Of that, satellite transponder leasing is estimated at $2.4 million in fiscal 1979 and $3.6 million by 1988.

Terrestrial system costs in 1979 would be $11.18 million, to pay American Telephone & Telegraph and other common carriers, private systems, tape distribution, time zone delays (all CPB funds). States with independent licensees would bear $1.7 million of that amount.

The full system terrestrial cost is estimated to increase to $18.18 million by 1988.

Cost comparisons indicate present public TV terrestrial systems would cost $18 million by 1988, versus the satellite system at approximately $12 million.

Work Prospects Bad Till Summer

Omaha (AP) — Labor market observers and public officials say the prospects for those out of work in Nebraska and Iowa won't improve much until at least late summer.

Jerry Shroyer, manpower research economist for the Iowa Labor Bureau, said unemployment apparently has peaked, but still is above normal.

Observers said there usually is a lag of several months before national economic developments are reflected locally. The picture also is affected by situations such as the phaseout of more than 1,000 jobs at Wilson and Company's Omaha plant, which is being closed.

Rod Barnes, manager of the Nebraska Job Service's Omaha office, said jobless rates increased as expected from December to January. He said the size of the jump in the Omaha area "surprised just about everyone."

Barnes said February figures, to be released soon, normally would show decline, but no major changes can be foreseen. Officials said the same is true statewide in Nebraska and Iowa.

In Nebraska, the January unemployment rate was 6.2%, representing 43,500 unemployed workers and up from 5% in December. The January, 1976, Nebraska figure was identical to that of January, 1975.

Iowa's January unemployment rate was 7.1%, compared with 6.4% in December and 6.5% in January, 1975. December and 6.5 per cent in January, 1975.

Pawnee City Mayor McKee Resigns

Pawnee City — Due to health reasons, Clyde McKee has resigned as mayor of Pawnee City. He served two years on the City Council and was starting on his seventh year as mayor. As president of the council, Bob Moser will assume duties of the mayor. He has served two different terms on the council.

Woman Named Probation Officer

Ogallala — Barbara Anderson of Paxton has taken over her duties as Keith County probation officer, succeeding Dennis Shepherd, who moved to California. Mrs. Anderson was appointed to the post by Keith County Judge Richard Myers. She previously worked in the county attorney's office four years and in the county judge's office for the past three years.

Spencer Gym Issue Approved

Spencer — In a special election here, School District 17 voters approved a $300,000 bond issue for a new high school gymnasium. The vote carried by a 71% margin, officials said.

Rev. Gettinger Plans To Resign

Crete — The Rev. Paul Gettinger, pastor of the First Congregational United Church of Christ, has announced he plans to resign from his post in June. In Crete for the past four years, the Rev. Mr. Gettinger recently resigned his post as a Board of Education member and as head of the Community Improvement Program. He plans to do informal ministry in Merom, Ind., and will farm some property owned by his mother.

Fire Hall Issue Facing Ravenna

Ravenna — Voters here will go to the polls Tuesday in a special election to decide on a $85,000 fire hall bond issue. Funds would be used for the construction of a new fire hall. The proposal was placed on the ballot via petition.

Barber Seeks NPPD Seat

Beatrice (AP) — A Beatrice electrician has announced his candidacy for the Nebraska Public Power District board of directors. George H. Barber paid his filing fee and is seeking the District 8 seat on the board, now held by Guy Cooper of Humboldt. Cooper is not seeking re-election to the board, but will seek election to the state Legislature. A Falls City resident, Heasty Reesman, is also a candidate for the seat being vacated by Cooper.

NETV Still Examining Public Radio

The Nebraska public radio network feasibility study is still underway, but Nebraska Educational Television Commission Chairman Philip Heckman of Crete says any talk of pursuing frequency assignments is "premature."

Commissioner Edwin C. Nelson of Chadron, who heads the committee studying public radio, said the members are reviewing reports from other states and program tapes.

A trip scheduled last Friday to Madison, Wis., was postponed when the commission resolved its logo controversy.

Heckman said Ron Kurtenbach of Sunrise Communications notified him of the so-called "89.5 problem" on part of the already crowded FM band reserved for educational and public use.

Boyd Rooney, NETV Network assistant general manager, explained that Sunrise has on file with the Federal Communications Commission an application for a non-commercial public radio station license in Lincoln.

The application, Rooney said, is for "the same frequency we determined most desirable, should the commission decide to pursue public radio." He said it may also cause interference with the frequency held by WOWT-TV, Channel 6, Omaha.

Frequency allocation will be "one of the very tough nuts we will have to crack" in the eastern half of Nebraska's crowded band, Rooney said. A final report is expected by October.

In regular business, the commission authorized NETV to buy a translator for the proposed Falls City site for about $24,000. The used equipment now located in the Empire State Building was damaged by fire and will cost only $750, plus $500 for removal from the New York City Spire.

Refurbishing will make the translator like new, the commission was told, and will cost the state $15,000 to $18,000 less than the $39,000 price tag for new equipment.

The commission approved bids totalling approximately $17,000 to improve reception at Culbertson, Stratton, Trenton and Verdigris, and another $10,000 for Neligh.

Also approved was a $25,967 bid by Anderson Fire Equipment Co. for a fire protection system in the lower level areas that house technical equipment in NETV headquarters, 1800 N. 33rd. The Legislature has appropriated the funds.

Rooney reported that NETV, Southeast Nebraska Technical Community College and the University of Nebraska are exploring a joint training program for engineers. NETV might loan equipment to SETech, and "We may, in the long run, help ourselves," he said.

Ms. Dee Everitt Will Seek 1st District Ed Board Seat

Ms. Dee Everitt of Lincoln has filed as a candidate for the First District on the State Board of Education.

The seat is currently held by Frank Landis of Lincoln, who is a candidate for re-election.

Ms. Everitt, 49, has long been active in special education and legislative efforts for handicapped persons.

"While my activities in legislative and regulatory areas of education were originally intended particularly for the mentally and physically handicapped, I see the lack of on-going progress in achieving quality education statewide as the primary concern for all citizens," she said.

"I strongly believe in the need to expand state aid to education."

Ms. Everitt said the Department of Education also needs to "supply the leadership" in directing its vocational rehabilitation program.

Osceola Youth Dies In Crash

Duncan (AP) — Duane Mangelsen, 18, of Osceola was killed in a two-car collision in Polk County Sunday.

The State Patrol said Mangelsen's auto was in collision at a county road intersection four miles south of Duncan with a car driven by Sterling J. Sierchs, 54, of Fremont.

Troopers said both were alone in their vehicles.

NU Cagers' Season Appears Over

By BOB OWENS
Star Sports Editor

Nebraska's 1975-76 basketball season apparently has ended. The Cornhuskers, who wrapped up a 19-8 record with an impressive victory Saturday over Iowa State, aren't mentioned among ten schools which will fill six remaining spots in the National Invitation Tournament.

The NIT completed half of its 12-team field Sunday by naming Louisville, Kentucky, Oregon, Providence, North Carolina A & T, and Niagara to the post-season classic, which will be held at New York's Madison Square Garden March 13-21.

The Big Eight Conference's runner-up team, Kansas State, was one of the ten teams from which the NIT selection committee will select to fill the field. Even the Wildcats, who finished 20-7 overall, don't figure to be named.

Among those teams are three nationally ranked outfits — Maryland, North Carolina State, Florida State and Texas A & M. Additionally, the NIT has available South Carolina, which gave Marquette a battle Sunday in a nationally televised game, San Francisco, North Texas State, and a couple of nearby "drawing cards" in St. Peter's of New Jersey and St. Bonaventure.

Kansas State was by-passed by the NCAA Sunday when DePaul of Chicago, 19-8, was given a spot in the East regional where it will meet Virginia's surprise Atlantic Coast Conference tournament champions.

"The key word in describing our thoughts is surprise and bewilderment of how they could arrive at that decision in view of our play last year," K-State coach Jack Hartman said.

The Wildcats were selected as an at-large team last year with a 19-8 record and went to the Eastern finals where they lost to Syracuse in overtime. The NCAA basketball committee this time apparently was unimpressed with K-State's struggling overtime victory over Oklahoma State in the season windup Saturday afternoon at Stillwater, Okla.

The NCAA took a slap at Kansas State's schedule even though

THE LINCOLN STAR Sports Monday, March 8, 1976 11

The Wildcats played three teams in the NCAA field (Texas Tech, Arizona and Missouri).

"If you look at the past you see we have developed a tradition of not penalizing teams which face tough competition," Tom Jernestedt said, assistant to the executive director of the NCAA. "We try to reward teams with difficult schedules, which haven't tried to schedule around tough teams for the purpose of getting an invitation to the NCAA tournament."

DePaul beat tournament-bound Memphis State by nine, Virginia Tech by eight, and Cincinnati by ten while losing to Marquette twice and Notre Dame by 21 on the road. The Demons also own wins over George Washington, Louisville at Louisville, Providence and Villanova at Villanova. Among the eight losses were games to Niagara and St. Bonaventure, which made it the ECAC semifinals.

"We felt that represented a pretty good schedule," Jernestedt said. "Those games made an impression on the committee and when it looked at Kansas State's schedule it did not see that kind of competition. K-State beat Arizona, lost to Texas Tech and split with Missouri in games with tournament-bound teams."

Another factor which may have worked in DePaul's favor was that the selection committee originally extended invitations to only four independents — second-ranked Marquette, fifth-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas, No. 10 Notre Dame and unranked Virginia Tech.

The selection of Kentucky was a big surprise in the NIT field. The Wildcats are 15-10, but looked impressive in a nationally televised victory over Alabama Saturday afternoon.

Kentucky has not been to the NIT since 1950, the year before the point-shaving scandals broke out. The Wildcats, last year's NCAA runnerup, won the NIT in 1946 and 1950, finished second in 1947 and third in 1944.

Records of other NIT picks include Louisville, 20-6; Oregon, 19-10; North Carolina A & T, 20-5; Providence, 19-9; and Niagara, 17-11.

Louisville originally had been picked by the NCAA, but the Cardinals were dropped following a decisive 87-76 loss to Memphis State last Friday in the Metro-6 tournament. The NCAA chose Memphis State instead and assigned it to oppose Pepperdine in the West Regional.

Burke's Dickey Faces Friends In Opener

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Editor

For Bob Dickey, Thursday means a lot more than being on the floor for the first center jump in the history of the University of Nebraska Sports Center.

Dickey, a 5-11 senior guard for Omaha Burke, will be squaring off against many of the friends he grew up with in Columbus as the Bulldogs meet the Discoverers at noon in the Class A state tournament opener.

"I called up Jeff Morris (Columbus) 5-10 senior guard starter) today to congratulate him for beating Fremont out in district," Dickey related Sunday. "He mentioned to me that Thursday's game was going to be a lot like two friends going out to kill each other," Dickey said. "The killer instinct won't be there at first."

Dickey's mixed emotions are natural. He was born in Columbus and lived there until March of his eighth grade year when his father moved to Omaha to train as a district post office manager.

Three of Columbus' starters — Morris, Todd Troholz and Mark Redrow — and Discoverer varsity squad members Bill Beckenhauer and Allen Korte played on the same North Park grade school team with Dickey in Columbus.

Friends, Neighbors

"They were all from my neighborhood," Dickey pointed out. "We went to junior high together, too, and were good friends. I know they're going to be tough. They're all talented and they all hustle."

Dickey's move to Burke has been a profitable one. He was a varsity letterman on the Bulldogs' state tourney qualifying team as a sophomore and a starter on last year's team, which dropped a two-point decision to champion Omaha Central in the semifinals.

Columbus coach Denny Bagen would welcome that type of experience. "If Bob still feels any commitment to Columbus," Bagen joked, "then we'd like to use him for one game and then Burke can have him back."

Actually, Bagen expects a rousing opening for the new Sports Center. "It'll probably be — no I know it will be — a running game," he said. "We should help get the tourney off to a running start."

York — Sunset Bowl of York and Don Watts of Blair are the current leaders in the teams and men's all-events in the State Legion Bowling tournament, now in its second of six weeks.

Watts has a 1716 score, while Sunset Bowl has 3063. Others leaders include Duane Hodge with a 719 in the men's singles and Ed Wielego and Lamar Bice of Uica in the men's doubles with a 1359.

Women's leaders include Beauty Lane of York in the teams with a 2714 score; Bonnie Baker and Julie Schuster of Blair in the doubles with a 1167; Donna Chenault of York in the singles and Pat Kropp with a 1613 in the women's all-events.

agrees "there'll be plenty of movement" and definitely feels playing in the first game at the Sports Center is special.

"It's a great thrill just to play in the state tournament," Johnette said. "But playing the first game in a place like that is something you'll remember forever. I just hope it doesn't take any concentration off the game."

Dickey, who has averaged 11 points a game, paid his coach a visit Sunday afternoon. "Bob's extremely excited about playing Columbus and he has a right to be," Johnette said.

"I'll be prepared to go all out," offered Dickey. "I'm sure Columbus will be ready, too. I can't picture any hesitation from anyone."

Columbus counts a five-game winning streak in its 11-7 record entering the tournament. Included in that streak is a 68-51 win at Omaha Northwest, a state tourney qualifier, and a 73-71 homecourt upset win over highly regarded Omaha Benson.

"Dickey watched us play Northwest and at Omaha Bryan late in January," Columbus coach Bagen noted. "There's an added incentive there. It should make things even more fun."

Natural Build Up

Bagen thinks there's a natural tendency to build up the Burke-Columbus matchup since it's the first game in the Sports Center. He thinks the Discoverers have matured enough during the season to make a representative showing.

"We've got a fair shot," he said. "If the kids don't get nervous."

Creighton Prep (20-2) is the tourney's top Class A seed following Sunday's pairings meeting at the Nebraska School Activities Association.

Hartington Cedar Catholic (25-1) is Class B's top seed. Southeast Consolidated, the state's only remaining unbeaten team at 22-0 is Class C's top seed and Nelson (20-1) earned the same honor in Class D.

Crete Class B's second-seeded team with a 19-2 record, is the only team in the state tourney field with the chance to defend a state championship.

Kansas City — A battle of the boards is expected in the NAIA first round game between Doane and Norfolk State at 2:45 p.m. Monday at Kansas City's Kemper Arena.

The Doane Tigers, winners of the NAIA District 11 playoffs last week over Hastings, boast a front line average of 8-6, while the Spartans average 6-7.

Norfolk State, the District 29 champion, gained its national berth by upsetting 11th ranked Campbell College of North Carolina in the finals of the district playoffs.

Forward Gene Cunningham, a 6-6 senior, paces the Spartan attack with a 23 points per game average and 11 caroms per game. The rest of the Norfolk State front line includes Ray Epps and Melvin Burns who average 19 and 11 points respectively.

Spartan assistant coach Tom Morehead explains his team as, "controlled breaking offense and we try to dominate the boards."

"Cunningham can give us help from the outside but we like him to go one-on-one inside," Morehead said.

This is the second straight year in the national tournament for the Spartans and their third time overall. Doane has also been to the meet three times, the last time in 1971, when the Tigers won the district playoffs over Wayne. Doane lost in the first round that year to Central State of Washington.

"It's a lot different than preparing for Hastings, who we've scouted and know what they're going to do," said Doane coach Bob Erickson. "We're just trying to stress general things in practice concentrating on defense."

"Norfolk is in the same position as us, in that they don't know much about us," said Erickson, who was recently named the District 11 coach of the year.

The Tiger defense, which has allowed 73.9 points per game this year, will be given a tough test as Norfolk State averages 91 points per game.

The Tigers will rely on the outside scoring punch of senior guard Joe Wharton, who averages 18.6 points per game and Tom Westover, who has been averaging over 18 points a game for the last six Tiger games.

Bob Taggart a 6-6 forward, is listed second in Nebraska with 12.4 rebounds per game and center Mark Kenney averages just under 10 caroms a game for the Tigers inside. The other forward Randy Wenz is Doane's second leading scorer with a 13.9 points per game average.

Fort Gains Area Honor

Kansas City — Nebraska's Jerry Fort has been named to the NCAA District Five all-star team by the U.S. Basketball Writers Association and Missouri's Willie Smith has been selected best player in the district.

Others picked were Chuckie Williams and Mike Evans of Kansas State, Norman Cook of Kansas, Hercle Ivy of Iowa State, Anthony Roberts of Oral Roberts, Jim Kennedy of Missouri, Rick Apke of Creighton, and Bob Elmore of Wichita State.

The writers' group named Notre Dame's three-year standout Adrian Dantley and two members of top-ranked Indiana's team, Scott May and Kent Benson to its ten-man All-American squad.

Dantley was named player of the year of the club selected to the Pizza Hut Corporation, financial backer of the USBWA.

Joining those three on the team were Richard Washington of UCLA, John Lucas of Maryland, Bernard King of Tennessee, Earl Tatum of Marquette, Phil Sellers of Rutgers, Mitch Kupchak and Smith.

Members of the selection committee included Bob Owens, sports editor of the Lincoln Star, Gordon White of the New York Times, Jack Polancy of the Erie News, Jimmy Davy of the Nashville Tennessean, John Stewart of the Baltimore Sun, Paul Ritter of the Cincinnati Enquirer, Hollis Biddle of the Waco Tribune, Steve Weston of the Tucson Citizen and Sam Skinner of Skinner News Service.

THE PADDOCK

By Mark Gordon

much insight into why they're picking the teams," Cipriano said. "If they're picking on strengths and records, then Kansas State certainly deserves to go to the NCAA."

Nevertheless, Nebraska is definitely out of the picture with K-State's exclusion from the NCAA field. Even if KSU is chosen for the NIT, the New Yorkers obviously won't select two Big Eight teams.

The Huskers, with a 19-8 mark compiled the third best season ever for a Nebraska team. When NU gained an NIT berth in 1967, it had only won 16 games.

The Huskers played above their ability and potential this season. This wasn't a team of gifted athletes with exceptional size or quickness. It was a team that played together (on most occasions) and under the superb coaching job of Cipriano and assistants Moe Iba, Lonnie Porter and Jennings Austin, was able to give Nebraska followers one of its most exciting seasons in a decade.

That should be worth something. It wasn't to the tournament selectors who based their choices on geography, "big-name" schools and meaningless 20-5 records compiled against college division teams.

It's unfortunate that postseason tournaments, which should be a reward for successful campaigns, are turned into political contests where fine records accomplished against superior teams are meaningless.

Kansas State and Nebraska may not be able to overthrow top-ranked Indiana or powerful Marquette, the two contingents that are probably the two top choices to dethrone UCLA as national champion.

Yet the Big Eight's second and third teams could more than favorably compete with most of the tournament teams. That's one problem with the midlands area — a lack of population and tournament selectors and away from the eastern megapolis always seems to haunt the Big Eight area. Maybe someday it will be corrected.

Big Eight Deserved Better

Three Good Teams

In early December, this column pointed out the poor start of the Big Eight basketball teams. Not only were conference members losing, they were losing to teams that didn't figure to be that talented.

"How can you write such things," stormed Nebraska basketball coach Joe Cipriano. "I guarantee you, by the time this season ends, we'll have three good teams in our conference. I can't tell you which three, but we'll have three."

Cipriano was absolutely correct. Missouri, Kansas State and Nebraska proved to be the three teams that Cipriano said would be good before the season ended.

The problem was that the powers selecting the postseason tournament teams failed to give the Big Eight the recognition it deserved. Missouri, by virtue of winning the Big Eight title, automatically qualified for the NCAA meet.

But Kansas State and Nebraska certainly deserved to gain a postseason berth.

Kansas State, with a 20-7 record as the Big Eight runnerup, surpassed last year's team which went 18-8 in the regular season as the Big Eight's second team. A year ago, 18-8 put KSU in the eastern regionals where it advanced to the finals before losing in overtime to Syracuse.

Now, KSU was bypassed in favor of DePaul for the NCAA tournament. It seems strange that a Chicago area independent would get a bid over a team that almost went to the 1975 NCAA final tournament in San Diego.

Slight Chance

The Wildcats are still available for one of the six spots left in the National Invitational Tournament, which is considering 10 teams for the vacancies.

But don't think coach Jack Hartman's Wildcats are guaranteed an NIT position. There are still less-than-cordial relations between the NIT and the Big Eight after the NIT bypassed Oklahoma a few years back and the subsequent birth of the Commissioners' Conference Tournament.

"I thought the NCAA would pick Kansas State," NU coach Joe Cipriano told UPI. "They certainly have a better record than DePaul. People on the selection committee ought to check their hole card."

"The people on the selection committee haven't given

Hildreth Hoping to Become Sports Center's First Champ

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Editor

In the summer of '72, Sam Sharpe spent six weeks helping the George Cook Construction Co. put up pilings for the foundation of the Nebraska Sports Center at 17th St. and the State Fairgrounds.

Never in his wildest imagination did he expect to coach a team with a chance to become the first state basketball champion in the Sports Center.

It can happen, if Sharpe's sixth-seeded Hildreth can surprise the Class D field in the 60th annual State High School Basketball Tournament, opening Thursday at Lincoln High's Johnson Gym.

What an appropriate place for Sharpe to start his team's title bid in his first year as a head coach. He was a football-basketball-baseball letterman at Lincoln High, graduating in 1970.

"We were 30 feet beneath the court, putting those pilings up. It was hard work," recalls Sharpe, a former all-Big Eight second baseman for Nebraska and son of Cornhusker head baseball coach Tony Sharpe.

Although Sharpe wasn't dreaming of coaching a state championship team four years ago, his Hildreth players were.

Sam Sharpe
Hildreth Coach

"Hildreth is a basketball oriented, state tourney type community," says Sharpe. "These kids told me they've been dreaming of playing in the new fieldhouse since they were in grade school. Now, at least they've got the chance."

Nelson, the season-long Class D ratings leader and the division's top state tournament seed, can achieve an historical rarity with a state championship this weekend.

Nelson won the Class D championship the first year the Coliseum was opened 50 years ago. The Tigers are hoping history repeats itself and they'll also be the first Class D champion in the Sports Center. If Nelson accomplishes the feat, the Tigers will have to defeat a native in the opening round. Gurley coach Bruce Vires, Nelson's first foe Thursday, played for Nelson in 1967.

He spent four years as Gurley's junior varsity coach before moving to the head job this season.

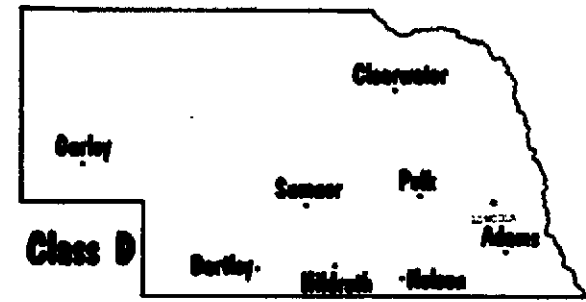

Clearwater coach John Krivohavlev also has something extra going for him in the Class D tournament. He experienced what it was like to win a state championship as a player, starting on Schuyler's 1968 Class B title team with Chuck Jara.

Now, he'd like to know what a state championship feels like as a coach.

Here's a breakdown of the Class D tourney field, according to the order in which they are seeded:

Nelson (20-1)

Coach — Wayne Gumaer, 13 years as a head coach
Career record — 145-74
Nickname — Tigers
Last state qualifier — 1975
Starters — Lorrell Peterson, 6-2 sr. center (13.1 pt. 9 rebound averages); Rick Mazour, 6-0 sr. forward (12 pt. 5 reb.); Roger Bittorf, 6-2 sr. forward (15 pt. 13 reb.); Nick Bittorf, 6-0 jr. guard (13

pt. 3 reb.); Steve Gebers, 6-0 jr. guard (9 pt. 2 reb.)
Coach's capsule — "Our four seniors started for us in last year's opening round state tournament loss to Hickley. The experience should help. Byron Meyer has been a very important sixth man for us, playing both on the outside and inside."

Adams (23-2)

Coach — Larry Coorts, 12 years as a head coach
Career record — 205-69
Nickname — Bombers
Last state qualifier — 1974
Starters — Steve Buss, 6-1 sr. center (19 pt. 8 reb. averages); Eugene Busboom, 6-1 soph forward (9 pt. 7 reb.); Tony Boeve, 6-1 sr. forward (12 pt. 8 reb.); Jeff Veerhuisen, 5-10 jr. guard (18 pt. 3 reb.); Rick Rapp, 6-2 sr. guard (8 pt. 8 reb.)
Coach's capsule — "Kenny Shuck, Marc Gillette and Dave Miller have been valuable reserves. There isn't any one of the first seven team members who hasn't had at least one outstanding night. We letched about the end of January and have played consistently since then."

Bartley (16-3)

Coach — Bob Newcomb, 24 years as a head coach
Career record — 256-211
Nickname — Bombers
Last state qualifier — 1972
Starters — David Moore, 6-4 sr. center (18.6 pt. 11.4 reb. averages); Mike Wood, 6-2 sr. forward (16 pt. 7.7 reb.); Steve Whipple, 6-2 sr. forward (21.9 pt. 9.1 reb.); Gayle Haag, 5-8 sr. guard (5.6 pt. 3.5 reb.); Bill Moore, 5-10 sr. guard (5.8 pt. 3.0 reb.)
Coach's capsule — "Four of this year's varsity players had brothers starting on the state tourney qualifying squad of four years ago. The memory should be fresh for Steve Whipple, Bill Moore, Lloyd Ogorzka and Dan Webb."

Clearwater (16-4)

Coach — John Krivohavlev, three years as a head coach
Nickname — Cardinals
Last state qualifier — 1967
Starters — Rex Hopkins, 6-1 sr. center (8 pt. average); Ron Whinnon, 6-2 sr. forward (11 pt. 11 reb.); Tom Thiele, 5-11 jr. guard (12 pt. 3); Ron Allen, 5-10 sr. guard (8 pt.)

Coach's capsule — "With 5-10 and 6-0 guys, we have to really struggle for rebounds. It was a lot of fun to play in the state tournament. Coaching in it should be quite an experience, too."

Polk (18-5)

Coach — Mike Fleming, two years as a head coach
Career record — 33-13
Nickname — Cubs
Last state qualifier — 1961
Starters — Tom Carlstrom, 6-6 jr. center (10 pt. 8 reb. averages); Dane Anderson, 6-5 sr. forward (16 pt. 16 reb.); Brian Bedient, 5-11 sr. forward (8 pt. 5 reb.); Randy Branting, 5-10 soph guard (7 pt. 2 reb.); Monte Hudson, 5-11 sr. guard (8 pt. 2 reb.)
Coach's capsule — "Dane Anderson is shooting 61% from the field this season. He has 320 rebounds and 43 blocked shots before the regional playoff. Brian Samuelson (5-11 sr.) and Mark Clymer (6-4 soph.) have played important roles from the bench."

Hildreth (14-6)

Coach — Sam Sharpe, first year as a head coach
Career record — 14-4
Nickname — Greyhounds
Last state qualifier — 1971
Starters — Steve Casper, 6-3 jr. center (5 pt. 6 reb. averages); Dan Garrett, 6-2 jr. forward (14 pt. 10 reb.); Crale Bauer, 6-2 soph guard (14 pt. 5 reb.); Dave Black, 5-9 sr. guard (8 pt. 2 reb.); Alan Bunker, 5-10 sr. guard (11 pt. 4.5 reb.)
Coach's capsule — "Todd Jelden (6-2 sophomore) is considered a sixth starter. Defense balanced scoring and determination by a young team has been our strong suits. We're 12-3 since Christmas with 10 of those games on the road. Our last home game was Jan. 30, so we've used to the road.

Sumner (13-6)

Coach — Lynn Moeller, two years as a head coach
Career record — 19-17
Nickname — Mustangs
Last state qualifier — 1964
Starters — Tom Bednar, 5-11 freshman (8 pt. 7.2 reb. averages); Larry Robbins, 6-0 sr. forward (24.4 pt. 12.4 reb.); Bob Hollibaugh, 6-0 sr. forward (9 pt. 8.1 reb.); Mike Hansen, 5-10 soph guard (10.6 pt. 4.5 reb.); Leroy Stevens, 5-5 sr. guard (8.0 pt. 2.1 reb. 6.5 assists)
Coach's capsule — "Five of our six losses have been by one point and four of those were the result of missed free throws in the last 25 seconds of the game. Despite our size, we've been out rebounded only four times this season. The basketball team has brought everyone together for a common cause. The last time Sumner qualified was 1964 when Ron Simmons played."

Gurley (14-7)

Coach — Bruce Vires, first year as a head coach
Career record — 14-7
Nickname — Pirates
Last state qualifier — 1974
Starters — Mike Rowan, 6-7 sr. center (18 pt. 10 reb. averages); Steve Draper, 6-3 sr. forward (16 pt. 9 reb.); Rod Ruisse, 6-0 freshman forward (4 pt. 5 reb.); Mike Hark, 5-11 jr. guard (11 pt. 7 reb.); Kevin Ledner, 5-8 sr. guard (8 pt. 3 reb.)

Nebraska's 1975-76 basketball season apparently has ended. The Cornhuskers, who wrapped up a 19-8 record with an impressive victory Saturday over Iowa State, aren't mentioned among ten schools which will fill six remaining spots in the National Invitation Tournament.

The NIT completed half of its 12-team field Sunday by naming Louisville, Kentucky, Oregon, Providence, North Carolina A & T, and Niagara to the post-season classic, which will be held at New York's Madison Square Garden March 13-21.

The Big Eight Conference's runner-up team, Kansas State, was one of the ten teams from which the NIT selection committee will select to fill the field. Even the Wildcats, who finished 20-7 overall, don't figure to be named.

Among those teams are three nationally ranked outfits — Maryland, North Carolina State, Florida State and Texas A & M.

Additionally, the NIT has available South Carolina, which gave Marquette a battle Sunday in a nationally televised game, San Francisco, North Texas State, and a couple of nearby "drawing cards" in St. Peter's of New Jersey and St. Bonaventure.

Kansas State was by-passed by the NCAA Sunday when DePaul of Chicago, 19-8, was given a spot in the East regional where it will meet Virginia's surprise Atlantic Coast Conference tournament champions.

"The key word in describing our thoughts is surprise and bewilderment of how they could arrive at that decision in view of our play last year," K-State coach Jack Hartman said.

The Wildcats were selected as an at-large team last year with a 19-8 record and went to the Eastern finals where they lost to Syracuse in overtime. The NCAA basketball committee this time apparently was unimpressed with K-State's struggling overtime victory over Oklahoma State in the season windup Saturday afternoon at Stillwater, Okla.

The NCAA took a slap at Kansas State's schedule even though the Wildcats played three teams in the NCAA field (Texas Tech, Arizona and Missouri).

"If you look at the past you see we have developed a tradition of not penalizing teams which face tough competition," Tom Jernstedt said, assistant to the executive director of the NCAA. "We try to reward teams with difficult schedules, which haven't tried to schedule around tough teams for the purpose of getting an invitation to the NCAA tournament."

DePaul beat tournament-bound Memphis State by nine, Virginia Tech by eight, and Cincinnati by ten while losing to Marquette twice and Notre Dame by 21 on the road. The Demons also own wins over George Washington, Louisville at Louisville, Providence and Villanova at Villanova. Among the eight losses were games to Niagara and St. Bonaventure, which made it the ECAC semifinals.

"We felt that represented a pretty good schedule," Jernstedt said. "Those games made an impression on the committee and when it looked at Kansas State's schedule it did not see that kind of competition. K-State beat Arizona, lost to Texas Tech and split with Missouri in games with tournament-bound teams."

Another factor which may have worked in DePaul's favor was that the selection committee originally extended invitations to only four independents — second-ranked Marquette, fifth-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas, No. 10 Notre Dame and unranked Virginia Tech.

The selection of Kentucky was a big surprise in the NIT field. The Wildcats are 15-10, but looked impressive in a nationally televised victory over Alabama Saturday afternoon.

Kentucky has not been to the NIT since 1950, the year before the point-shaving scandals broke out. The Wildcats, last year's NCAA runnerup, won the NIT in 1946 and 1950, finished second in 1947 and third in 1944.

Records of other NIT picks include Louisville, 20-6, Oregon, 19-10, North Carolina A & T, 20-5, Providence, 19-9, and Niagara, 17-11.

Louisville originally had been picked by the NCAA, but the Cardinals were dropped following a decisive 87-76 loss to Memphis State last Friday in the Metro-6 tournament. The NCAA chose Memphis State instead and assigned it to oppose Pepperdine in the West Regional.

Burke's Dickey Faces Friends In Opener

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Editor

For Bob Dickey, Thursday means a lot more than being on the floor for the first center jump in the history of the University of Nebraska Sports Center.

Dickey, a 5-11 senior guard for Omaha Burke, will be squaring off against many of the friends he grew up with in Columbus as the Bulldogs meet the Discoverers at noon in the Class A state tournament opener.

"I called up Jeff Morris (Columbus) 5-10 senior guard starter) today to congratulate him for beating Fremont out in district," Dickey related Sunday.

"He mentioned to me that Thursday's game was going to be a lot like two friends going out to kill each other," Dickey said. "The killer instinct won't be there at first."

Dickey's mixed emotions are natural. He was born in Columbus and lived there until March of his eighth grade year when his father moved to Omaha to train as a district post office manager.

Three of Columbus' starters — Morris, Todd Trofholz and Mark Redrow — and Discoverer varsity squad members Bill Beckenhauer and Allen Korte played on the same North Park grade school team with Dickey in Columbus.

Friends, Neighbors

"They were all from my neighborhood," Dickey pointed out. "We went to junior high together, too, and were good friends. I know they're going to be tough. They're all talented and they all hustle."

Dickey's move to Burke has been a profitable one. He was a varsity letterman on the Bulldogs' state tourney qualifying team as a sophomore and a starter on last year's team, which dropped a two-point decision to champion Omaha Central in the semifinals.

Columbus coach Denny Bagen would welcome that type of experience. "If Bob still feels any commitment to Columbus," Bagen joked, "then we'd like to use him for one game and then Burke can have him back."

Actually, Bagen expects a rousing opening for the new Sports Center. "It'll probably be — no I know it will be — a running game," he said. "We should help get the tourney off to a running start."

Sunset Bowl Leading Teams

York — Sunset Bowl of York and Don Watts of Blair are the current leaders in the teams and men's all-events in the State Legion Bowling tournament, now in its second of six weeks.

Watts has a 1716 score, while Sunset Bowl has 3063.

Others leaders include Duane Hodge with a 719 in the men's singles and Ed Wielege and Lamar Bice of Utica in the men's doubles with a 1359.

Women's leaders include Beauty Lane of York in the teams with a 2714 score; Bonnie Baker and Julie Schuster of Blair in the doubles with a 1167; Donna Chenault of York in the singles and Pat Kropp with a 1613 in the women's all-events.

agrees "there'll be plenty of movement" and definitely feels playing in the first game at the Sports Center is special.

"It's a great thrill just to play in the state tournament," Johnette said. "But playing the first game in a place like that is something you'll remember forever. I just hope it doesn't take any concentration off the game."

Dickey, who has averaged 11 points a game, paid his coach a visit Sunday afternoon. "Bob's extremely excited about playing Columbus and he has a right to be," Johnette said.

"I'll be prepared to go all out," offered Dickey. "I'm sure Columbus will be ready, too. I can't picture any hesitation from anyone."

Columbus counts a five-game winning streak in its 11-7 record entering the tournament. Included in that streak is a 68-51 win at Omaha Northwest, a state tourney qualifier, and a 73-71 homecourt upset win over highly regarded Omaha Benson.

"Dickey watched us play Northwest and at Omaha Bryan

Natural Build Up

Bagen thinks there's a natural tendency to build up the Burke-Columbus matchup since it's the first game in the Sports Center.

He thinks the Discoverers have matured enough during the season to make a representative showing.

"We've got a fair shot," he said, "if the kids don't get nervous."

Creighton Prep (20-2) is the tourney's top Class A seed following Sunday's pairings meeting at the Nebraska School Activities Association.

Crete, Class B's second-seeded team with a 19-2 record, is the only team in the state tourney field with the chance to defend a state championship.

Doane Set For Norfolk St. In NAIA

Kansas City — A battle of the boards is expected in the NAIA first round game between Doane and Norfolk State at 2:45 p.m. Monday at Kansas City's Kemper Arena.

The Doane Tigers, winners of the NAIA District 11 playoffs last week over Hastings, boast a front line average of 6-6, while the Spartans average 6-7. Norfolk State, the District 29 champion, gained its national berth by upsetting 11th ranked Campbell College of North Carolina in the finals of the district playoffs.

Forward Gene Cunningham, a 6-6 senior, paces the Spartan attack with a 23 points per game average and 11 caroms per game. The rest of the Norfolk State front line includes Ray Epps and Melvin Burns who average 19 and 11 points respectively.

Spartan assistant coach Tom Morehead explains his team as "controlled breaking offense and we try to dominate the boards."

"Cunningham can give us help from the outside but we like him to go one-on-one inside," Morehead said.

This is the second straight year in the national tournament for the Spartans and their third time overall. Doane has also been to the meet three times, the last time in 1971, when the Tigers won the district playoffs over Wayne. Doane lost in the first round that year to Central State of Washington.

"It's a lot different than preparing for Hastings, who we've scouted and know what they're going to do," said Doane coach Bob Erickson. "We're just trying to stress general things in practice concentrating on defense."

"Norfolk is in the same position as us, in that they don't know much about us," said Erickson, who was recently named the District 11 coach of the year.

The Tiger defense, which has allowed 73.9 points per game this year, will be given a tough test as Norfolk State averages 91 points per game.

The Tigers will rely on the outside scoring punch of senior guard Joe Wharton, who averages 18.6 points per game and Tom Westover, who has been averaging over 18 points a much insight into why they're picking the teams," Cipriano said. "If they're picking on strengths and records, then Kansas State certainly deserves to go to the NCAA."

Nevertheless, Nebraska is definitely out of the picture with K-State's exclusion from the NCAA field. Even if KSU is chosen for the NIT, the New Yorkers obviously won't select two Big Eight teams.

The Huskers, with a 19-8 mark compiled the third best season ever for a Nebraska team. When NU gained an NIT berth in 1967, it had only won 16 games.

The Huskers played above their ability and potential this season. This wasn't a team of gifted athletes with exceptional size or quickness. It was a team that played together (on most occasions) and under the superb coaching job of Cipriano and assistants Moe Iba, Lonnie Porter and Jennings Austin, was able to give Nebraska followers one of its most exciting seasons in a decade.

That should be worth something. It wasn't to the tournament selectors who based their choices on geography, "big-name" schools and meaningless 20-5 records compiled against college division teams.

It's unfortunate that postseason tournaments, which should be a reward for successful campaigns, are turned into political contests where fine records accomplished against superior teams are meaningless.

Kansas State and Nebraska may not be able to overthrow top-ranked Indiana or powerful Marquette, the two contingents that are probably the two top choices to dethrone UCLA as national champion.

Yet the Big Eight's second and third teams could more than favorably compete with most of the tournament teams. That's one problem with the midlands area — a lack of population and tournament selectors and away from the eastern megapolis always seems to haunt the Big Eight area. Maybe someday it will be corrected.

Big Eight Deserved Better

Three Good Teams

In early December, this column pointed out the poor start of the Big Eight basketball teams. Not only were conference members losing, they were losing to teams that didn't figure to be that talented.

"How can you write such things," stormed Nebraska basketball coach Joe Cipriano. "I guarantee you, by the time this season ends, we'll have three good teams in our conference. I can't tell you which three, but we'll have three."

Cipriano was absolutely correct. Missouri, Kansas State and Nebraska proved to be the three teams that Cipriano said would be good before the season ended.

The problem was that the powers selecting the postseason tournament teams failed to give the Big Eight the recognition it deserved. Missouri, by virtue of winning the Big Eight title, automatically qualified for the NCAA meet.

But Kansas State and Nebraska certainly deserved to gain a postseason berth.

Kansas State, with a 20-7 record as the Big Eight runnerup, surpassed last year's team which went 18-8 in the regular season as the Big Eight's second team. A year ago, 18-8 put KSU in the eastern regions where it advanced to the finals before losing in overtime to Syracuse.

Now, KSU was bypassed in favor of DePaul for the NCAA tournament. It seems strange that a Chicago area independent would get a bid over a team that almost went to the 1975 NCAA final tournament in San Diego.

Slight Chance

The Wildcats are still available for one of the six spots left in the National Invitational Tournament, which is considering 10 teams for the vacancies.

But don't think coach Jack Hartman's Wildcats are guaranteed an NIT position. There are still less-than-cordial relations between the NIT and the Big Eight after the NIT bypassed Oklahoma a few years back and the subsequent birth of the Commissioners' Conference Tournament.

"I thought the NCAA would pick Kansas State," NU coach Joe Cipriano told UPI. "They certainly have a better record than DePaul. People on the selection committee ought to check their hole card."

"The people on the selection committee haven't given

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Editor

In the summer of '72, Sam Sharpe spent six weeks helping the George Cook Construction Co. put up pilings for the foundation of the Nebraska Sports Center at 17th St. and the State Fairgrounds.

Never in his wildest imagination did he expect to coach a team with a chance to become the first state basketball champion in the Sports Center.

It can happen, if Sharpe's sixth-seeded Hildreth can surprise the Class D field in the 66th annual State High School Basketball Tournament, opening Thursday at Lincoln High's Johnson Gym.

What an appropriate place for Sharpe to start his team's title bid in his first year as a head coach. He was a football-basketball-baseball letterman at Lincoln High, graduating in 1970.

"We were 30 feet beneath the court, putting those pilings up. It was hard work," recalls Sharpe, a former all-Big Eight second baseman for Nebraska and son of Cornhusker head baseball coach Tony Sharpe.

Although Sharpe wasn't dreaming of coaching a state championship team four years ago, his Hildreth players were.

Sam Sharpe
Hildreth Coach

"Hildreth is a basketball oriented, state tourney type community," says Sharpe. "These kids told me they've been dreaming of playing in the new fieldhouse since they were in grade school. Now, at least they've got the chance."

Nelson, the season-long Class D ratings leader and the division's top state tournament seed, can achieve an historical rarity with a state championship this weekend.

Nelson won the Class D championship the first year the Coliseum was opened 50 years ago. The Tigers are hoping history repeats itself and they'll also be the first Class D champion in the Sports Center.

If Nelson accomplishes the feat, the Tigers will have to defeat a native in the opening round. Gurley coach Bruce Vires, Nelson's first foe Thursday, played for Nelson in 1967.

He spent four years as Gurley's junior varsity coach before moving to the head job this season.

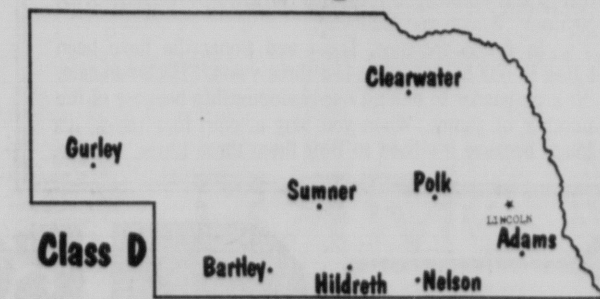

Clearwater coach John Krivohavek also has something extra going for him in the Class D tournament. He experienced what it was like to win a state championship as a player, starting on Schuyler's 1968 Class B title team with Chuck Jura.

Now, he'd like to know what a state championship feels like as a coach.

Class D Breakdown
Here's a breakdown of the Class D tourney field, according to the order in which they are seeded:

Nelson (20-1)

Coach — Wayne Gumaer, 13 years as a head coach.
Career record — 165-74.
Nickname — Tigers.
Last state qualifier — 1975.
Starters — Lorrell Peterson, 6-2 Sr. center (15-point 9-rebound averages); Rick Mazour, 6-0 sr. forward (13 pt., 5 reb.); Roger Bilttoft, 6-2 sr. forward (15 pt., 13 reb.); Nick Bilttoft, 6-0 jr. guard (6 pt., 3 reb.); Steve Gebers, 6-0 jr. guard (9 pt., 2 reb.).

Coach's capsule — "Our four seniors started for us in last year's opening-round state tournament loss to Shickley. The experience should help. Byron Meyer has been a very important sixth man for us, playing both on the outside and inside."

Adams (23-2)

Coach — Larry Coorfs, 12 years as a head coach.
Career record — 205-69.
Nickname — Hornets.
Last state qualifier — 1974.
Starters — Steve Buss, 6-1 sr. center (9 pt., 8 reb. averages); Eugene Busboom, 6-1 soph. forward (9 pt., 7 reb.); Tony Boeve, 6-1 sr. forward (12 pt., 8 reb.); Jeff Veerhusen, 5-10 jr. guard (18 pt., 3 reb.); Rick Rapp, 6-2 sr. guard (8 pt., 8 reb.).
Coach's capsule — "Kenny Shuck, Marc Gillette and Dave Miller have been valuable reserves. There isn't any one of the first seven team members who hasn't had at least one outstanding night. We jelled about the end of January and have played consistently since then."

Clearwater (16-4)

Coach — John Krivohavek, three years as a head coach.
Career record — 256-211.
Nickname — Bombers.
Last state qualifier — 1972.
Starters — David Moore, 6-4 sr. center (18.6 pt., 11.4 reb. averages); Mike Wood, 6-2 sr. forward (16.1 pt., 7.7 reb.); Steve Whipple, 6-2 sr. forward (21.9 pt., 9.1 reb.); Gayle Haag, 5-8 sr. guard (5.6 pt., 3.5 reb.); Bill Moore, 5-10 sr. guard (5.8 pt., 3.0 reb.).
Coach's capsule — "Four of this year's varsity players had brothers starting on the state tourney qualifying squad of four years ago. The memory should be fresh for Steve Whipple, Bill Moore, Lloyd Ogorzko and Dan Webb."

Bartley (16-3)

Coach — Bob Newcomb, 24 years as a head coach.
Career record — 256-211.
Nickname — Bombers.
Last state qualifier — 1972.
Starters — David Moore, 6-4 sr. center (18.6 pt., 11.4 reb. averages); Mike Wood, 6-2 sr. forward (16.1 pt., 7.7 reb.); Steve Whipple, 6-2 sr. forward (21.9 pt., 9.1 reb.); Gayle Haag, 5-8 sr. guard (5.6 pt., 3.5 reb.); Bill Moore, 5-10 sr. guard (5.8 pt., 3.0 reb.).
Coach's capsule — "Four of this year's varsity players had brothers starting on the state tourney qualifying squad of four years ago. The memory should be fresh for Steve Whipple, Bill Moore, Lloyd Ogorzko and Dan Webb."

Coach's capsule — "With 5-10 and 6-0 guys, we have to really struggle for rebounds. It was a lot of fun to play in the state tournament. Coaching in it should be quite an experience, too."

Polk (18-5)

Coach — Mike Fleming, two years as a head coach.
Career record — 33-13.
Nickname — Mustangs.
Last state qualifier — 1961.
Starters — Tom Carlstrom, 6-6 jr. center (10 pt., 9 reb. averages); Dana Anderson, 6-5 sr. forward (16 pt., 16 reb.); Brian Bedient, 5-11 sr. forward (8 pt., 5 reb.); Randy Branting, 5-10 soph. guard (7 pt., 2 reb.); Monte Hudson, 5-11 sr. guard (8 pt., 2 reb.).
Coach's capsule — "Dana Anderson is shooting 61% from the field this season. He had 320 rebounds and 43 blocked shots before the regional playoff. Brian Samuelson (5-11 sr.) and Mark Clymer (6-4 soph.) have played important roles from the bench."

Hildreth (14-6)

Coach — Sam Sharpe, first year as a head coach.
Career record — 14-6.
Nickname — Greyhounds.
Last state qualifier — 1971.
Starters — Steve Casper, 6-3 jr. center (5 pt., 6 reb. averages); Dan Garreits, 6-2 1/2 jr. forward (14 pt., 10 reb.); Crale Bauer, 6-2 soph. forward (14 pt., 5 reb.); Dave Black, 5-9 sr. guard (8 pt., 2 reb.); Alan Bunker, 5-10 1/2 soph. guard (11 pt., 4.5 reb.).
Coach's capsule — "Todd Jelden (6-2 sophomore) is considered a sixth starter. Defense, balanced scoring and determination by a young team have been our strong suits. We're 12-3 since Christmas with 10 of those games on the road. Our last home game was Jan. 30, so we're used to the road."

Jeff Veerhusen
Adams Guard

Sumner (13-6)

Coach — Lynn Moeller, two years as a head coach.
Career record — 19-17.
Nickname — Mustangs.
Last state qualifier — 1964.
Starters — Tom Bednar, 5-11 freshman (8.0 pt., 7.2 reb. averages); Larry Robbins, 6-0 sr. forward (24.4 pt., 12.4 reb.); Bob Hollibaugh, 6-0 sr. forward (9.0 pt., 8.1 reb.); Mike Hansen, 5-10 soph. guard (10.6 pt., 4.5 reb.); LeRoy Stevens, 5-5 sr. guard (8.0 pt., 2.1 reb., 6.5 assists).
Coach's capsule — "Five of our six losses have been by one point and four of those were the result of missed free throws in the last 25 seconds of the game. Despite our size, we've been out-rebounded only four times this season. The basketball team has brought everyone

Roger Bilttoft
Nelson Standout

together for a common cause. The last time Sumner qualified was 1964 when Ron Simmons played."

Gurley (14-7)

Coach — Bruce Vires, first year as a head coach.
Career record — 14-7.
Nickname — Pirates.
Last state qualifier — 1974.
Starters — Mike Rowan, 6-7 sr. center (19 pt., 19 reb. averages); Steve Draper, 6-3 sr. forward (16 pt., 9 reb.); Rod Russell, 6-0 freshman forward (4 pt., 5 reb.); Mike Horst, 5-11 jr. guard (11 pt., 7 reb.); Kevin Ladine, 5-8 sr. guard (8 pt., 3 reb.).
Coach's capsule — "Around Christmas we were playing some very bad basketball and lost five of seven games. Since that time, we have worked hard on defense and ball handling. We have come back now at the close of the season to beat those teams which defeated us earlier."

Hildreth Hoping to Become Sports Center's First Champ

Morning Briefing

Former Champion Dies At 71

Max Rosenbloom

Max Rosenbloom, former world light-heavyweight boxing champion and later a character actor in films, has died in a convalescent home at South Pasadena, Calif. He was 71.

He has been ill for the last seven or eight years with Paget's disease, a progressive bone disease, and had spent the last four years in the convalescent home.

Rosenbloom won the light-heavyweight title on June 25, 1930 dethroning Jimmy Slattery in a 15-round decision.

Basketball

Clutch shooting by guards Lloyd Walton and Butch Lee in a final moments led second-ranked Marquette to a 73-66 victory over South Carolina at Columbia, S.C. in a nationally-televised game.

The director of athletics at North Carolina A&T hailed the selection of the Aggies for a berth in the NIT as showing "a sense of fair play" towards predominantly black schools.

Tennis

Jimmy Connors and the doubles team of Arthur Ashe and Dennis Ralston rolled to victory Sunday as the United States scored a 6-1 World Cup triumph and broke Australia's four-year domination of the event.

Billie Jean King, Vitas Gerulaitis and four other leading American players meet a seven-member Russian squad Monday and Tuesday in the opening matches of the first U.S.-Soviet tennis tournament in Moscow.

Other Sports

Veteran all-pro defensive standout Dick Anderson of the Miami Dolphins was elected president of the NFL players Association.

Dave Mareis of Skyland, N.C. barely held off Richard Petty to win the eighth annual Richmond 400 Grand National, stock car race.

Gary Player, the only foreign champion in Masters tournament history, was among 15 foreigners extended invitations to compete in the April 8-11 meet.

Indiana won its 16th straight Big Ten swimming title, Michigan gained its first Big Ten indoor track crown since 1964 and Wisconsin won its first Big Ten fencing title ever in weekend conference title competition.

Sheila Young won the 500 and 1,000 meters again Sunday to give her a sweep of all four races and a second consecutive women's sprint speed-skating championship at Berlin. It was her third world sprint title in four years.

Royal Glint Wins Santa Anita 'Cap

ARCADIA, Calif. (UPI) — Eastern invader Royal Glint held off the closing bid of Ancient Title to score a nose victory Sunday in the 38th running of the $255,900 Santa Anita Handicap, one of the nation's outstanding thoroughbred races.

With his victory, Royal Glint became the first eastern horse shipped in especially for the Santa Anita Handicap to win the blue ribbon event. Lightning Mandate, the betting favorite of the huge crowd of 65,000, was third and Ensign Ruken, a field horse, was fourth in the bulky field of 15.

Royal Glint, victorious in the Grey Lag Handicap in New York in his last start, raced the 1-1/4 miles in the good time of 2:00.2-5.

Despite his outstanding record in the East and a powerful second last fall in the $350,000 National Thoroughbred Championship at the Oak Tree meeting, Royal Glint was sent off as fourth choice at 6-1 odds. He returned $14.00, $6.40 and $4.20 Ancient Title was allowed to get away at even longer odds, 9-1, and paid $9.80 and $7.00. Lightning Mandate paid $4.40 to show.

The victory was worth $155,900 and increased the 6-year-old gelding's earnings to $728,808.

Back in the pack were such noted performers as Dahlia, Avatar, Tizza, Gay Style and Delcia.

Paid Tribute and No Bias, both field horses, battled for the early lead with Royal Glint in third position as jockey Jorge Tejera kept his mount close to the leaders. Going down the backstretch, Royal Glint moved up to second position and when the field rounded the turn for home, he increased his speed to challenge for the lead.

Ancient Title had been in sixth place down the backstretch, moved to fourth on the turn and made a gallant bid under jockey Sandy Hawley in the drive to the wire.

But Royal Glint, despite sharing topweight of 124 pounds with Ancient Title, was equal to the task and held on for his nose victory.

Royal Glint, son of Round Table and unraced as a 2-year-old, emerged as a stakes winner at 3 and 4 but had his best year last season while winning eight of 17 starts and earning $467,110.

Gregory Boosts UNO To 14th

Fargo, N.D. — Nebraska at Omaha heavyweight wrestler Jim Gregory gained a pin in the wrestling back to earn third place and help the Mavericks to 14th in the NCAA Division II wrestling championships here this weekend.

Gregory, who lost in the quarterfinals to Richard Long of Central Oklahoma, pinned Long in the wrestling back at 5-10 to gain the third place finish.

Other Mavericks reaching the quarterfinals included Phil Gonzales at 142-pounds and 130-pounder Tyrone Johnson.

Gordon Selects Five Winners

Mark Gordon's graded entries selected five winners on Saturday's nine-race card at Fanner Park in Grand Island.

The handicap, a regular feature of the Lincoln newspapers, selected Bill Schuett ($6.40) in the second, Looms Buster ($7.60) in the fourth, Mr. Big Bells ($3.60) in the sixth and Roman Doc ($4.80) in the eighth. The handicap's best bet, Baffle Cat won the seventh at $5.

In addition, the featured Bachman Handicap was selected correctly as Baffle Cat won, Mount Air placed and Aspercel ran third. The entries correctly forecast the sixth-race exacta of Mr. Big Bells and Fan Tan Man for a $21.00 return.

Overall, the entries had 19 of the 27 horses in the money.

Former races Wednesday through Saturday this week Wednesday, originally a dark day, was added to compensate for last Thursday, when the races were canceled by a snowstorm.

Veterans Win In Track Meet

Crete — Tom Bassett and Gary Tarrence of Lincoln won three events each in the Lincoln Track Club's Veterans Indoor meet Sunday at Doane College's Furrer Fieldhouse.

Bassett won the 60-yard dash in 6.5, 300-yard dash :33.5 and high jump 5-4 in the 30-39 division events, while Tarrence captured the 60 in 6.3, 300 in 33.0 and long jump 22-1 in the open division.

Other outstanding marks by Lincolmites included Kurt Neilsen 6-8 in the open high jump; Al Wellman 53-3/4 in the 30-39 shot put; Harry Nolan 9:11 in the open 2-mile; Lou Fritz of Verdon in the 30-39 mile and two mile and Bob Elwood in the 40-49 mile and two mile.

San Diego State Earns NCAA Bid

STOCKTON, Calif. (AP) — Will Connelly scored a game-high 23 points for San Diego State as the Aztecs whipped the University of Pacific 76-64 Sunday to win the Pacific Coast Athletic Association basketball tournament and a berth in the NCAA regionals next week.

The score was tied seven times in the first half before the Aztecs took control. They had a 43-38 edge at intermission and led twice by 13 points in the second half.

The game was decided at the free throw line where San Diego sank 22 of 29 shots, or 76 per cent, to Pacific's 10 of 17, or 59 per cent. San Diego sank 47 per cent of its shots from the floor compared to Pacific's 46 per cent. The Tigers out-rebounded San Diego 39-37.

Both teams each had four players in double figures. Connolly, who scored 47 points in two games this weekend, was voted the tournament's outstanding player.

The victory improved San Diego's record to 16-12, while Pacific finished 14-14 for the season.

The Aztecs, who finished third in regular NCAA play with a 5-5 record, will play UCLA next Saturday in an NCAA regional game.

NWU Baseballers Eye Southern Foes

Tulsa — The Nebraska Wesleyan baseball team opens its 1976 season Monday when the Plainsmen face American Christian in the initial twinnbill of seven doubleheaders on their southern trip.

The Plainsmen will face Oklahoma Baptist, Oklahoma Christian, Oklahoma City University, Bethany Nazarene, Langston University, and Northwest Missouri before returning for a home opener against Northwest Missouri on Mar. 24 at 1 p.m. at Sherman Field.

The trip is termed as a spring training schedule before the Plainsmen begin a 20-doubleheader season as coach Ron Bachman begins his seventh year at the helm.

"We've won the conference title two straight years and tied Dana for the crown the year before that," said Bachman. "We've won 19 conference games in a row and the reason is because of our spring trip. When we go into the NIAC season we're ready to play."

The Plainsmen return 14 lettermen and starters from every position from last year's 14-8 team that won its last ten straight. "Potentially we have the talent to have our best team ever," Bachman said. "We have solid pitching, good defense, good speed and reasonable power."

Last year's top four pitchers — Larry Abel, Jack Ball, Mike Ginn and Ted Hall — return with 1975's leading hitters rightfielder Bob Blake (.356 average) and third baseman Jim Hammersky (.371).

Other returning veterans include centerfielder Mike Reta, second baseman Jerry Reitz, shortstop Scott Votava and catcher Gene Lessman. Freshman Doug Votava and Bruce Reed are strong candidates to break into the starting lineup.

"We've been outside eight times since practice began," Bachman said. "That's the best in five years and it'll be a real bonus to us."

Aside from the Oklahoma trip, this year's schedule includes home and home doubleheaders with each of the NIAC teams plus non-league tilts with Northwest Missouri, UNO, Kearney, Wayne and Bellevue.

"In the conference, Dana and Concordia have been biting at our heels for the last three years," Bachman said. "It'll be harder to defend our championship because of the number of games. When you play a team four times, it's tough because it's hard to beat them three times."

Morning Briefing

Former Champion Dies At 71

Max Rosenbloom

Max Rosenbloom, former world light-heavyweight boxing champion and later a character actor in films, has died in a convalescent home at South Pasadena, Calif. He was 71.

He has been ill for the last seven or eight years with Paget's disease, a progressive bone disease, and had spent the last four years in the convalescent home.

Rosenbloom won the light-heavyweight title on June 25, 1930 dethroning Jimmy Slattery in a 15-round decision.

Basketball

Clutch shooting by guards Lloyd Walton and Butch Lee in a final moments led second-ranked Marquette to a 72-66 victory over South Carolina at Columbia, S.C. in a nationally-televised game.

The director of athletics at North Carolina A&T hailed the selection of the Aggies for a berth in the NIT as showing "a sense of fair play" towards predominantly black schools.

Tennis

Jimmy Connors and the doubles team of Arthur Ashe and Dennis Ralston rolled to victory Sunday as the United States scored a 6-1 World Cup triumph and broke Australia's four-year domination of the event.

Billie Jean King, Vitas Gerulaitis and four other leading American players meet a seven-member Russian squad Monday and Tuesday in the opening matches of the first U.S.-Soviet tennis tournament in Moscow.

Other Sports

Veteran all-pro defensive standout Dick Anderson of the Miami Dolphins was elected president of the NFL players Association.

Dave Maris of Skyland, N.C. barely held off Richard Petty to win the eighth annual Richmond 400 Grand National, stock car race.

Gary Player, the only foreign champion in Masters tournament history, was among 15 foreigners extended invitations to compete in the April 8-11 meet.

Indiana won its 16th straight Big Ten swimming title, Michigan gained its first Big Ten indoor track crown since 1964 and Wisconsin won its first Big Ten fencing title ever in weekend conference title competition.

Sheila Young won the 500 and 1,000 meters again Sunday to give her a sweep of all four races and a second consecutive women's sprint speed-skating championship at Berlin. It was her third world sprint title in four years.

Royal Glint Wins Santa Anita 'Cap

ARCADIA, Calif. (UPI) — Eastern invader Royal Glint held off the closing bid of Ancient Title to score a nose victory Sunday in the 39th running of the $255,900 Santa Anita Handicap, one of the nation's outstanding thoroughbred races.

With his victory, Royal Glint became the first eastern horse shipped in especially for the Santa Anita Handicap to win the blue ribbon event. Lightning Mandate, the betting favorite of the huge crowd of 65,000, was third and Ensign Ruken, a field horse, was fourth in the bulky field of 15.

Royal Glint, victorious in the Grey Lag Handicap in New York in his last start, raced the 1-1/4 miles in the good time of 2:00.2-5.

Despite his outstanding record in the East and a powerful second last fall in the $350,000 National Thoroughbred Championship at the Oak Tree meeting, Royal Glint was sent off as fourth choice at 6-1 odds. He returned $14.00, $6.40 and $4.20. Ancient Title was allowed to get away at even longer odds, 9-1, and paid $9.80 and $7.00. Lightning Mandate paid $4.40 to show.

The victory was worth $155,900 and increased the 6-year-old gelding's earnings to $728,808.

Back in the pack were such noted performers as Dahlia, Avatar, Tizna, Gay Style and Delcia.

Paid Tribute and No Bias, both field horses, battled for the early lead with Royal Glint in third position as jockey Jorge Tejeira kept his mount close to the leaders. Going down the backstretch, Royal Glint moved up to second position and when the field rounded the turn for home, he increased his speed to challenge for the lead.

Ancient Title had been in sixth place down the backstretch, moved to fourth on the turn and made a gallant bid under jockey Sandy Hawley in the drive to the wire.

But Royal Glint, despite sharing topweight of 124 pounds with Ancient Title, was equal to the task and held on for his nose victory.

Royal Glint, son of Round Table and unraced as a 2-year-old, emerged as a stakes winner at 3 and 4 but had his best year last season while winning eight of 17 starts and earning $487,110.

Gregory Boosts UNO To 14th

Fargo, N.D. — Nebraska at Omaha heavyweight wrestler Jim Gregory gained a pin in the wrestlingbacks to earn third place and help the Mavericks to 14th in the NCAA Division II wrestling championships here this weekend.

Gregory, who lost in the quarterfinals to Richard Long of Central Oklahoma, pinned Long in the wrestlingbacks at 5:10 to gain the third place finish.

Other Mavericks reaching the quarterfinals included Phil Gonzales at 142-pounds and 126-pounder Tyrone Johnson.

California-Bakersfield won the team title in the meet.

Gordon Selects Five Winners

Mark Gordon's graded entries selected five winners on Saturday's nine-race card at Fanner Park in Grand Island.

The handicap, a regular feature of the Lincoln newspapers, selected Bill Schuett ($6.40) in the second, Loons Buster ($7.60) in the fourth, Mr. Big Bells ($3.60) in the sixth and Roman Doc ($4.80) in the eighth. The handicap's best bet, Baffle Cat won the seventh at $5.

In addition, the featured Bachman Handicap was selected correctly as Baffle Cat won, Mount Air played and Aspercel ran third. The entries correctly forecast the sixth-race exacta of Mr. Big Bells and Fan Tan Man for a $21.00 return.

Overall, the entries had 19 of the 27 horses in the money.

Fanner races Wednesday through Saturday this week. Wednesday, originally a dark day, was added to compensate for last Thursday, when the races were canceled by a snowstorm.

Veterans Win In Track Meet

Crete — Tom Bassett and Gary Tarrence of Lincoln won three events each in the Lincoln Track Club's Veterans Indoor meet Sunday at Doane College's Furrer Fieldhouse.

Bassett won the 60-yard dash in 6.5, 300-yard dash :33.5 and high jump 5-4 in the 30-39 division events, while Tarrence captured the 60 in 6.3, 300 in 33.0 and long jump 22-1 in the open division.

Other outstanding marks by Lincolnites included Kurt Neilsen 6-8 in the open high jump; Al Wellman 53-3 1/2 in the 30-39 shot put; Harry Nolan 9:11 in the open 2-mile; Lou Fritz of Verdon in the 30-39 mile and two mile and Bob Elwood in the 40-49 mile and two mile.

Walkers, Wedman Pace Kings Past Milwaukee

KANSAS CITY (AP) — On the strength of a brilliant second-half performance by Jimmie Walker and Scott Wedman, the Kansas City Kings inched closer to a playoff position by stopping the Milwaukee Bucks 113-97 in National Basketball Association action Sunday.

Combined with Detroit's loss to Boston, the Kings are only one game behind the second-place Pistons in the Midwest Division and four behind the Bucks.

The Kings led 31-27 after one quarter on the strength of 12 points by guard Nate Archibald, who finished with a game-high 29 points and 10 assists while connecting on 13 of 13 from the free throw line.

Kansas City, leading by five at the intermission 55-50, succumbed to the hot shooting of Milwaukee's Bob Dandridge, who scored 14 of his 24 points in the third quarter comeback.

The Bucks took a three-point lead, 74-71, with 3:40 left in the quarter before the Kings came storming back with 12 unanswered points.

Walker hit five of six shots from the field in that span as Kansas City led 85-77 at the end of three.

The Kings put the game away midway through the fourth quarter when Wedman scored 13 of his 19 second-half points.

The Kings capitalized on 20 Milwaukee turnovers, converting them into 18 points. Walker and Wedman finished the game with 24 and 21 points while forward Larry McNeill came off the bench to score 14 points and pull down the game-high 12 rebounds.

Brian Winters added 22 points to the Milwaukee cause.

Valentino's Nets Tournery Victory

Omaha — Robin Hruby scored 19 points to lead Valentino's of Lincoln to a 66-57 win over the Omaha Cannons in a semifinal game of the Midwestern AAU Senior State Basketball tournament Sunday afternoon at Omaha Burke High School.

Barb Hart tallied 18 points and Deb Van Dusen scored 13 to aid the defending champions, Valentino's, formerly Roberts.

The Lincoln girls face the Omaha Hawkettes Tuesday in the finals of the double elimination at 7:30 p.m. at Creighton Prep. If the Lincoln team wins then the two teams play again on Wednesday, as the Hawkettes have no losses and the Valentino's team has one.

Lightning Bolt Strikes Statue In St. Peter's

Vatican City (AP) — Lightning damaged one of the statues of saints and martyrs decorating the upper part of the Bernini Colonnade in St. Peter's Square during a rainstorm.

Vatican officials said one arm of the statue was broken to pieces by the lightning and fell on the ground but nobody was injured. They said the coat of arms of Pope Alexander VII, who ruled the Roman Catholic church from 1655 to 1667, was also slightly damaged by the lightning. The papal insignia was beside the damaged statue.

There are 140 statues in the colonnade.

Dr. Frank H. Tanner of Lincoln, former president of the Nebraska State Medical Association, died Sunday in Phoenix, Ariz., at age 62.

A Lincoln native, Dr. Tanner graduated from the University of Nebraska in 1936 and received his M.D. from the NU College of Medicine in 1938. He chose to specialize in pathology, and took his post-graduate training at the University Hospital in Omaha and the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn.

He returned to Lincoln in 1943 to become pathologist and director of laboratories for the Lincoln hospitals, a post he held for many years. Beginning in 1963, Dr. Tanner was a physician's coroner for Lancaster County.

During his career he also was a consultant in pathology at the Lincoln Veterans Hospital and a member of the dental and medical faculties at the NU College of Medicine.

Besides serving as president of the state medical association from 1968 to 1969, Dr. Tanner was president of the Lancaster County Medical Society, the Nebraska Association of Examiners in Medicine and Surgery.

He was a member of the American Society of Clinical Pathologists, the Nebraska Academy of Science, the Nebraska Cancer Research and Educational Society, the Lincoln Junior Chamber of Commerce, Kiwanis Club, YMCA, and the Alpha Tau Omega and Nu Sigma fraternities.

Survivors are his wife, Ruth; three daughters, Mrs. J.A. (Judith) Rodriguez of Rochester, Minn.; Mrs. John (Barbara) Musselman of Omaha; Nancy Tanner of Tempe, Ariz.; a sister, Mrs. Lloyd (Ruth) Burt of Lincoln, and two grandchildren.

Unicam Seat Eyed By Mrs. Ohmstede

Omaha (UPI) — Nebraska's Democratic national committeewoman said Sunday she was "99 1/2 percent certain" she would seek the Legislature's 37th District seat.

Mrs. Frances Ohmstede of Guide Rock made the disclosure near the end of the state Democratic Central Committee meeting in Omaha. She said she would make a definite announcement later this week. The seat is now held by state Sen. Gary Anderson of Axtell who has said he will not seek re-election.

She told UPI in an interview she had plans to seek re-election to her party post and there were no regulations stipulating she couldn't be a state senator and a national committeewoman at the same time.

"I want to create a team effort in my district," Mrs. Ohmstede said. "I want our people involved in all facets of the Legislature."

"The present trend is for a senator to report what has happened back to the people after it's already over with," she said. "I would hope to change that trend to demonstrate that people can, should and want to report to a senator first what they want to happen if given the opportunity."

Mrs. Ohmstede said she had some very definite ideas about how this can be done.

"If I am elected," she said, "I will attempt to demonstrate to the rest of the state how the people and their representative can be a participating partnership in state government."

A farm wife, Mrs. Ohmstede has been active in Democratic Party affairs for more than 10 years. She is in her 4th year as

Demos Elect 3 To Temporary National Posts

Omaha (UPI) — The Nebraska State Democratic Central Committee Sunday elected three persons who will serve as temporary national convention committee members.

State National Committeewoman Frances Ohmstede of Guide Rock was elected to the national party's platform committee. James Roberts, a central committee member from Lincoln, to the rules committee, and Buster Brown, associate central committee chairman from Palmer, to the credentials committee.

Mrs. Ohmstede defeated former Gov. Frank B. Morrison of Omaha 41 to 23, while Brown won 50 to 11 over Steve Flader, Fillmore County Democratic treasurer from Geneva.

Roberts won in a three-way race with Larry Doyle, a central committee member from Benkelman, and Florine Koole, a committee member from Omaha.

Astronaut To Be Here On Tuesday

An astronaut currently involved with the still-untested space shuttle project will be in Lincoln Tuesday.

Col. Joe Henry Engle will meet with University of Nebraska Lincoln students and faculty in the afternoon and will appear before the Nebraska Legislature in the morning. He also will speak at a noon meeting of the Lincoln Rotary Club.

Engle, 43, has been with the space program since 1966. He was a back-up lunar module pilot for the Apollo 14 mission. He currently is assisting with design and development of the space shuttle, a vehicle which will be able to carry seven men into orbit and land on a runway.

The astronaut's visit is sponsored by N.A.S. Arnold Air Society and Angel Flight in cooperation with the Teachers College/Link Foundation Aerospace Project.

Conference Set April 10 On Individualized Basics

The Lincoln Public Schools will sponsor a conference on teaching basic skills through individualized guided education (IGE) at McPhee School April 10.

Dr. William Bechtold of Southwest State University, Marshall, Minn., will be the featured speaker. A past principal he is the author of "Individualizing Instruction," "Keeping Your Sanity," and the new "Individualized Guided Social Studies."

Other speakers include Elaine McGregor of Madison, Wis., a former teacher and principal in IGE schools, now a nationwide consultant on IGE and individualized guided motivation, and Marie Cardamone, a Des Moines elementary consultant and teacher of Institute for Development of Educational Activities (IDEA) concepts.

The program will address helping each student learn the basics better according to his own needs through the three R's: individualized instruction, organization, the affective side of basic education, and how to support an IGE program.

Unicam Seat Eyed By Mrs. Ohmstede

Omaha (UPI) — Nebraska's Democratic national committeewoman said Sunday she was "99 1/2 percent certain" she would seek the Legislature's 37th District seat.

Mrs. Frances Ohmstede of Guide Rock made the disclosure near the end of the state Democratic Central Committee meeting in Omaha. She said she would make a definite announcement later this week. The seat is now held by state Sen. Gary Anderson of Axtell who has said he won't seek re-election.

She told UPI in an interview she had plans to seek re-election to her party post and there were no regulations stipulating she couldn't be a state senator and a national committeewoman at the same time.

"I want to create a team effort in my district," Mrs. Ohmstede said. "I want our people involved in all facets of the Legislature."

"The present trend is for a senator to report what has happened back to the people after it is already over with," she said. "I would hope to change that trend to demonstrate that people can, should and want to report to a senator first what they want to happen if given the opportunity."

Mrs. Ohmstede said she had some "very definite ideas about how this can be done."

"If I am elected," she said, "I will attempt to demonstrate to the rest of the state how the people and their representative can be a participating partnership in state government."

A farm wife, Mrs. Ohmstede has been active in Democratic Party affairs for more than 10 years. She is in her 4th year as national committeewoman.

Her announcement about her "almost certain candidacy" came after the state central committee had approved a resolution sponsored by Dianna Schimek, First Congressional District associate chairman from Lincoln.

The resolution implied if a Democrat wasn't among the candidates for a particular legislative or other elective post, the closest party official responsible should feel himself "compelled" to run.

Mrs. Ohmstede said she backed the resolution, and then jokingly added, "I can't find anybody" to seek Anderson's post and proceeded to disclose her own plans.

She and her husband, Bryce, are the parents of three grown children.

Conference Set April 10 On Individualized Basics

The Lincoln Public Schools will sponsor a conference on teaching basic skills through individually guided education (IGE) at McPhee School April 10.

Dr. William Bechtold of Southwest State University, Marshall, Minn., will be the featured speaker. A past principal, he is the author of "Individualizing Instruction," "Keeping Your Sanity," and the new "Individually Guided School Studies."

Other speakers include Elaine McGregor of Madison, Wis., a former teacher and principal in IGE schools, now a nationwide consultant on IGE and individually guided motivation, and Marie Cardamone, a Des Moines elementary consultant and teacher of Institute for Development of Educational Activities (IDEA) concepts.

The program will address helping each student learn the basics better according to his own needs, through the three R's, individualized instruction organization, the affective side of basic education, and how to support an IGE program.

Mrs. Ohmstede defeated former Gov. Frank B. Morrison of Omaha 41 to 23, while Brown won 50 to 11 over Steve Flader, Fillmore County Democratic treasurer from Geneva.

Roberts won in a three-way race with Larry Doyle, a central committee member from Benkleman, and Florine Koole, a committee member from Omaha.

Demos Elect 3 To Temporary National Posts

Omaha (UPI) — The Nebraska State Democratic Central Committee Sunday elected three persons who will serve as temporary national convention committee members.

State National Committeewoman Francis Ohmstede of Guide Rock was elected to the national party's platform committee, James Roberts, a central committee member from Lincoln, to the rules committee, and Buster Brown, associate central committee chairman from Palmer, to the credentials committee.

Mrs. Ohmstede defeated former Gov. Frank B. Morrison of Omaha 41 to 23, while Brown won 50 to 11 over Steve Flader, Fillmore County Democratic treasurer from Geneva.

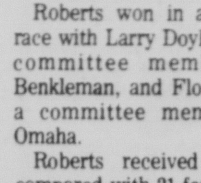

Roberts won in a three-way race with Larry Doyle, a central committee member from Benkleman, and Florine Koole, a committee member from Omaha.

Group Called Empire Builder

Omaha (AP) — Omaha Paper Stock Co. Saturday accused non-profit Keep Omaha Beautiful of trying to build a taxpayer-subsidized "business empire" in competition with private enterprise.

Omaha Paper Stock suggested Keep Omaha Beautiful drop its recycling business and focus instead on helping citizens improve the environment.

The company's comments came three days after Keep Omaha Beautiful said it would sell many recyclables to outlets other than Omaha Paper Stock, since the latter paid it only $10 a ton for newspaper, yet received $40 a ton for it.

Astronaut To Be Here On Tuesday

An astronaut currently involved with the still-untested space shuttle project will be in Lincoln Tuesday.

Col. Joe Henry Engle will meet with University of Nebraska Lincoln students and faculty in the afternoon and will appear before the Nebraska Legislature in the morning. He also will speak at a noon meeting of the Lincoln Rotary Club.

Engle, 43, has been with the space program since 1966. He was a back-up lunar module pilot for the Apollo 14 mission. He currently is assisting with design and development of the space shuttle, a vehicle which will be able to carry seven men into orbit and land on a runway.

The astronaut's visit is sponsored by NU's Arnold Air Society and Angel Flight in cooperation with the Teachers College/Link Foundation Aerospace Project.

Back-To-School Class March 15 For Adults Only

A "Back-to-School Workshop" for the non-traditional adult student is set for March 15 at 6:30 p.m. at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education.

The workshop is for men and women interested in enrolling or returning to the university as a student. It is sponsored by the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension Division and Alumni Association.

NU advisers and administrators from admissions, registrations, counseling, financial aids offices and colleges will be on hand to explain procedures and policies of the university. Information on class schedules, recommended courses and degree requirements will be provided for undergraduate and graduate students. Admissions materials and worksheets for pre-registration will be available.

More information is available from the University Extension Division, 511 Nebraska Hall, Lincoln, telephone 472-2171.

Tito, Castro Have Talk On Angola

Belgrade, Yugoslavia (UPI) — President Josip Tito, meeting on a tiny Adriatic island with Cuban Premier Fidel Castro Sunday, hailed the Marxist victory in Angola but stopped short of endorsing Cuba's intervention.

Castro came to Yugoslavia, according to Western sources, to patch up differences with Tito over Cuba's decision to send 12,000 soldiers to fight in the Angolan civil war.

The two Communist leaders began their second day of talks on Vanga, a tiny island adjacent to Brioni where Tito showed Castro his wine cellar.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SIDNEY OMAR

Monday, March 8

Quote from Virgo actor Robert Blake: "If you can't pay the price, don't roll the dice!"

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Gather resources. Take inventory. Organize priorities. Deal from position of strength. Accept added responsibility. Cancer Capricorn persons could be very much in picture. Trip may have to be temporarily cancelled. Relative could be having delusions of grandeur.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Check money situation. Element of deception could be present. Someone wants something without paying for it. You could be intended victim. Know it and be aware. Alert ready to protect yourself in clinic. Avoid self-deception. See people as they actually are, not merely as you wish they could be.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Highlight pioneering spirit. Stress original approach. Be sure you are here and where you are going. Aquarian could play significant role. Much that occurs is apt to take place behind the scenes. Aura of glamour, mystery surrounding circumstances that usually are considered ordinary.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Diversity — be versatile. Give full play to intellectual curiosity. Expand mental-emotional horizons. Quick changes indicated where trends are concerned. Gemini-Virgo-Sagittarius could figure prominently.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Slowdown of activities could occur. Bottleneck might affect property negotiations. Individual who makes promises should be called on to produce facts, figures. Maintain self-esteem. Don't sell yourself short.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Hold off on commitment which affects travel, long-range plans, studies. Element of illusion exists. You are not seeing picture in sharp focus. Know it and stop taking things for granted.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Money should be put in escrow. Means protect your interests. Promises are fine but get them in writing. Partner or mate could be overly enthusiastic. Be considerate where family is concerned but make up your own mind and base decision on hard cash, not cred.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): World of illusion permeates — you may find yourself involved in bizarre scheme. Be aware, prepared and refuse to be lured. Message will become increasingly clear. Pisces-Virgo could figure prominently.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You see in realistic way, but reality may not suit preconceived notions. Take your choice — being rational or living in a dream. Everything is foreseen but free will is given. Ponder it and think enough of yourself to obtain security, emotional and otherwise.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): A relationship is put to test. You find out whether you're in love, infatuated or merely bored with current friend of life. Don't dream. Know it and be assertive. Refuse to give up something for nothing.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Get appraisal. Be sure you know the worth of what you own. Be independent in asking for proof. One who says you are too forward is stirring issues and whistling in dark. Know it and be assertive. Refuse to give up something for nothing.

IF MARCH 8 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY — you are creative, a good organizer, director — you bring together talent, make opposing factions see need of working as a team. You are a leader. You also are stubborn, temperamental and sentimental. Capricorn-Cancer persons play important roles in your life. October will be one of your most significant months in 1976.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 4, add 2. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST
By SIDNEY OMARR

Monday, March 8

Quote from Virgo actor Robert Blake: "If you can't pay the price, don't roll the dice!"

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Gather resources, take inventory. Organize priorities. Deal from position of strength. Accept added responsibility. Cancer, Capricorn persons could be very much in picture. Trip may have to be temporarily cancelled. Relative could be having delusions of grandeur.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Check money situation. Element of deception could be present. Someone wants something without paying for it. You could be "intended victim." Know it and be aware, alert, ready to protect yourself in clinch. Avoid self-deception; see people as they actually are, not merely as you wish they could be.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Highlight pioneering spirit. Stress original approach. Be independent, creative. Falling in love could be very much on agenda. Maintain balance, humor. Don't take too seriously the whisperings of "sweet nothings."

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Examine motives. Decide why you are here and where you are going. Aquarian could play significant role. Much that occurs is apt to take place behind the scenes. Aura of glamor, mystery surround circumstances that usually are considered ordinary.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Diversity — be versatile. Give full play to intellectual curiosity. Expand mental-emotional horizons. Quick changes indicated where friends are concerned. Gemini, Virgo, Sagittarius could figure prominently.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Slowdown of activities could occur. Bottleneck might affect property negotiations. Individual who makes promises should be called on to produce facts, figures. Maintain self-esteem. Don't sell yourself short.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Hold off on commitment which affects travel, long-range plans, studies. Element of illusion exists. You are not seeing picture in sharp focus. Know it and stop taking things for granted. Ask questions. Do some personal investigation.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Money should be put in escrow. Means protect your interests. Promises are fine, but get them in writing. Partner or mate could be overly enthusiastic. Be considerate where family is concerned, but make up your own mind and base decision on hard cash, not credit.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): World of illusion permeates — you may find yourself involved in bizarre scheme. Be aware, prepared and refuse to be "foll guy." Pisces, Virgo could figure prominently.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You see in realistic way, but reality may not suit preconceived notions. Take your choice — being rational or living in a dream world. Everything is foreseen, but free will is given. Ponder it and think enough of yourself to obtain security, emotional and otherwise.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): A relationship is put to test. You find out whether you're in love, infatuated or merely bored with current trend of life. Don't hang on to losing proposition, emotional or financial. You'll understand!

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Get appraisal. Be sure you know the worth of what you own. Be independent in asking for proof. One who says you are too forward is skirting issues and whistling in dark. Know it and be assertive. Refuse to give up something for nothing.

IF MARCH 8 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are creative, a good organizer, director — you bring together talent, make opposing factions see need of working as a team. You are a leader. You also are stubborn, temperamental and sentimental. Capricorn, Cancer persons play important roles in your life. October will be one of your most significant months in 1976.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
